Failure to put lid on oil prices violates law?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., asked federal energy chief William E. Simon Saturday to explain an "apparent violation" of federal law in his failure to impose ceilings on domestic crude oil prices.

Jackson, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, released a letter to Simon during his committee's third day of hearings on Jackson's proposal for a rollback of uncontrolled crude oil prices which are now bringing as much as $10.35 a barrel.

Jackson said the administration has "the authority and responsibility" under the Petroleum Allocation Act and the Economic Stabilization Act to order a rollback and to establish reasonable price ceilings.

"What is apparently lacking is the will to impose some order and common sense on an economy that is approaching chaos," he said. "The administration's failure to impose ceilings on crude oil prices may well be unlawful."

In his letter to Simon, Jackson asked for an explanation supported by a legal memorandum.

Meantime Sen. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., released a telegram from C. Jackson Grayson Jr., of Southern Methodist University, former chairman of the old Price Commission in the early days of wage-price controls, who said the question of price ceilings on oil "is far too complex to be handled in pending legislation without considerable additional investigation."

Grayson said, "The consequences of moving too quickly and without sufficient background information on such a measure could place this nation in greater international jeopardy by inhibiting rapid movement toward domestic energy self-sufficiency."

Grayson's position was supported by Dr. John H. Lichtblau, executive director of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation in New York; Dr. Thomas Stauffer, research associate of the Center for Middle Eastern Studies at Harvard University, and Warren Davis, chief economist of the Gulf Oil Corp.

Jackson told reporters that $7 a barrel for domestic crude might be a "benchmark" in discussing price ceilings.

Fannin noted that Jackson has indicated he favors including a price rollback and ceilings in the emergency energy bill, on which House-Senate conferees will resume negotiations on Monday, possibly as a substitute for the controversial windfall profits tax provision.

"We fear that the U.S. consumer in both the short and long run may be hurt not only at the filling station and in his pocketbook, but may lose his job if a half-baked price rollback scheme is enacted into law before the Congress can ascertain what its real world effect will be," Fannin said.

Administration appeal: stop violence by truckers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Top administration officials issued an urgent appeal to governors late Saturday to quell spreading highway violence among truckers and help urge striking independent drivers to go back to work.

In telegrams to all 50 governors, the officials deplored the violence and urged "your personal assistance to restoring order and commerce."

The telegrams announced the establishment of toll-free "hot lines" for truckers to report price gouging or problems obtaining fuel directly to Federal Energy Office officials.

In addition, the telegrams said a campaign was being launched urging truckers to take advantage of new regulations allowing them to immediately pass on higher fuel costs to customers, a monitoring system would be set up to check truck line fuel inventories to make sure shortages were being equally shared, and truck stops were being encouraged to sell diesel fuel on Sundays.

Signing the telegrams were Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent, Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan, Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar, and William E. Simon, head of the Federal Energy Office.

The officials said they were disappointed that truckers had not returned to the road in response to government moves earlier in the week to ease their fuel problems.

They said they hoped that was simply because truckers may not have learned of the actions or did not understand their importance. The governors could help by spreading the word, the federal officials said.

As for the violence, the telegram said:

"The irresponsible actions of a militant few have, we fear, been magnified in the amount of work stoppages in the industry. Many responsible truckers who would otherwise return to the road have shown understandable reluctance to operate in the face of such danger.

"We would again urge you to take all necessary and appropriate actions to deter and confront such unlawful actions."

The federal officials said most truckers' complaints had centered on either fuel shortages or lower revenues because of higher fuel prices.

They said they also had considered other complaints but found the actions demanded to be either unsafe, impractical or too slow in achieving results. The proposals rejected included federal subsidies to truck owner-operators being squeezed by fuel prices, raising speed limits for trucks and removing all restrictions on truck usage of highways.

But the officials said they are still considering other remedies to trucker problems, among them proposals for legislation to increase or standardize allowable truck sizes and weights and to provide license plate reciprocity among states.

Meat plants begin to close

Food threat, shutdowns feared

By United Press International

Armed National Guard troops patrolled Pennsylvania highways and scouted for snipers by helicopter in Ohio Saturday in an effort to stem violence in a strike by independent truckers threatening to choke off food supplies and paralyze industries.

Meat packing plants in at least nine states began closing down, raising the prospect of lack of meat and higher supermarket prices. Serious shortages of food were predicted in some states within the next few days.

Thousands of workers in auto, steel and electrical equipment plants were being laid off with even bigger industrial shutdowns feared if the strike by truckers demanding cuts in diesel fuel prices lasts much longer.

In Texas, drivers of 18 tank trucks filled with tequila from Mexico stopped on the shoulders of highways near Laredo to join the strike.

Governors of nine states were called to an emergency meeting in Washington today to discuss with congressmen,federal and state officials and representatives of the trucking industry efforts to reach a settlement in the dispute.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield sent telegrams to federal energy chief William Simon and Senate Commerce Committee Chairman Warren G. Magnuson Saturday calling for immediate action to settle the truckers' strike. He said the strike "could have disastrous effects on the entire country" if it continued.

Gunfire, beatings and other violence, widespread in the three days the strike has gone on so far, were reported Saturday in 12 states—Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Alabama, West Viriginia, Iowa, Tennessee, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, Texas and Kentucky.

Less than a half-dozen injuries were reported all told.

The big rigs blockaded truck stops in Southern California and Georgia, but fuel tankers began moving out of oil depots in New Jersey Saturday after a strike-caused delay in deliveries of gasoline in the New York metropolitan area.

Fleeing rapist shot, dies on waterfront

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A man in his late 30s raped a young masseuse, attempted to rob the massage parlor and then burst into a Berkeley street with a gun in each hand to commandeer a bus Saturday and lead police on a wild chase that ended with his death on the Oakland waterfront.

The unidentified gunman raped a 24-year-old woman after paying $10 for a "regular" massage, said Berkeley police Lt. R. J. Peters. He then sprang from the massage room with two pistols and asked for money.

When the manager refused, he threatened to take two young women hostage, but they wouldn't accompany him, Peters said. The gunman then ran into the street, saw police units, and hijacked the bus, which only had a driver aboard.

Police units from nearby communities and the California Highway Patrol pursued the bus until it finally struck a police car near the Oakland waterfront. The gunman ran fron the bus and fire twice at police. Officers returned the fire and the man stumbled into the water and sank.

Divers and dredging units recovered the body about an hour later. Two guns were found, a .22 automatic in the bus and a .38 revolver in the water.

Ernest Dugar, 40, driver of the A-C Transit bus, had not yet put his vehicle in service for the day when the gunman burst from the Zodiac Massage Parlor, banged on the bus door and showed his gun.

Berkeley police units, alerted to the attempted robbery, had the area surrounded but withheld fire because of pedestrians.

Dugar switched on his bus radio when the gunman boarded and screamed "emergency, emergency, keep the police away." The hijacker fired twice at pursuing police cars in the chase through the streets of Berkeley to the freeway, ending at the estuary, near where the tube for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District enters the bay.

An A-C Transit spokesman said the ordeal showed the great value of having radios on buses. "The various police units knew where he was all the time. He never had a chance to get away."

Dugar was forced to run a roadblock and struck several police vehicles before the bus was finally cornered and stopped at a parklike area on he waterfront.

Sylvester Davis, 23, who was fishing nearby, said the suspect ran from the bus, "fired two shots, jumped the chain and then police started shooting."

"They hit him about twice. Then he stumbled and fell face down into the water," Davis said. "They shot 13 or 14 more shots while he was in the water."

The driver escaped injury but was "one terrified man," a transit official said.

3 terrorists seize Greek ship, threaten hostages

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — Three masked men believed to be Palestinian guerrillas pirated a docked Greek freighter Saturday and threatened to kill two hostages if a pair of condemned fellow commandoes in Greece are not freed, police said.

Authorities discounted a threat by the men to blow up the ship and other crewmen remained aboard. The three were believed armed with pistols and hand grenades.

The Associated Press of Pakistan said the men threatened to kill the chief officer and chief engineer of the 11,500-ton freighter M.V. Vori if Greece does not release the two prisoners. They set a 24-hour deadline that was to expire at 4 p.m. today (7 a.m. EDT), a spokesman said.

The Foreign Ministry in Athens said it had told Pakistan the two men held in Greece would be executed if the gunmen carried out their threats.

Pakistani officials said, however, there were reports Athens was "favorably considering" commuting the death sentences given the two prisoners recently for their part in a bloody airport attack in August.

Authorities said the three gunmen were believed to be Palestinian guerrillas, but police did not identify them as belonging to any group. They slipped aboard the docked vessel while it was unloading its cargo, took the hostages and locked themselves in the captain's cabin, authorities said. The captain was released almost immediately because of a heart condition.

Mom, son join Army as team

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Probably for the first time, a mother and son have joined the Army as a team.

After taking the oath, Ann Loy Stowell, 33, and her son, James C. Andrews, 17, headed Saturday for Ft. Huachuca, Ariz.

They have been guaranteed 12 months duty together while completing basic and advanced individual training.

Mrs. Stowell, who hopes to serve 20 years, said, "I've been interested in the Army for many years, but I couldn't get in until recently when they changed the laws."

Mrs. Stowell said the enlistment of a mother-and-son team will help other mothers realize the opportunities available to them in military service.

Discovered after her death

'Nice little lady' bilks townspeople of $1 million?

CHICAGO (UPI) — A "nice little lady" who ran a small loan company may have bilked the people of Marshall, Ill., out of more than $1 million before she died, a state official said Saturday.

For 20 years, about one in 10 people in Marshall, a town of about 4,000 close to the Indiana border, took their business to Mrs. Sylvia Ritter Millhouse at the Marshall Loan Co. on the city square.

She faithfully paid them interest on savings accounts and mortgage investments.

Then Mrs. Millhouse died of cancer last Dec. 12 at the age of 65, and a big chunk of the investors' money was no where to be found.

"It is the case of the nice little lady who took the town to the cleaners," said Thomas E. Raleigh, supervisor of the Consumers Credit Division of the Illinois Department of Financial Institutions.

Raleigh said he flew to Marshall, some 200 miles south of Chicago, this week and talked to officials, the loan company's receiver and attorneys.

He said he "realized they didn't understand the magnitude of the problem" and called in a task force of agents from the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the state Department of Financial Institutions.

Raleigh said a preliminary audit showed $851,000 missing. The receiver, Larry Woodard, told him the estimate would go over $1 million, he said.

"I may have to get me a job now," said Elmer Renner, 69, who worked 28 years for a chemical company and invested some of his earnings in a mortgage at the Marshall Loan Co. "I'm still hanging my weight. I'll survive. But there's some older age people who got hurt pretty bad."

Raleigh said "350 to 400 people" had money in the Marshall Loan Co. and that "approximately 5,000 mortgages" were involved. Mrs. Millhouse was principally a mortgage broker and sold the same mortgage as many as 10 times, he said.

Renner said he hoped to get some of his money back because he kept his mortgage papers, rather than leaving them in the loan company's vault like many other citizens. He said Mrs. Millhouse never missed an interest payment on his mortgage in the years he held the papers.

Mrs. Millhouse, described as an attractive gray-haired woman, inherited half the business when her late father, Gus Ritter, died after running the firm for 20 years. Neither father nor daughter had a state license to engage in the loan business.

"She paid interest faithfully on savings accounts," Raleigh said, usually at 6 per cent. But Mrs. Millhouse would subtract the interest payment from the saver's principal and show it that way on her books.

Not out to 'get' Nixon's secretary—tapes prober

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Dr. Thomas G. Stockham Jr., one of the experts who testified manual erasures caused an 18 ½-minute gap in a presidential Watergate tape, said Saturday the examining panel was not directed to place the blame on President Nixon's personal secretary or anyone else.

"We weren't asked to go out and prove anything," said Stockham, professor of electrical engineering at the University of Utah and a member of the six-man panel set up to study the tapes.

"We were explicity asked to investigate the authenticity and integrity of the tapes for the White House and for the Watergate special prosecutor," he said in an interview.

Friday, attorney Charles S. Rhyne, who represents Nixon's long-time personal secretary Rose Mary Woods, said the experts "were given the job to prove it was her and they went out to do it . . ."

"They didn't look for anything else except this prejudgment already arrived at," Rhyne said as his client testified before a grand jury investigating the erasure in Washington .

"Nobody has ever been set up any more. And then they turned the experts loose to prove it."

In a report of their conclusions to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica last month, the experts said the gap in the tape was the result of between five and nine separate erasures. They were not allowed to testify how they thought the erasures might have happened or who might have been responsible.

Stockham, asked Saturday if there had been any prejudgment or pressure on the panel to return certain findings, replied: "None."

"We were asked to do this, by the way, by the Watergate special prosecutor, and report our findings to Judge (John) Sirica."

Stockham also disagreed with Rhyne's statements that the experts were more interested in publicity than in scientific findings.

He said a detailed scientific report expected to be completed within "several weeks" would provide the technical foundation for the conclusions the panel presented to Sirica Jan. 15.

"I think that everything will become very clear once that report is made," Stockham said.

Impoundments, bombing eliminated

Won't impeach on two charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some members of the House Judiciary Committee said Saturday they have eliminated at least two possible grounds for impeachment of President Nixon —the impoundment of appropriations and the secret 1970 bombing of Cambodia.

Several Republicans and some Democrats on the committee said they already have decided they would not vote for an article of impeachment on those two counts. But they hesitated to rule out any of the other issues raised in an impeachment resolution listing over 20 possible impeachable acts.

The committee, which is conducting an inquiry into possible grounds for impeaching Nixon, has instructed the staff to submit a legal brief by Feb. 20 with conclusions on what constitutes an impeachable offense. Among the other possible grounds were obstruction of justice, knowledge of a felony and accepting favors for campaign contributions —most of them related to Watergate.

"Impoundment and bombing are not impeachable and border on being frivolous," said Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif.

One Democrat who asked not to be identified added: "We've got 30 or 40 other things we can impeach him on."

One impeachment resolution charged Nixon with violating his oath to uphold the law when he refused to spend an estimated $40 billion after signing appropriations bills into law.

Another resolution charged the President with "misleading the American people" and submitting perjured testimony to the Senate concerning the secret bombing.

Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, answered "clearly not" when asked if these two counts can be considered impeachable offenses.

"I'm sticking with the language of the Constitution" which lists bribery, treason and "high crimes and misdemeanors" for impeachment.

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., said impoundment and bombing were politically insufficient to bring impeachment. He said there was no national consensus the acts were wrong.

"Maybe technically you could prove the case, but politically they would not have sufficient culpability to impeach," he said.

Wiggins said that these two issues must be viewed in an "historical context," adding: "It's not enough to tolerate an act for 200 years and then say this President can't do it."

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., listed several offenses he tentatively believes are not subject to bring impeachment. Among these were impoundment, firing of Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox and the nature of Nixon's income tax returns.

"I regard all of those as beyond the realm of impeachable offenses," McClory said.

ALL TOGETHER, NOW

Marine reservists set a wave tank in the Montclair High science court where students will use the tank to study the effects of waves on land. Science teacher Pete Pollack, who initiated the project in 1968, supervises the setting of the tank into its most advantageous location.

Marine Corps sends in tactical force to aid Montclair high class project

MONCLAIR — A wave tank, built nearly six years ago for use by physics classes, has finally found its resting place at Montclair High School. But it took the Marines, community organizations and industry along with school representatives to get it there.

Pete Pollack, Montclair High School science teacher, initiated the wave tank project in 1968 by requesting plans and photos for construction from a member of the U. S. Corps of Engineers. The tank is designed for use as a scale model to study wave motion, sand movement, erosion, turbulence and hull drag on ships.

Members of the school's vocational metal class spent the entire 1968-69 school year constructing the tank. But according to John Robison, counselor at the school, when the tank was completed a situation "similar to the man who built his sailboat in his basement occurred. "Everything worked fine except that we couldn't get the tank into the area in which we wanted it located."

Because of its size the weight of the tank would not fit through building doors into the science court. That's when the Marines entered the picture.

Robison, who has liaison responsibilities with the armed forces, arranged to have the Marines Corps lift the tank into the court over its surrounding buildings by helicopter.

Clearances were arranged for the tank, which weighs approximately 2,000 pounds and is four foot by four foot by 20 foot.

City Council and school approval was received and Marines Corps red tape was cleared, only to have the energy crisis halt the project.

The Marines notified the school that fuel could not be used for the helicopter lift, but the service continued to work on the project.

On Saturday, 20 Marine reserves volunteers from Echo Co., 2nd battalion, 4th Marine division, San Bernardino, hoisted the tank by forklift to the roof of the science building, pushed the 2,000-pound tank across boards on the roof and slid it down a lumber ramp into the science court.

From the time of the tank construction to its moving, the project was aided by various organizations. Through Earl Ramsey, welding instructor, the White Freightliner Corp. of Chino donated heavy sheet aluminum for the construction of the tank. The Montclair Kiwanis Club donated a welding machine necessary for the welding of aluminum, and the school science department contributed $600 to purchase aluminum plate, glass panels and a welding rod.

Palmer Fitchner, chairman of the industrial arts department, had his vocational wood shop class constructed the ramp for the lowering of the tank into the court, and Kaiser Steel Corp. of Fontana loaned reinforcement planks for the building roof and rollers for the tank's moving.

"We're proud of the cooperation we've received from the community and industry," stated Robison. "As far as we have been able to determine, this is the largest wave tank in any public high school in the United States, and very few colleges have such a tank."

The tank will be on display during the Community Forum meeting at Montclair High School on Feb. 19.

The hope is that the tank, which has never had water in it, won't have any leaks.

Canada says no to U.S. energy needs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States can not count on Canada to get it out of its energy crisis.

Reduced to essentials, that was the message Canadian Energy Minister Donald MacDonald brought to Washington last week.

He made it clear Canada would not cut off its oil and natural gas shipments abruptly, but that it was highly unlikely to lower prices or significantly increase exports.

Two conclusions, emerged from MacDonald's five-hour meeting Thursday with William E. Simon, head of the U.S Federal Energy Office (FEO). Canada will not lower its oil export tax unless international market prices come down and it will not enter into a continental energy sharing agreement with the United States.

The rest of the issues, from pipelines to oil sands development, were left for future discussions in March when Steven Wakefield, deputy FEO administrator, leads a U.S. delegation to Ottawa.

The general trend seems clear. The United States wants more energy at lower prices but Canada does not plan to increase exports and demands "fair market value" for what it does sell.

MacDonald said Canada would continue indefinitely to charge the United States the international market price for oil. He noted that is the price Canada has to pay for its imports of foreign oil to supply Quebec and the Canadian Atlantic provinces.

He rejected Simon's argument that the United States should get a lower price as a "good trading partner." Canadian officials were quick to point out that Canada got no exemption from U.S. soybean controls, 1971 economic measures and other similar American actions.

Canada also is unlikely to increase the volume of its oil exports, MacDonald said, because the major oilfields in Alberta and Saskatchewan are rapidly being depleted and more oil will be needed for the Canadian domestic market.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon Saturday arranged a short weekend at his Camp David mountain retreat in Maryland before meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the White House.

The President may set a tentative timetable for another trip to Moscow when he sees the Russian. Gromyko was to arrive today from Havana, where Soviet Communist chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev is visiting Cuba for the first time.

With Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger sitting in, Nixon and Gromyko will be taking up a wide range of subjects covering United States-Soviet concerns, including the Arab-Israeli peace talks and the status of nuclear strategic arms negotiations.

King Hussein of Jordan also will visit the United States for a week and will be seeing the President next Friday.

But in the main, Nixon was concentrating on domestic programs he will send to Congress before its Lincoln Day recess starting Thursday. The House will be gone until Feb. 13 and Senate until Feb. 18.

Nixon intends to send his $304.4 billion anti-recession budget to Congress on Monday.

His wife, Pat, and daughter Tricia Cox, drove to Camp David at noon and the President was going up later in the day.

On Tuesday the President will unveil his comprehensive health insurance plan which will be aimed at providing all Americans with vastly improved protection against "catastrophic illness." The plan would require employers to offer health insurance to all fulltime employes, with the employer paying 75 per cent of its cost.

Another Presidential message, dealing with an unspecified domestic program, will be forwarded to the lawmakers next week as Nixon accelerates the administration's intention of proving that it is "getting on with the nation's business" despite Watergate.

In other developments, White House aides have promised that Nixon will hold his first full-scale news conference of the year within a couple of weeks. His last news conference was Nov. 17.

Aides projected a possible trip to Europe some time this spring and, if the political climate is right, possibly a swing through the Middle East. No dates have been set.

Quadriplegic is ordained into Catholic priesthood

UPPER DARBY, Pa. (UPI) — Almost nine years after a sledding accident which nearly claimed his life, William Atkinson Saturday became the first quadriplegic in America to be ordained a Roman Catholic priest.

Atkinson, 28, has been confined to a wheelchair since the Feb. 22, 1965, accident, but on special permission from Pope Paul VI, he was ordained into the Augustinian Order by Philadelphia Archbishop Cardinal John Krol.

The ceremony took place at St. Alice's Church, the church Atkinson's family attends in suburban Philadelphia.

Atkinson began studying for the priesthood in 1964 when he entered his novitiate at a monastery near West Point, N.Y. His studies were abruptly interrupted by the accident a year later.

He and another student were tobogganing in blowing snow when their sled went off the trail and slammed into a tree.

Atkinson's spine snapped, and doctors were "astounded" he remained alive during the 45-minute trip to the hospital.

"They counted me out a couple of times," Atkinson recalled. "One time, the doctor said 'that's it,' and called the hospital morgue."

After a rehabilitation program, Atkinson, equipped with a motorized wheelchair, entered Villanova University to continue his seminary studies.

Atkinson's brother, Al, currently is the middle linebacker for the New York Jets of the National Football League.

"I had lots of time to reflect while I was lying on my back," Atkinson said. "I saw all those people just responding to my needs. It was during that time that I put my life back together again. It was this response that encouraged me to keep going forward."

Shadow of doubt about the rest of winter as groundhogs differ

By United Press International

The Groundhog Day report was mixed Saturday, and so was the nation's weather.

Jimmy, the groundhog in Sun Prairie, Wis., burrowed out from under newfallen snow Saturday without seeing his shadow. That, according to tradition, would mean an early spring.

At Punxsutawney, Pa., groundhog Phil's shadow was wan.

"There will be six weeks of mild winter weather," said Sam Light, president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club.

But, the National Weather Service said groundhogs from California to the southern Rockies, on the high Plains and in northern Maine and Florida came up to sunshine, saw their shadows, and scurried back into their burrows. Tradition would say those areas were in for six more weeks of winter.

Temperatures were in the 60s and 70s along the Gulf Coast.

Arts, crafts kiln left on, burns classroom floor

CLAREMONT — When students enrolled in arts and crafts at San Antonio Continuation High attend their first class Monday morning, they are going to be in for a big surprise.

Claremont firemen from Station 1 and 2 and Pomona Engine 3 responded to an alarm Friday at 6:08 p.m. at the high school, and discovered that someone had left an electric kiln on.

The heat from the kiln ignited the wood flooring in the portable trailer classroom, and the weight of the kiln dropped it through the burned hole to the ground below.

Firemen quickly put out the fire.

Wanted: wife for one year

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A 35-year-old native of Bogota, Colombia says he has a high IQ, blue eyes and a colorful character. But what he really needs is a wife.

In an advertisement in the Portland State University newspaper, Frederick Edward Lopez said he wanted an "intelligent, pretty and definitely American" woman under 30 who was willing to marry for a year.

Lopez says he needs an American wife so he can remain in the United States because he gave up U.S. citizenship six years ago to protest "student radicalism" at Berkeley, Calif., a move he now regards as hasty.

His mother was from Kentucky, which gave him the right to citizenship, and Lopez says he spent much of his childhood in New York City.

He has applied as an undergraduate at Portland State and placed his ad for an "interesting" wife in the school newspaper "Vanguard."

"I definitely don't want a feminist libber,' he added. "Good Lord no."

Upland man killed in auto crash

WALNUT — Heavy fog was being blamed by sheriff's deputies Saturday for the auto accident which took the life of a 32-year-old Upland man.

Deputies said a small foreign car driven by Arnold James Epps, a construction engineer, missed a curve on Puente Road and plunged down an embankment into a vacant field.

Epps, of 232 Azure Court, was traveling eastbound sometime prior to 7:30 a.m., near Puente's intersection with Valley Boulevard and Grand Avenue.

His car missed the curve, deputies said, sheared off an irrigation valve and jumped a barbed-wire fence before stopping in the field.

Epps was thrown from the car, and groceries he was carrying were strewn all over the field.

Deputies said they were notified by a passing motorist at 7:30, and estimated the accident could have occurred as early as 5:30 a.m.

The victim is survived by his wife Mary Ellen, 26, who is pregnant with the couple's first child.

LITTER OF DEATH—Debris from wreckage of auto involved in accident that claimed the life of Arnold Epps of Upland lies strewn across field off Puente Road in Walnut. The car missed a curve and plunged down embankment at top of photo. Sheriff's deputies blamed morning fog for accident.

Trucks end blockade

ONTARIO — Drivers of four large tractor-trailer trucks, who used their rigs to blockade diesel fuel pumps at the Union 76 Truck Stop at 4265 E. Holt Blvd Thursday night, rolled out at 3:30 p.m. Friday, according to manager Joesph Bambino.

"They're gone, and the pumps are open," Bambino said Saturday morning. "The trucks aren't pulling into the stop to fuel like they used to. I don't know if there are less trucks on the road, or what," he added.

Former circus aerialist 106

Houdini assistant dies of cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Larry Lewis, the 106-year-old former circus aerialist and assistant of Houdini who ran 6.7 miles every day through Golden Gate Park, died Friday of cancer.

The centenarian could run 100 yards in just over 17 seconds, carry a 200-pound sack across a hotel ballroom, and he boxed every day at the Olympic Club.

Lewis, who became ill only recently, was a veritable dynamo who could outrun and outwalk men half his age.

Dr. S. Barrie Paul, his physician, credited Lewis' health to good living habits and genetics—"the right combination of parents."

Until he "retired" at the age of 105 Lewis also walked several miles every day to his job as a hotel banquet waiter-where he lifted heavy trays.

Born in 1867, Lewis grew up playing with Indian children.

"A Navajo Indian, Chief Iron Shell, my grandfather, taught me the most important thing in life. He told me to never stop exercising and to try to treat everyone as you want to be treated."

When he was 15, he joined P. T. Barnum's circus as an aerialist and acrobat.

For 33 years Lewis was an assistant to the legendary magician Houdini, and until Lewis' death he delighted in amusing friends by escaping from straitjackets.

Lewis hardly had an ounce of fat on his five-foot-seven, 136-pound frame. He subsisted on a daily small portion of lean meat, steamed vegetables and three gallons of spring water. He did not drink, and he did not smoke.

"I can outrun almost anyone, and outwork them, too," he said at age 100. "That shouldn't be so remarkable. It's just that everyone else lets themselves get out of shape.

"Anybody can do what I've done," he once said.

"Nobody is too old, either. If they started regular exercise and worked up to it gradually, they'd be like me, too."

Lewis left no survivors. His second wife, Bessie, whom he married when he was 86, died of a heart attack in 1972 at the age of 75.

Million dollars in drugs seized three jailed on help from WeT.I.P.

POMONA — More than five pounds of heroin and cocaine with a street value close to a million dollars has been seized and three persons arrested by Los Angeles sheriff's undercover officers supplied with information from We Turn In Pushers, Inc. (WeT.I.P.) in Pomona.

Sheriff's undercover officers working out of the Industry substation reported that they had seized the illegal drugs from an apartment at 1436 Riderwood Road in Hacienda Heights on Jan. 24 following an investigation launched on information supplied by We-T.I.P. through an anonymous informant.

Arrested at the Hacienda Heights apartment were Fernando Rivas Zepeda, 33, of Honduras, his American wife, Almena Zepeda, 45, and the 16-year-old girl. All three were booked on charges of possession of heroin and cocaine for sale.

A sheriff's department spokesman said the We T.I.P. information aided them in starting a "buy" program with undercover officers.

The undercover officers made contact with the suspects on three separate occasions. The first time they purchased a small amount of heroin, the second time they purchased a small amount of cocaine and the third time they arranged to buy three and one-fourth pounds of cocaine and 2½ pounds of almost pure heroin for $67,000.

The money was paid and the couple turned the drugs over to the undercover officers who immediately placed the suspects under arrest, the sheriff's spokesman said.

The sheriff's officers said they have never heard of the suspects dealing in the area before the We T.I.P information came into their hands. They said, the suspects may have been dealing in large quantities of heroin and cocaine for as long as seven years.

Bill Brownell, We T.I.P. director said the drug seizure was the largest ever made by the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department using information from We T.I.P., and one of the largest ever made by the sheriff's department.

We T.I.P. is a non-profit, corporation, privately funded by service clubs, business and industry, fraternal organizations, churches, police associations and private citizens without the aid of any government funding.

It offers from $100 to $500 reward to anonymous informants who aid police in the arrest and conviction of drug pushers in dozens of cities throughout California. Informants, with information about suspected drug traffic in local communities may call We T.I.P. at 800-472-7785 or at 714-983-9611 between noon and 5 p.m. weekdays.

Motor-powered rickshaw in India's future?

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India's first motor-powered rickshaw has made its debut on Prime Minister Indria Gandhi's lawn.

A press release handed out at the occasion stated that when Mrs. Gandhi laid the foundation stone at a motorscooter plant in Lucknow last year she "made anxious inquiries about the steps to be taken to reduce the plight of the poor cycle-rickshaw drivers."

Gov. Akbar Ali Khan of Uttar Pradesh state immediately went to work on the problem.

LOSE A POUND A DAY AND MORE

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that guickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical test, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

E-DIET AVAILABLE

To get a copy of this highly successful diet and E Tablets, send $5.00 for 10-day supply (or $7.00 for 20-day supply or $10.00 for 30-day supply) to: Vita-E Diet., Dept. D7, 11526 Burbank Bl., North Hollywood, Cal. 91601 (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied). (Advertisement)

Embattled half-way house can't put out fires fast enough

By JEANNE HERMENOVER
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — An Ontario couple is struggling to continue the operation of a half-way house for female drug and alcohol abusers, women on probation and parole and indigents, despite daily arrests and visits by firemen and police.

"La Casa de Fe" (House of Faith), operated by Mr. and Mrs. David Scott at 1108 N. Euclid Ave., opened on Nov. 15 has been ordered vacated immediately by fire officials because of various fire violations.

The Scotts, maintaining that the women they care for have no other place to go, are trying to stay in the house until a pretrial court date of Feb. 19 when they hope to be able to tell their story to a judge and settle the matter.

The story began prior to Dec. 20 when Ontario firemen inspected the house and found it in violation of Health and Safety Code 13143.6, operating and maintaining a house without provision for fire and safety hazard protection and ordered the house vacated immediately. Firemen stated that their inspection was prompted by a complaint from an unidentified person.

Repeat performance

The firemen returned Dec. 26, found the house still operating, and cited Scott for the code violation and for failure to comply with a notice to vacate. Scott's court appearance was set for Jan. 16.

According to Mr. Scott, in court her husband stated that because they were leasing the half-way house they did not have the authority to correct the fire violations, that the owners of the house could not fix it, and that by the time of his pretrial hearing on Feb. 19 he would have a new location for a half-way house.

On Jan. 31 the firemen returned to the half-way house, inspected again, found specific violations, and left. Mrs. Scott stated that her husband assumed he would wait until his court appearance and let the judge handle the situation, but at 5 p.m. that day he was arrested.

"We were told that we would be harrassed and arrested daily as long as the half-way house continued," stated Mrs. Scott, "just as the topless and bottomless bars locally had been harrassed. And honest to God, I think that is a very poor comparison."

"Because they're here"

The house was inspected again on Friday by firemen. According to Fire Inspector Rick Lebel, the Scotts are being cited "because they are still here. They were told to vacate immediately before Christmas."

"They (the Scotts) could be cited and arrested every day until they vacate," according to Lebel. He stated that the firemen are acting under orders through Battalion Chief Gaford Medley of the district attorney's office.

"The shame of it is," stated Mrs. Scott, "they didn't even know we were here until the middle of December. Our ladies are orderly and we have done all we can to cooperate with the police and public."

Mrs. Scott states that she feels there is some source of pressure which is insisting that the half-way house be moved. "I don't know where the pressure is coming from, but I know there's . . . a lot of it somewhere," she said.

"I have the feeling that the Sunday Christians that live around this neighborhood are the people objecting to our being here. Our ladies have not bothered the people around here and are under constant supervision.

"The local people are fearful of 'dirty dope fiends.' Would they rather these people be out on the street stealing from them? I just don't understand it."

Mrs. Scott stated that during the holiday season she and her husband sent Christmas cards to all the neighbors and invited them to dinner at the half-way house to see what their program was about. Two local residents dropped by.

"This situation is very frustrating," Mrs. Scott said. "Within 30 minutes after the arrest of my husband, the police dropped off an alcoholic girl at our house for us to take care of."

Faith in future

La Casa de Fe is sponsored by the West End Drug Abuse Council (WEDAC), and is funded by the National Institute of Mental Hygiene. According to Mrs. Scott, they receive referrals from many of the agencies in the West End. The Scotts are allowed 20 women to care for and had 19 during the month of January. There are currently five women staying with the Scotts.

"We called our house 'The House of Faith' because we believe that so long as people are living and breathing they can change their lifestyle with help," said Mrs. Scott.

"But obviously pressure is getting concentrated enough and enough people are angered that they just don't want us here."

Retaliation is Senate's mood on oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday approved a resolution warning oil-producing nations that increased oil prices may bring retaliation by the United States.

The resolution, offered by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., was approved by voice vote without debate. It is strictly an expression of Senate sentiment.

The resolution said it was an "urgent matter" to let Canada, Venezuela, and the Arab states know that the United States "views with utmost concern recent oil price increases as detrimental to prices, real income, and employment in the United States..."

The resolution added that "such actions by these countries should not be taken without regard for these effects on the life of the American people and for the possibility of reciprocal economic action by the United States which might adversely affect the economies of these countries..."

Pomonan's photo hobby brings national honors

Two pictures score high in Kodak contest

The two photos were finalists in the 1973 Kodak International Newspaper Snapshot contest. A black-and-white photo depicts two dismounted riders with their horses, silhouetted against a sunset at Palm Desert. The other is a color photograph of two small nude children walking down a country road.

Phillipon, an electrician, has been taking photos for some 35 years. His two pictures were in competition with more than 285,000 entries in the annual contest.

Thousands of visitors view the Kodak exhibit of amateur photographs during the two-month stand at the gallery on the Avenue of the Americas. Entries were received from all over the United States, Mexico and Canada.

Hospital needs teen helpers

POMONA — Teen-agers interested in hospital service are invited to attend a Candy Striper orientation meeting at Casa Colina Hospial Monday at 7:30 p.m.

A parent must accompany each applicant, according to Mrs. Sharon Myers, volunteer director.

Young people between 14 and 18 are eligible.

Child discovers kitchen blaze; $20,000 loss

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Fire which apparently started in a deep fryer in the kitchen and was discovered by a 10-year-old child in the family, did an estimated $20,000 damage to a home at 1347 Edmore St. Friday.

Occupants were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Templin. Their daughter, Christine, first observed the fryer smoking, county firemen said, and moved the basket to a drain position. Moments later she returned to the kitchen to find the fryer in flames.

Firemen arrived at 4:03 p.m. to find the kitchen and dining area of the house fully involved. Men from three engine companies put the fire out.

No one was injured.

Lecturer to narrate film of Hong Kong

POMONA — Film lecturer Willis Butler will narrate a movie shot in Hong Kong at Pomona Forum Monday at 7:45 p.m.

Butler describes Hong Kong

as one of the world's most beautiful, strategic and baffling places, the "Berlin of Asia."

The name Hong Kong originally was a Chinese tribute to the beauty of one of the world's finest natural harbors. The words defy an accurate English translation—they mean fragrant harbor, perfumed harbor or sweet-scented bay.

Originally a Chinese settlement annexed as a British Crown Colony during the 19th-Century era of opium trade and gunboat diplomacy, Hong Kong today stands in the shadow of Red China, a meeting place of Eastern and Western traditions.

There Buddhism, Christianity and ancient superstition thrive side by side. Modern skyscrapers tower over the bazaars, colorful markets and narrow streets of the old city.

Abortion approved in particular cases

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A survey conducted by the National Catholic Reporter says a majority of Catholics, Protestants and Jews favor abortion if the mother's health is endangered, in cases of rape or to prevent the birth of a defective child.

The report conducted by sociologists Andrew M. Greeley and William C. McCready of the National Opinion Research Center in Chicago, was based on information taken from 1,592 Protestants, Catholics and Jews in July, 1972, and 1,367 Protestants, Catholics and Jews a year later.

Russians pulling hair in bobby pin scandal

The newspaper Izvestia said Wednesday that a group of men and women who tried to fill the bobby pin shortage has been jailed for theft and black market operations.

It said the ringleaders of the group stole the pins from a factory in Leningrad and sold them in and around the southern city of Krasnodar.

Izvestia said Sergei Gorokhov, a boilerman at the factory, received 12 years and his wife seven years.

The manageress of a store in Krasnodar which sold the pins, Raisa Kovalyova, got three years and a shop girl at a store in the Black Sea resort of Anapa received four years.

Izvestia said more than one million hair pins were found in the Anapa store. It described Miss Kovalyova as "no novice on the black market."

According to Izvestia, the bobby pin trade began when Mrs. Gorokhov visited Anapa and discovered a "dearth" of pins.

It said she lost no time in finding buyers and obtaining a supply of pins from her husband, who worked alone in the factory at night.

The Anapa shop was unmasked when a customer reported it for overcharging, the newspaper said. This also led to the uncovering of a smaller black market in costume jewelry, it said, and the arrest of a copper plater who had been stealing objects from his factory.

Political professor at seminar

CLAREMONT—Dr. Carl U. Zachrisson Jr., assistant professor of political studies and director of the Education Abroad Program at Pomona College, is taking part in the U.S. State Department's Scholar-Diplomat Seminar for International Organization Affairs.

The week-long seminar in Washington is designed to bring together scholars with government officers who have key jobs in making and executing foreign policy. Zachrisson will be observing the day-to-day work of various State Department agencies and attending discussion sessions with department officials on foreign policy problems.

Walnut school board eyes proposed fuel supply pact

WALNUT — A proposed contract with Los Angeles County for the purchase of diesel and gasoline fuel and other petroleum products for the 1974-75 fiscal year will be under consideration by the Walnut school board Monday night.

Board memers will also be considering use of Walnut High School facilities for carnival purposes by the Walnut Jaycees. The item was tabled from the board's Jan. 21 meeting and was placed on Monday's agenda at the request of the Jaycees.

A first reading of proposed policies relating to summer school and a presentation of the Walnut High School English elective program will be included as agenda items during the meeting.

Mysterious lady is symbol for the U.S.

By MORT REED

If you are one of those who has wondered what the figure atop our Capitol dome represents, rest easy. It is Columbia, an abstract feminine personification of the United States of America.

She has often been mistaken for the Goddess of Liberty or Freedom, and even a relaxed form of the Statue of Justice. But few people recognize her starred crown, sword and sheild as symbols that place her first among all female symbols used officially in the United States.

Strangely enough, on our currency she appears only on the Demand Note of 1861 and the United States Note of 1862. Both are of the same five-dollar denomination and design. However, she has been impersonated by none other than the Goddess of Liberty on the Benjamin Franklin Fifty-dollar Note, Series of 1874.

Why the designer chose to disguise Liberty as Columbia has never been satisifactorily explained. But there she is holding a sword in her right hand with her left arm resting on a Seal of the United States, and crowned by a band of 13 stars.

William Donlon's Catalog of United States Large Size Paper Currency lists the Columbia Note of 1861 at from $285.00 to $1250.00 in Good condition, and $450.00 to $2000.00 Very Good condition depending on the redeemable bank.

The same catalog shows the United States Note (same design) to worth from $35.00 Fine condition to as much as $300.00 Uncirculated. Several factors enter into the price category including, redeemable banks, signatures, dates and the color of the Treasury seal.

Amtrak views: best and worst of times

By ROBERT C. MILLER

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Amtrak, viewed from a reclining coach seat, is a curious blend of comfort, late trains, padded schedules, antiquated equipment and sometimes shoddy service.

Southern Pacific engineer Fred Peltzer of Portland describes the Amtrak operation as "the most expensive bureaucratic boondoggle ever saddled on the backs of the American taxpayers."

A Dunsmuir, Calif., brakeman sniffs at the airline-styled Amtrak methods, decries the lack of S.P. maintenance and believes improved passenger service can only come from rebuilding the roadbed.

But porter Rollie Bronson of Oakland and veteran conductor Bill Henderson of Portland are contagiously optimistic about the future of American train travel under Amtrak supervision, and Amtrak's ability to handle the forecast deluge of passenger traffic resulting from the energy crisis.

Henderson admitted that most of Amtrak's staff were non-railroaders and many were political appointees with a lot to learn. "But," he said, "they're learning and they have one big thing going for them that railroad executives never had: They know that the passenger carrying business is here to stay and they're doing everything possible to promote and improve it. This is quite a change from the pre-Amtrak days when the railroads did everything possible to discourage train travel."

Bronson considers the high percentage of young travelers riding his car encouraging and evidence of a big, untapped market.

"It shows we're appealing to an entirely new segment of the traveling public that we were never able to lure aboard trains before. All we have to do is hold on to them."

Holding on to young—or older — passengers may take some doing if train number 14, the Coast Starlight, typifies Amtrak's performance.

The northbound streamliner arrived at Oakland 20 minutes late because the conductor had been forced to stop the train near San Luis Obispo to warn the engineer to reduce his speed over the poor roadbed.

Coach 1414 was a bargain basement scene with boarding passengers seeking reserved seats already occupied.

The harrassed conductor could give only one piece of advice. "if you see an empty seat, take it."

Ten minutes of the lost time was recovered over the 74 miles between Oakland and Davis. The ticket agent had forecast we'd arrive at Davis "on time" because of the padded schedule.

"This timetable is a full hour slower than what the Shasta Daylight made the run 20 years ago," he explained. "Why? Ask the S.P. Probably the roadbed is so bad its unsafe to go any faster."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Lay out a sensible budget now for present and future needs. You'll stick with it once you can see on paper ways you can save more.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Continue to pursue goals you've recently set for yourself. Get the support of persons who'll help further your aims.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't be comfortable today if you try to set the pace for others. Go along with things as they are — a surprise is in store.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Information will be gained from a serious discussion you'll be having with a friend. A new insight will result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep alert. Unusual opportunity is about you at this time. Don't dismiss it lightly because it comes from a strange source.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Let others know you are serious about an idea you've been toying with so they can help open doors you couldn't on your own.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't take information that comes your way today at face value. Dig into things. You'll be a tough one to fool.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't take information that comes your way today at face value. Dig into things. You'll be a tough one to fool.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to be in the middle solving a misunderstanding between two friends. They couldn't ask for a better arbitrator.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Responsibilities may be a little heavier today. Keep your eyes on the light at the end of the tunnel. Nothing you do now is in vain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Social contacts made now offer more than just pleasant companionship. One in particular has a role in your future.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may need to set an extra plate or two for dinner this evening. Someone who hasn't seen you for awhile is thinking of dropping in.

Your Birthday
February 3, 1974

New friends this year will bring with them new interests and types of advantages you have never been exposed to before. A change in your lifestyle is likely.

For Monday, Feb. 4

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will be very protective where family or those close to you are concerned. This will add to their feelings of security.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Bold ideas will work well for you today, provided you integrate action and thoughts. Once you decide upon something, do it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In commercial dealings look for value behind the price tag. Something you buy now will increase in worth.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Lay aside Mundane projects. Concentrate on interests that you find more stimulating. Today will then truly be productive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your instincts will be unusually sharp today. Be guided by what you feel as well as what you perceive by logic and reason.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you face a challenging condition, prime yourself for it mentally. Once you grasp the idea, victory is possible. The problem loses its potency.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll find yourself in a competitive situation today. You'll have more hidden reserves to call upon than the competition.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) After your mind is made up it will not be easy to change. It's important decisions are practical, not emotional.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An interest that you share will require quite a bit of effort. Do it now, while both are willing to use the necessary energy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The key to co-operation from another: point up the mutual advantages. Once he sees them, he'll respond enthusiastically.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) For your own sense of well-being, don't shirk work you know you should do today. Guilt feelings will result if you do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be in a social frame of mind today. To satisfy your urge for companionship, why not make a lunch date with No. 1?

Your Birthday Feb. 4

Stimulating changes will take place this year concerning your work or career. Advancements will come more quickly, but you'll have to earn them.

America and the future of man

Masters of evolution— but for what purposes?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 19th of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is tutor at St. John's College, Annapolis, Md. Herein he discusses the New Biology and its many applications in modern life.)

Once upon a time, dinosaurs and dodo birds played upon the stage of life. Today, they are no more.

Like many other species — indeed, like most species the Earth has carried — they came, they saw and they were conquered by the flux called evolution, in which extinction is the rule, survival the exception.

And how is it to be with man?

Though he has been on stage a comparatively short time, he bids fair to be numbered among the survivors. Erect, self-conscious, speaking and reasoning, planning and acting, by mind and by hand he has gained dominion. His works are everywhere in evidence. His surroundings display the trophies of his myriad triumphs over a sometimes pliable, sometimes hostile nature.

By the use of his wits, and especially through technology, man appears not only to have won the struggle for existence, but to have emerged as the foreman of creation, if not as a substitute Creator.

Mass suicide

Yet our victory has another side. Man's victories have been expensive. He himself has created dangers perhaps more serious than those he has vanquished. Indeed, some observers warn that we humans are, by our own doings, on the slippery slope toward extinction.

Ironically, it seems that our predicaments are the corollaries of our greatest successes.

In subduing the Earth and establishing our dominion, we have polluted and all but consumed the resources we need to survive. Through improvements in agriculture, sanitation and medicine, we have made more likely the survival of each but have jeopardized, through overpopulation, the survival of all.

By protecting the infirm and the genetically abnormal to the age of reproduction, we are accumulating more and more harmful genes in the human population; extrapolating from current trends, some gloomily forecast a rapidly approaching genetic twilight for mankind.

While our weapons of self-defense become ever more powerful, self-restraint and moderation falter, and, it would seem, greed, fear, hatred and lust for power continue unabated. Perhaps worst of all, our technological triumphs seem to have generated a society too complicated for even the best human minds and hearts to fathom, let alone manage.

Second Genesis

If humankind is indeed becoming increasingly unfit for survival, what is to be done? The answer given by some of our prophets is hardly surprising: human nature must be improved. Since man and the mess he has made cannot be unmade, man must be remade. Not only must his deterioration be halted and reversed, but his native capacities must be enlarged and enhanced.

The New Biology and the technologies it makes possible are to provide the tools for a second genesis.

With a solid foundation in genetics, biochemistry and cell biology, the New Biology has greatly built up our knowledge of living things. Recent years have seen remarkable insights into the structure and function of genes, enzymes, hormones, antibodies and viruses. Much is being learned about the nature of embryonic development and about the workings of the brain and their correlations with behavior.

Much more is likely to be learned in the near future, e.g., about the biological basis of memory, emotion and learning, or about the mechanisms of maturation, aging and senescence.

Tools expanding

The technological powers grow in parallel with the scientific advances. Already available are organ transplantations, screening for genetic defects (including techniques to examine a fetus in the womb), effecting and safe methods of contraception and abortion, test-tube fertilization of human eggs by human sperm, and a growing number of chemical and surgical techniques to modify behavior, from tranquilizers to conditioning by direct electrical stimulation of the brain via implanted electrodes.

In the future, we are promised all of the following: techniques to select the sex of children, to produce multiple copies of desired individuals by a form of a sexual reproduction known as cloning, and to retard the processes of aging; and methods to insert, remove, or altar individual genes and to introduce traits hitherto not found in human beings (e.g., the ability to perform photosynthesis or to digest newspaper).

We are also promised drugs to influence memory, libido, intelligence and aggressiveness; and a whole array of mechanical spare parts and the possibilities of man-animal and man-machine "hybrids."

Whether or not man's biological nature needs alteration, the powers to effect major changes in the human body and mind are certainly coming, and at an ever-increasing rate. It is worth noting that these powers are not being sought specifically for the sake of re-creating man.

Improving life

They are the fruits of a less grandiose and more humane project, the continuing scientific and medical effort to cure disease, prolong life and relieve suffering.

Thus, the new technologies are likely to be welcomed and used — for example, to treat genetic disesases (by replacing abnormal genes), to relieve infertility (with laboratory fertilization and growth of embryos), to preserve life (with mechanical organs), to treat depression (with euphoriant drugs) and to treat intractable psychic disorders (with electric stimulation of the brain). That these technologies could benefit many suffering individuals cannot be denied.

Yet one need not be guilty of Luddism or cowardice to fear the advent of these unprecedented powers which can affect the very nature of man. And fearful or not, we will surely have to face many difficult and profound questions as a result of these new technologies and the powers they place in human hands.

One obvious question is, "In whose hands should these powers lie?" Any new powers of man are in truth new powers of men, and more precisely, of only some men. Do we want to leave the control of the new biomedical powers in the hands of their developers and practitioners?

Control by a technologically competent elite may be a distasteful and frightening prospect, but is it any more so than control by an uninformed or decision-weary or fickle electorate, full of inflated hopes and fears?

Pointed question

And how optimistic should one be about turning over the project for re-creating man to those imperfect creatures — namely, us — whose defectiveness is the very reason the project is deemed necessary?

Even more difficult than the question of "Who should control?" is the question, "To what ends should these powers be used?" What would constitute an improvement of man? By what standards shall we judge?

Take what might seem to be an easy case: intelligence. Intelligence, all else aside, is no doubt a thing to be valued. But all else considered, what shall we say? Intelligence can be used for evil and folly as well as for good. Is it clear that a 25 per cent incraase in average intelligence would be desirable in today's world?

Discerning desirable ends requires not mere cleverness, but wisdom. Are we sufficiently wise?

But even with regard to ends clearly desirable — for example, limiting population growth — we should be cognizant of the prices we must pay for success. For example, will the price to be paid for the birth of children free of genetic defect be the increasing transfer of procreation from the home to the laboratory and its ccincidence transformation into manufacture?

Will the price of reducing competitiveness and vanity be a comparable loss in ambition and the desire for self-improvement?

Will the relief of anxieties and frustrations through drugs be paid for by a weakening in human resourcefulness and fortitude?

Hooking humanity

Will extending the life-span make life seem less precious? Will the price of pleasure through pills be the abandonment of the activities and objects that men have hitherto found pleasurable, and even ennobling? At what price — in greater complexity of society or in our beliefs about what it means to be human — do we seek a technological "fix" for the human condition?

In his prophetical novel, "Brave New World," Aldous Huxley shows us a society free of war, poverty, class conflict, disease, brutality, anxiety, frustration and significant inequality. The price, it should be remembered, was the disappearance of thought, love, friendship, science, poetry, judgment, curiosity, sentiment and beauty.

Some have argued that, like it or not, and risky though it may be, we must take the reins of our own destiny, that we have no other choice but to become as gods, directing the future course of evolution after our own images.

To decline the use of these awesome powers and to spurn the opportunity to remake ourselves, it is said, is to declare ourselves cowards in the face of the grand challenge for which our entire past has been but a preparation. But would it not be rashness and folly, rather than courage, to embark upon so momentous a journey with no knowledge of our destination? Is the power to do sufficient reason for doing?

By seeking to transcend our nature, we may fall far below it. By seeking to redirect evolution, we may spoil the fruit of previous evolution. Creatures of human shape might survive, but human beings might become extinct.

Thus, some ancient and enduring questions have acquired a new urgency: What is man? What is a good man? How is he to live? What is a good community?

The recovery of a concern for these questions is perhaps the best contribution that the New Biology can make to the survival of man.

(Next Sunday: Conclusion by Dr. Paul D. Saltman, professor of biology, University fo California, San Diego.

Parents of slain coeds file suit against state

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UP) — The parents of five slain coeds have filed suit saying that a murderer had been negligently released from state custody.

The $3 million suit was filed in Superior Court against the state, two of its agencies and two court-appointed psychiatrists who had declared that Edmund Kemper III had rehabilitated himself.

Kemper, convicted as a youth of killing two of his grandparents, was convicted last November of murdering six coed hitchhikers, his mother and her best friend.

He had been declared rehabilitated at the time he already had killed three of his latest eight victims.

Named as defendants in the suit at the State of California, the California Youth Authority, the state Department of mental hygiene and two psychiatrists, Paul Levy and Robert A. Kinsey.

Those filing the suit were:

Mrs. Suzanne McEvoy and William Schaal, parents of Cynthia Schaal, 19, a Cabrillo College student;

Roland and Marjorie Thorpe, parents of Rosalind Thorpe, 23, a UC-Santa Cruz coed; Gabriel and Lois Pesce, parents of Mary Ann Pesce, 18, a Fresno State University coed;

Alvin and Natividad Luchessa, parents of Anita Luchessa, 18, a Fresno State coed; and

James and Phyllis Liu, parents of Alice Liu, 21, a UC-Santa Cruz coed.

Kemper pleaded guilty to the eight killings and was sentenced to life in prison.

Men's wear

Designers' mod lifestyle seen in cut of their clothes

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arthur Chapnik drives around in a chauffeur-driven limousine when he isn't helling around in his Stutz Bearcat or bouncing over the waves in a 38-foot power cruiser. But it is an absolute lie that he and his business partner keep 18 naked girls in the Finnish sauna that adjoins their office.

Chapnik, 34, and his partner Richard Dworkin, 33, live a lurid lifestyle that has become famous in the clothing industry, and this is reflected in their clothing line where they have brought traditional, or soft shoulder clothing, out of the Ivy League tradition and into the 20th Century.

The company is Arthur Richards, formed from their first names, and is famous not only for keeping two jumps ahead of current fashion but for its New York showroom and its sauna where they have been known to sit around in the altogether with visiting buyers while discussing the merits of their latest styles.

"The sauna's great," Dworkin said. "But there aren't any 18 naked girls as some of our business enemies have noised about. It's an absolute lie. Perhaps there are places like thatt and who are we to dispute them? But then we do sell a lot of clothing out of the sauna."

New shoulder dimension

Shapnik says their lifestyle is the reason for the success of their business since most of the clothing business is run by fuddy duddy executives who have been in the business forever and whose dream of happiness would be to see every man in the country wearing a blue serge suit.

"The lifestyle is different now," Chapnik said. "We live today and it keeps us abreast of the times. We are known in the industry to be a little avant garde in our life style. We work hard and we play hard. We drink good booze and we party hard. But we put some sex appeal into our clothes."

Their spring line is a long way from blue serge. They have taken the old natural shoulder suit and given it dimension and sex appeal when before it was what Chapnik called "boxy, shapeless, very blah." And they are using such fabrics as denim, silk and linen.

Chapnik displayed a business suit in cotton gabardine for spring. There was a hint of the old natural shoulder look about it but this one was a translation of the safari jacket into a suit, with four flapped and buttoned pockets for a sporty look. The same suit also was shown in white linen.

Another suit showed the influence in business of the western look that has swept the leisurewear field. There was a yoke across the chest and the back had sculpture lines which sort of curve around the shoulder blades and then plunge straight down, cowboy shirt style. This one was in a beige linen-polyester and the lining was printed with horse heads.

Heavy into denim

"We're very heavy into denim this spring," Chapnik said. But it was denim with a difference. He and Dworkin had adapted the St. Tropez tied-and-dyed denim look and translated it into a pale blue business suit softly faded with white overtones.

A couple of sports jackets were outstanding. One was in a small red and white tablecloth check with red piping around the lapel. Another was a navy blue tennis blazer with crossed racquets emblazoned on the chest. One was casual country washable linen with pleated patch pockets and a lining of bandana patchwork. Another was in cotton gabardine with Gucchi-type saddle stitching on the lapel.

The most elegant suits in the line were in silk and one of the more elegant was white with pale blue pencil stripes a little over an inch apart. There were many vests, some single-breasted, some double-breasted, and most with narrow lapels to give a formal, elegant look.

"Sex appeal," Chapnik said. "That's really where it's at."

RICH CLOWN — Arthur Chapnik has nothing against clowning around —not only is it fun, as here in the sauna next to his office, but it is also profitable. His easy-going lifestyle makes him rich.

Committee boosts rights for prisoners

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — legislation spelling out new rights for state prisoners, including the right to marry, was narrowly approved Monday by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The measure (AB2295) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, also gives convicts the right to own and sell artistic or written materials, the right to make a will and the right to own and convey property.

Sieroty is chairman of the Assembly Committee on Criminal Justice and his bill grants other rights subject to the control of prison officials, such as the right to initiate court actions.

Wine not only tasty, it's a handy cure-all

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A glass of wine can not only enhance a meal but also cure what ails you.

The Wine Institute reports that wine contains almost 400 constituents. Some provide iron and vitamins while others fight germs, relieve tension and help the heart.

Studies have shown, according to the institute, that wine can lower the blood level of cholesterol, a fatty substance closely linked to heart trouble and "clogged" arteries.

"Wine also helps dilate small blood vessels and may be not only a preventative but also a treatment for stroke," the insitute said.

Wine has calming properties and, because of this, helps lower high blood pressure.

"In fact," the organization said, "wine is so good for the cardiovascular system that some doctors recommend sherry with breakfast tea instead of pills and a glass of wine with lunch and dinner."

And wine can help diabetics.

The insitute said dry table wine taken with a meal keeps the blood sugar level low and can serve as a source of energy in the diet of diabetics.

Wine has been called the "nurse of old age."

The institute said, "There is medical evidence that it contributes to longevity by benefitting the heart and blood vessels.

"It also makes life more pleasurable for the aged in nursing homes and in geriatric residences.

"Furthermore, wine helps bolster the oldster's sagging appetite and, in fact, improves his outlook on life in his golden years."

When dieting, wine is known to cut down the intake of food and help leave the eater with a satisfied feeling.

Get this picture! taxpayers hit for $12,000 for framing

By JOHN BALZAR

The cost averaged $150 for each lawmaker, a sum equal to the 1973 state income tax bill for a typical working family of four.

There were virtually no controls on buying. According to one legislative leader, it was up to an "individual's good judgement." Records provided by the Assembly Rules Committee, which processes the orders, show nearly half the spending was done by just a dozen members.

Collectively, the assemblymen bought 1,341 frames and were given discount prices. Included were picture mounts and custom hardwood creations with non-glare glass. They were used to frame art, political pictures and memorabilia for Capitol and district offices as well as for souvenir pictures for constituents and copies of the constitution for school children.

The $12,035 total does not include frames ordered in December.

By comparison, the state's 40 senators spent $693 in taxpayer money for picture frames during a five-month period last year, according to figures from the Senate Rules Committee.

Neither total accounts for the thousands of standard-size frames used for legislative resolutions.

The biggest buyers in the Assembly generally were freshmen, who moved into bare quarters.

Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, had the highest total: 88 frames at a cost of $663.

An aide said all the frames were used within Kapiloff's offices. He added that he was unaware the frames had to be purchased from a private Sacramento firm, thinking they were made by state carpenters.

Just behind Kapiloff was Assemblyman Mike D. Antonovich, R-Los Angeles, also a freshman. Most of the 87 frames he ordered—$632 worth —were for office use, he said. A former teacher, Antonovich used the remainder to frame copies of the constitution for visiting students.

Rules Committee Chairman John Burton, D-San Francisco, said he wasn't sure but didn't think there were any abuses of the picture-frame service, which is on top of a legislator's salary, generous expense allowance, free car and state credit cards.

Nevertheless, committee Executive Officer Fredrick J. Taugher said assemblymen will be limited to $150 in picture frames next session. Also, the committee is investigating the possibility of farming the work to rehabilitation agencies instead of a commercial firm.

Other freshmen among the top dozen were Assemblyman Richard Alatorre, D-Los Angeles, 59 frames at $526; Barry Keene, D-Santa Rosa, 32 at $364; Julian C. Dixon, D-Los Angeles, 32 at $348, and Louis J. Papan, D-Daly City, 29 at $309.

Veteran legislators included Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, who has the most offices of any lawmaker, 73 frames at $508; Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, 56 at $502; Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, 46 at $397; Waddie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, 32 at $351; Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, 30 at $203. Also, Assemblywoman March K. Fong, D-Dakland, 42 at $307. The Assembly Rules Committee itself ordered 29 frames for $329.

Six assemblyman ordered no frames at all. Many others ordered less than five.

Gun-running suspect will be tried in Los Angeles

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Theodore Dean Brown, accused of being a key figure in a plot to smuggle arms into terrorist threatened Great Britain will be moved to Los Angeles to face federal gun-running charges.

Brown, 31, a Santa Barbara art dealer, was granted the change of venue recently by Thomas J. MacBride. The switch was sought so attorneys would be nearer potential witnesses and Brown closer to his family.

He is charged with two counts of delivering arms for international shipment without a permit, crimes that could bring up to 12 years in prison and $35,000 in fines.

The FBI said Brown last month bought five automatic pistols and recruited a Santa Barbara friend, Allison Rae Thompson, 18, to smuggle them from Los Angeles to London in the false bottom of a box.

Miss Thompson was arrested in London Dec. 29 along with two men described as associates or acquaintances of Brown.

The two were Abelkhir El-Hakaoui, 25, a Moroccan National, and Atler Naseen, 21, a Pakistani, both who lived in Santa Barbara.

Brown, a medically retired U.S. sailor, was taken into custody Saturday as he awaited a military flight from Travis Air Force Base to the East Coast and then to London, agents said.

His antique vehicles just keep on truckin'

RIDING IN STYLE

Not many 15-year-olds get the chance to sit behind the wheel of a Cadillac, much less a 1908 Cadillac delivery truck. But Ricky Babcock of Montclair is the exception. His father, who restored the vehicle, has been offered up to $20,000 for it.

Montclair man buys, restores rare classics

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — The next time you are unable to buy gasoline, whether due to the national fuel shortage or a more personal monetary shortage, you may wonder why Detroit doesn't build a good electric vehicle.

Happily, they have, or did at least, because Robert Babcock has one.

It's a 1910 Couple Gear Electric, a truck that was obviously built before truckmakers had all the answers, or even the right questions. It sports, among other things, an odd three-sided windshield and a rather miserly wooden cargo area sitting atop a bulky metal frame.

From the rear, it looks like a match box riding a huge roller skate. But, no matter. For this Montclair resident, it is a thing of beauty.

Babcock, 41, has been collecting and restoring old vehicles since 1968. He has a 1908 Cadillac delivery truck, a 1913 International, a 1921 Hupmobile panel truck, a 1920 Sampson panel, a 1904 Reo pickup, a 1915 Ford panel, and a 1915 Ford roadster pickup, plus the Couple Gear Electric.

"I consider myself an historian," said Babcock, explaining his unique avocation. "I've always fancied old cars and things."

In addition to the vehicles themselves, Babcock has also been fortunate enough to find many of the original documents, promotional and test material prepared by the manufacturers. He also has some of the original glass negatives of the old trucks.

IT'S AN ELECTRIC

Robert Babcock lifts the front panel on his 1910 Couple Gear Electric, displaying the battery compartment that will drive the antique vehicle, one of eight in his collection.

Babcock, who keeps all the vehicles in the backyard of his home at 4807 Benito St., is himself a truckdriver and is constantly looking for antique trucks during his cross country drives.

"Most of the competititon for antique vehicles is for cars," he said. "I'm the only truck collector I know of."

The electric truck, which he thinks will require another $3,000 before it is fully restored, was found in a Detroit factory. It had never left the building, which had expanded around it. Several hundred dollars' worth of piumbing had to be removed before the truck could be removed.

When it is operable, the truck will be capable of speeds up to 20 miles per hour. Powered by about a dozen batteries, it will be good for about 50 miles before the batteries will need recharging.

Babcock's only real plans for the truck and all the others is to restore them and hopefully put them on display somewhere.

He may be able to get some of the money he has invested in the old trucks back by leasing them out for use in films or parades.

Father of five sons, and admittedly undesirous of totaling the money he has spent on his "expensive toys," Babcock said he's got his eye on a couple of other old trucks he's run across recently.

Much of the time spent on restoring the old trucks, he explained, is in pursuit of spare parts. What he can't get from other collectors (he belongs to seven antique car clubs), or find at swap meets, he makes himself. "I spend every spare minute I can find on them," he said.

Most of the restoration work is done by Babcock and his oldest son, Robert Jr., 19, who graduated from Montclair High School last year and now attends the University of California at Santa Barbara.

"We really enjoy it," he said, adding that the "backyard museum" attracts quite a bit of youthful interest from neighborhood children and students at Montclair High Scoool, which is right next door.

"I just hope that one of these days I can really put them on display," Babcock concluded.

Ontario recycling plan saves trees, makes money

ONTARIO — Used newspapers here will soon have a better use than to line trash cans.

Residents can trade these in for more trees in city parks and along parkways.

City employes will collect the newspaper bundles each week for sale to the Garden State Paper Co. in Pomona. All profits will go into a special tree fund.

"We plan to begin collections next March and expect an initial 40 per cent resident participation," said Dennis Wilkins, the city's director of public service.

His office received two bids this week for three-wheeled vehicles to be used in collecting the used newspaper. If these are found satisfactory, Wilkins may present his recommendation for purchase at the next City Council meeting.

The small vehicles, with gasoline engines, will have a carrying capacity of 2,000 pounds. Their costs are estimated at $2,200 each. Wilkins proposes to buy four initially.

City officials previously approved a contract with Recycling Resource of Pomona, which is a supplier for the Garden State Paper Co. This calls for a base purchase price of $25 per ton, with a provision for review and possible adjustment each three months.

The program will be staffed by part-time employes who will work on an hourly basis. The staff could range from five to 15 members and may include retired persons, college students and housewives.

They will be assigned to areas for collection of the old newspapers. Residents will set out newspaper bundles the same day they put out their trash, said Wilkins.

Newspaper collection stations will be established in city parks, with employes separating newspapers from magazines as they make their deposits.

From here, the newspaper will be picked up periodically and transported to the Pomona facility.

Wilkins estimates a total revenue of $35,000 the first year. This will be offset by a $20,000 operating cost, leaving about $15,000 for trees.

"But one of the big reasons for the program is to prolong the life of the Milliken Avenue dumpsite," he noted. "For every ton of old newspaper we don't take there, that means just that much more life. And that dumpsite has only a few years left."

Contractor, homeowner disagree about repairs

We purchased a home last year. It has needed repairs and we have had trouble getting them done.

Each time we have had to call the contractor over and over again. Then in five or six months he would have it fixed or just forget about it.

During the rain last year our sliding glass door leaked. We called the contractor twice. He sent out people from a glass company. They fixed it, they said, but in the recent rain it leaked. It has caused the tile on the floor to start coming up.

The contractor told us that the first day it stopped raining, someone would be out to fix it. That hasn't happened. — F.O., Chino.

Your contractor's development coordinator told us that after your sliding door was repaired the first time, he received no further report of leakage even though it rained several times later on last year.

He believes the homeowner has a responsibility for maintenance. He points out that sliding doors will be damaged if they are slammed rather than closed gently and that a towel placed on the floor might have prevented the tile damage.

His subcontractor said that before repairs to the door could be accomplished, the area must be completely dry. Recent rains caused a delay in remedying the last leakage.

Your door will be taken care of even though your homeowner guarantee has elapsed.

The contractor will have the tile inspected to see what can be done.

Five months ago I had some cartons shipped prepaid to my son.

Later I learned from my son that he also had been charged for the shipping.

When I contacted the trucking company by phone the people were most pleasant, saying it was only an error in understanding.

They assured me that if I would send in the bills of lading, I would hear from them in a few weeks.

This seemed reasonable, so I had copies made of the bills and complied with the request.

Nearly two months later I wrote to them but heard nothing. I telephoned and again was assured I would hear from them in about three weeks.

I called again a month later and was given the same story.

They always have been polite and the pickup and delivery was prompt but it seems inconceivable that they are so backlogged that after five months our claim has not seen the light of day. — Mrs. J. T., Claremont.

We took over your problem and got your refund check for you within 10 days of the date of your letter.

The trucking company's office manager said he was at a loss to know why your complaint was not handled properly. He apologized for your inconvenience.

Personnel rules on panel slate

POMONA —Revised personnel rules and regulations will be submitted to the Merit System Commission for approval at a meeting Wednesday.

The meeting will be held in the City Council chambers starting at 7 p.m.

The commission also will consider the proposed modification of the job specification for fireman and a request to appoint a new police officer at the third step.

Claremont chief reports:

Requests for police assistance rise

CLAREMONT — Local police officers responded to nearly one-third more calls-for-service during October, November, and December than during a comparable three-month period in 1972, Police Chief Charles Lines has reported.

Lines said that the number of drivers cited dropped during the same period because two officers were attending Basic Academy at Riverside, and one officer was on foot patrol in the Village area.

Lines explained that of the 4,044 calls for services handled by policemen, 2,864 were taken care of in the field, while 1,180 were given report numbers.

The chief stressed that while patrolmen have increased their ticket writing on Foothill and Indian Hill Boulevards, the city's busiest streets, the number of accidents also has increased.

During the first six months of the 1972-73 period, the department handed out 988 tickets on Indian Hill Boulevard, they cited 1,073 drivers July through December 1973.

Tickets given out on Foothill Boulevard rose from 537 to 812 during the same periods.

Traffic accidents on Indian Hill Boulevard during the second quarter of 1973-74 totaled 25 compared to 10 a year ago. Traffic mishpas on Foothill Boulevard also rose from 11 to 17.

Citywide, one person was killed and 36 were hurt in 29 injury accidents. In 45 other mishaps, no one was injured.

Speeding was cited in 20 accidents, and in seven a driver had been drinking.

Lines said that the city has had a marked increase in the number of robberies and assaults reported. Eight robberies the past three months raised the 1973-74 total to 12, up from seven a year ago.

Thirty-nine assaults were reported during October, November and December, compared with 32 for six months in 1972.

Burglaries are down to 69, as against 86 for the summer months of July, August and September of 1973.

Commission cancels meeting on holiday

POMONA — The regular meeting of the Community Redevelopment Commission scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 12, has been cancelled because of the Lincoln's Birthday holiday.

The next regular meeting of the commission will be held Wednesday Feb. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall employes' lounge.

17 school days in February

POMONA — Children attending public schools here will be in their classrooms only 17 days this month.

During the 28-day month—shortest on the calendar—they will have one four-day weekend and one three-day weekend.

Public schools will be dark Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 11-12, in observance of Lincoln's birthday, resulting in the four-day break.

There will be no school on Monday, Feb. 18, Washington's birthday observance, resulting in the three-day weekend.

Safety's the topic

POMONA — Men from the Los Anleles County Fire Department will present a paramedic program at Pomona Safety Council's luncheon meeting Thursday, Feb. 7, at Orlando's.

A report on the teen-age safety conference will be presented. Cost of the luncheon is $3. Reservations may be made by calling 983-1746, extension 233, by Wednesday.

College offering class for fishermen

ALTA LOMA — A course in the techniques of fly-tying and fly-casting will be offered by Chaffey College Tuesdays through March 12.

The class, under the direction of Jim Matthews, will meet in room 10 of the life science building from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The first four sessions will be devoted to traditional and innovative fly-tying methods, while the final two sessions will be on new fly-casting techniaues.

Additional information on the courses may be obtained by calling Matthews at 987-1737 or 822-7456, ext. 222.

Opinion

EMK: decision is a long way off

In the major campaigning next year for governships and Senate and House seats, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy — in a helping role — clearly is going to dominate the Democratic field.

Democratic leaders surveying the 1974 scene know that in the vital matter of raising funds, it will be no contest. Kennedy can consistently sell out the hall in aiding a particular candidate, and nobody else in prospect can even come close.

Aides say Kennedy plans to hit the trail from an early stage in the campaign season, moving about selectively where he thinks he can be most useful.

He would do this whether or not he is entertaining serious thoughts about running for president in 1976, because he always has lent his window-rattling oratory to others and he loves the trail.

He is, of course, pleased with the newest poll findings which show him the choice of 41 per cent of sampled Democratic voters, with the disabled Gov. George Wallace a distant second with 15 per cent, and the rest of the party pack stumbling far behind like a bunch of mud-bespattered characters in a French road race.

But neither this pleasure nor his 1974 road plans nor any other visible positive factor should be read indicating his likely 1976 candidacy.

He keeps high in his mind all the real and potential negatives, and he won't try for many, many months to cast them into really decisive balance against the positive indicators.

The negatives include the whole Kennedy family's reluctance to have him run, the continuing, despicable threats upon his life, the millstone of the 1969 Chappaquiddick bridge episode.

First reactions were that this list might have been unhappily enlarged by the ill fate that led to amputation of his 12-year-old son Teddy's leg after bone cancer was discovered. But the boy is doing remarkably well, and doctors are encouraged over his long-range prospects. The more than 30,000 letters the lad received from Americans are no small gauge of the reservoir of affection and sympathy that endures for the beleaguered Kennedys in this country.

In 1974, not only general elections but a national Democratic "issue" convention is on the schedule (in December). It may, as some observers suggest, serve partly as a showcase for Kennedy's prospective rivals —sens. Walter Mondale, Henry M. Jackson, even Big Ed (Remember the Maine) Muskie, a prominent 1972 loser.

None of these fellows, however, looks like a racing Kohoutek comet who will suddenly dazzle the Democratic sky and bury Kennedy in spatial blackness.

Furthermore, it's unassailable that Kennedy, with his own immediate staff, a posse of trusted friends, and the drop of a few well-placed dimes in coin boxes, could muster a team, fix strategy and plot a campaign before most candidates could list which of the 50 states have primaries.

Kennedy's people know their party needs new direction, but they aren't looking to the heralded "issue" convention for any miracles of guidance. They feel that, whoever the nominee is in 1976, he will set the tone and give the then relevant issues that thrust they need.

Kennedy has his handicaps. But every time President Nixon tosses in another scratchy Watergate tape he puts new scars on his potential GOP successor and makes the young man from Massachusetts loom larger, for all his problems and doubts.

Abraham Lincoln

In the opinion of very many people the Lincoln Memorial in West Potomac Park, Washington, D.C., must be the most memorable memorial ever erected to any man.

Simple in its grandeur, hauntingly alive with the great spirit of the man who gave so much to the human condition, the great white structure with its superb sculpture of the martyred President is a lasting experience to all who visit it. Among all memorials it must rank highest in its evocation of the individual it honors.

In ironic contrast, the day set aside to honor Lincoln's birthday is shabbily treated. It seems some times as if the world in his own words has little noted nor long remembered. A holiday in some states, although not one nationally, little is done to set it aside.

And yet it marks the anniversary of the birth of one of history's truly great men. Flawed, as humans are wont to be, beset by personal devils, Abraham Lincoln yet found within his being the humanity, the compassion, the wisdom, the determination a munificent God had bestowed upon him.

And he used it fully and unselfishly for his fellow human beings.

The Memorial is mangnificent. But the greatest memorial we the living today could give to Lincoln would be to paraphrase, meaningfully, those noble Gettysburg words: to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us . . . to take increased devotion to that cause for which he gave his last full measure of devotion . . . that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom — and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish.

Gainesville 8 spy tells his tale

WASHINGTON — The FBI's star witness in the Gainesville Eight case has charged that the federal prosecutor was a "bigot" who called black jurors "niggers," yet plied them with steak dinners in hopes they would vote guilty.

The jury unanimously acquitted the eight, most of them Vietnam vets, in less than four hours. They had been accused of trying to disrupt the 1972 GOP convention in Miami.

The chief government witness was an FBI informer named William Walter Lemmer. A few days ago, he surfaced in Dallas, where he sought a job with the weekly paper "Iconoclast."

The publisher, Doug Baker, interviewed Lemmer on tape with his consent. With no holds barred, Lemmer answered questions to prove he is no longer an FBI spy. A 60-page transcript of Lemmer's revelations has now been given to us exclusively.

Drank too much

"I was kind of happy" over the acquittal, Lemmer said. The chief prosecutor, Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack Carrouth, drank too much and was a "bigot," explained the former witness for the prosecution, adding:

"This yoyo (Carrouth) comes out and says, deep Southern drawl, 'Well, I know that we have at least two votes for conviction. We've been feeding those two damn niggers on the jury steaks for the past six weeks. By God, I know that we have at least two votes for conviction.'

"Well," observed Lemmer on the tape, "they fooled the — out of him, because it was a unanimous vote . . . for acquittal."

When we reached Carrouth in Florida, he told us: "I absolutely deny it." Then he recognized that to call Lemmer a liar was to impeach the man he used as his own top witness. "What can you do?" Carrouth drawled helplessly.

'Bungled badly'

On the tape, Lemmer said: "The case was bungled and bungled badly." Yet, when the verdict came in so quickly, "I was kind of stunned by the suddenness of the whole thing . . . I wasn't ready to leave Florida . . . I was sitting there at $36 a day (from the federal government) and I needed $200 more to finish paying for a little Triumph" sports car.

Lemmer said an informer's life is not an easy one. For one thing, the FBI insisted on information about whether "guys have sexual hangups . . . It's a Hoover hangover."

The late J. Edgar Hoover often regaled President Lyndon Johnson with reports on the sexual improprieties of famous Americans. As a result of Hoover's interest, FBI files are spiced with sexual anecdotes about citizens, much of it rumor.

Lemmer also claimed the FBI brought him together with another witness in the trial — a violation of court rules which prevent witnesses from discussing the case with each other while the trial is in progress. But Lemmer said his main advise to the other witness was: "Don't be nervous on the stand, man."

Didn't follow through

While Lemmer praised some of his FBI "handlers" for their decency and said one agent refused to carry out an unethical investigation of innocent Chicanos, Lemmer had harsh words for Justice Department circuit rider Guy Goodwin.

The hard-nosed Goodwin has made a career of spending hundreds of thousands of the taxpayers' dollars in unwise and unsuccessful cases against militants. Most of Goodwin's major cases have ended in acquittals.

Lemmer said Goodwin refused him support payments he had been promised. "The Justice Department did not follow through with their commitment to me," Lemmer complained.

He denied charges he got paid $14,000 for his services, plus rent and other expenses. "I barely spent $5,000 altogether," he said.

Not proud

Reviewing his life as an FBI informer, Lemmer conceded that "during the trial I was a dirty ——— ." But now, he said, "I'm not particularly proud of it . . . It's hard to go around telling people, 'Hey, like I used to be a Justice Department spy.'

"I see my position the same way I'm sure that (ex-White House counsel) John Dean saw his and like everybody else that got caught up in the little spy machinery . . . I was involved in it. I admit it, you know. I'm not involved in it now. I never want to hear about it again."

FOOTNOTE: Despite Lemmer's protests of innocence, the Iconoclast did not give him a permanent job. Editor Baker said the fear lingered that Lemmer would do to the newspaper what he did to the Vietnam vets.

In a statement to us, the FBI vehemently denied probing "sexual hangups." As for the meeting between Lemmer and the other witness, the FBI said the agents warned both men against talking about the case and were on hand to make sure the visit was no more than social small talk. The statement contended that the FBI no longer has any ties with Lemmer.

The Justice Department denied making support commitments to Lemmer and the FBI said it had routinely paid Lemmer as provided under law for services and expenses.

SACRIFICIAL ANIMALS: Defense Department experiments on the biological effects of radiation have cost the lives of more than 40,000 test animals since 1970.

The Pentagon brass, seeking criteria to predict casualties during a nuclear attack, have sacrificed 920 monkeys, 376 dogs, 610 swine and 38,500 rodents over the last four years.

One study, involving 420 monkeys, pigs and dogs, detemined the radiation dosage necessary to cause "permanent incapacitation" — death, in non-Pentagonese language.

Researchers told us that animals receiving the highest doses of radiation usually die within three hours. Others made a temporary recovery before dying of acute radiation sickness.

A Pentagon spokesman said the tests were necessary to update the data gathered after the nuclear explosions at Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

FOOTNOTE: Countless more animals have died in other Defense Department tests.

What did billing departments do before they could blame all the goof-offs on the poor computer?

Friend of ours is such a bad detective he can't even grill hamburgers, says Chet Wozney.

The boss grumps that he's paying for underwork rather than overtime.

Gossip for today

I recalled that Robert Louis Stevenson had once written: "The world is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings." —So I picked up my newspaper to learn what wonderful things the world had in store for me on this particular day. There I read:

"SEA OF SLUDGE OFF SOUTHLAND!!
"FATAL WHITE MALE LUNG CANCER HIGH IN L.A."

"DENSE FOG CLOSES L.A. AIRPORT."

"SMOG ENERGY RULES TO CURTAIL ACTIVITIES IN SOUTHLAND PROPOSED"

"6 ARMY BATTERIES WITH NUCLEAR TIPPED HERCULES MISSILES STAND READY AT ALL TIMES TO DEFEND LOS ANGELES AND ENVIRONS"

And that was just the front page! —Somewhere in the world there still may be a place where one can be as happy as a king but apparently it isn't Southern California. — Yet on second thought, just how happy are kings these days? Maybe I'm doing the Southland an injustice. Perhaps what really should be done is to up-date those Stevenson lines to read:

"The world is so full of a number of things,
I'm sure we should all be as fearful as kings."

Marshall was not 'just a general'

(Last of Three Related Columns)

From the first occasion in 1943, the late Gen. George C. Marshall, America's top commander in World War II, stopped every mention of himself as a prospective president of the United States. Yet every evidence is he would have been a superb one.

Very likely he was this country's finest general in the 20th century, and perhaps much longer. He was our first and only truly global commander, the grand planner and stragetist governing the movements and combat activities of more than eight million men (leaving Navy aside).

No one holding the post of Army Chief of Staff in so great and wide a war could be dismissed as "just a general." Marshall was in fact also a master businessman as chief procurer of materiel, an accomplished diplomat dealing toughly but fairly with world heads of state, a superb manager of men who never demeaned a man, a person of high and broad intellect and impeccable integrity.

In his highest moments of achievement, all these qualities came to be recognized, both generally and by the specialists he dealt with — including businessmen and diplomats. But it is amazing how swiftly in his career he made imprint in his own military field.

As I noted in an earlier column, one superior officer who watched him only briefly in 1916 reported Marshall, then a captain, should be made a general forthwith. There were other early accolades which forecast what great work he would do — and might if known have given the nation a cue as to his sweeping talents as an all-around leader.

The late Gen. Henry (Hap) Arnold, head of the Army Air Corps in World War II, was a young lieutenant with Marshall in the Philippines in 1914. Watching him dictate a field order with nothing but a map before him, Arnold told his wife he had seen a future Army chief of staff.

In the light of the $576,000 tax deduction taken by President Nixon on his vice presidential papers (not to mention similar deductions by other public figures), it is interesting to note that when Marshall agreed to have the Marshall Foundation (set up under urging from President Truman and other admirers) prepare an extensive biography embracing use of all his papers, the general stipulated:

" . . .any funds accruing to the Foundation from commercial publications or projects connected with material relating to me will remain with the Foundation."

Translated, that meant neither Marshall nor any member of his family then or ever would get any kind of benefit. His wife later deeded all his papers to the Foundation without cost.

Marshall, though probably not quite the mental match for Charles Evans Hughes, was close — and unmistakably brought his talents to highest pitch as he served his country in lead posts in World War I (with Pershing) and World War II, and then as both Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense.

Though the still vibrant Earl Warren was more controversial than either Hughes or Marshall in his service first as three-term California governor and then Chief Justice, it is a good guess the nation lost something when he failed to make the presidency.

As governor he was good-spirited but far tougher than many Americans knew, battling special interests, beating them often, "tying" them now and then, and losing, too. But he was "progressive" and spurned by a Republican party rigidly narrow.

As Chief Justice he led a high court that broke ground Congress and presidents had shrunk from. Not with Hughes on intellect and legal background, Warren had great social instincts which fit him remarkably for his era of sweeping change.

Pomona students brushing up on dental hygiene in the classrooms

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Pomona school children are brushing their teeth in their classrooms.

This practice, directed towards promoting beautiful smiles and good dental health, will be emphasized throughout the school district Monday through Friday in observance of the 26th annual National Children's Dental Health Week.

The week, actually today through next Saturday is sponsored annually by the American Dental Association and supported locally by the Tri-County Dental Society.

To point it out, posters emphasizing daily brushing and flossing of teeth and the elimination of sweet snacks are being distributed to classrooms throughout the district.

This is not a new effort within the Pomona school district.

For approximately 15 years, professionals from the Tri-County Dental Society have gone into third-grade classrooms each November and, free of charge, checked all the children's teeth.

The Pomona PTA Council, through its Dental Health Fund, has assisted by paying for truly emergency treatment for children in families unable to pay.

This year, 1,630 children were checked, according to Mrs. Beth L. Hadady, coordinator of health services in Pomona schools. Eight hundred and twenty four needed no dental care; 585 needed care; and 168 were in urgent need of care.

In most cases, the families were able to provide the care. The PTA Council was able to pay for care in 10 emergency cases. Its dental health fund now is broke. Ten additional children are in need of dental care, Mrs. Hadady explained.

Mrs. Shirley Abrams, president of Pomona PTA Council, said that voluntary contributions are welcome, and the money is used only for emergency cases.

Those desiring to assist may make checks payable to the Pomona Council PTA, Dental Health Fund, and mail them to council financial secretary, Mrs. Ernest Miller, 2152 Heather Way, Pomona 91767.

"The program in our schools is two phased," explained Mrs. Hadady. "We work towards prevention and, with the help of the PTA, restoration.

"In the preventative program, we have children in many classrooms brushing and flossing each day at school. We are teaching a new technique. I go out and work with faculties. School nurses assist.

"We've learned that bacteria colonizes once very 24 hours in the mouth to form plaque. If this plaque is disturbed, by brushing and flossing every 24 hours, decay is prevented."

Dentists recommend that the mouth be rinsed with salt water after the brushing and flossing to remove the bacteria from the mouth.

Mrs. Hadady said that brushes, floss, literature and films are provided the schools by the Tri-County Dental Society, and its auxiliary.

Because of this effort by the schools, the PTA and the dental society and its auxiliary, Pomona school district is recognized as having one of the most outstanding dental health programs in the state, Mrs. Hadady said.

Pomona dentist Dr. Murray Hamburg, dental health education chairman for the Tri-County Dental Society, repeated what Mrs. Hadady had said about bacteria colonizing to form plaque which causes decay and other dental problems, and the importance of breaking up the plaque each day by brushing and flossing.

He spoke, too, about proper diet.

"All foods that contain a large amount of sugar are bad for your teeth," Dr. Hamburg said. "This includes candy, cake, cookies, soda pop, sugar-coated cereals and sweetened fruit juices.

"Especially dangerous are the sticky, chewy foods which hang onto the teeth for long periods of time and are difficult to remove. Some snacks which should definitely be avoided because they keep the teeth bathed in sugar for a long time are hard candy, suckers, breath mints, cough drops and sugared gum.

"If you eat sweets, clean your teeth thoroughly afterward by brushing and flossing.

"If you want to keep your teeth for the rest of your life, clean them each day, snack on proper foods and follow a balanced diet."

BRUSH EVERY DAY

Donnie Dexter, 10, left, and Christine Hofer, 10, pupils in Mrs. Charlene Shireman's fifth-sixth-grade classroom at Washington Elementary School in Pomona, use a large plastic model of a set of teeth, provided by the Tri-County Dental Society, to learn how to use dental floss to clean teeth.

THE FLOSSING TECHNIQUE

Pretty Mona Garcia, 10, uses a brush in her classroom to keep her teeth clean. She also uses floss. She says it's fun. Monia attends Washington Elementary School in Pomona.

Council to eye plans for chambers, library

POMONA — Plans and specifications for alterations and additions at the City Council chambers and Pomona Public Library totaling more than $133,000 will be submitted to the City Council Monday night for approval.

The council could give its approval and authorize the advertising of bids with a bid date of March 11.

The proposed project calls for the installation of ramps for the physically handicapped at the chambers and library, walkways, installation of a public address system in the library, and enlargement of the library's public conference room and of the audio-visual and special collections divisions.

Among other matters included in the council's agenda are:

—Issuance of a proclamation commending County Supervisor Peter Schabarum.

—Hearing on Planning Commission recommendation for zone change from R-2 (multiple family residential) to M-1 (light industrial zone) at 1295 E. 4th St.

—Planning Commission approval of a tentative tract for an irregular-shaped area south of Foothill Boulevard, west of Garey Avenue and north of Drake Street.

—Resolution authorizing acquisition of 1205 S. Towne Ave., for widening of 12th Street.

—Resolution authorizing a corporation quitclaim deed to owners of records for the release of city's interest in a "party wall" on the south side of Pomona Mall East between Gibbs and Elm Streets.

—Resolution confirming summary abatement of a substandard dwelling at 1207 Douglass Dr.

—Request of Pomona Central Business District for modification of the special business tax levied for maintenance and promotion of the Pomona Mall and the vehicle parking districts.

—Recommendati for Redevelopment Agency execution of promissory notes to Clyde L. and Eva M. Casner and Kurt W. Meyer for acquisition of property for the Pomona Financial Center.

—Request of Jim R. Walker for permit to paint house numbers on curbs.

—Recommendations of the Community Life Commission that the council give favorable consideration to hiring a public information officer for the city and to the setting aside of at least 10 per cent of federal revenue sharing funds for "people-related" programs for fiscal year 1974-75.

Vasectomy clinic services expanded; information offered

POMONA — The Planned Parenthood group will expand its vasectomy services.

Orientation sessions will be held each Tuesday at 7 p.m. at 445 N. Garey Ave. These are free and open to the public.

Appointments to the vasectomy clinic will then be taken at the end of each orientation program.

Persons wanting more information may call 623-1638.

L.A. County only

RTD limits 10-cent ride routes

LOS ANGELES — The Southern California Rapid Transit District's 10 cent fare will be in effect only within Los Angeles County today and on following Sundays until further notice.

Supervisors in Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties have been asked to support the reduced-fare Sunday ride, but it appears arrangements will not be known for a while.

Ten cents will be collected from each passenger as he boards an RTD bus anywhere in Los Angeles County. Passengers whose destinations are outside the county will pay an additional normal fare from the county line to their destination.

Passengers traveling into Los Angeles County will pay the normal fare from their boarding point to the county line, and will pay just 10 cents for their travel within the county.

RTD lines affected are 55, 58, 59, 72 and 124.

"The public's response to our second 10 cent Sunday ride on Jan. 27, was simply remarkable," said Thomas G. Neusom, Southern California RTD president. Riders were up 168.2 per cent over a normal January Sunday.

More than 34,000 riders boarded buses. Neusom said that not only were long-distance routes very busy, but all local routes were very heavily patronized.

Cash fares amounted to $30,965.

Jan. 27 marked the first day an up to $25,000 weekly subsidy from the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors was in effect.

RTD 10 cent Sunday fares are to continue in Los Angeles County through June. Jack R. Gilstramp, RTD general manager, said that supervisors in Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties have been invited to help subsidize the program in their respective counties so additional fares beyond the county line could be eliminated.

"Based on mileage on Sunday in those three counties, and on Los Angeles County's subsidy of up to $25,000 a week, we calculated we could continue offering the 10 cent fare on all buses if we could obtain approximately $1,000 a week from each of the three counties," Gilstrap said.

"This figure is based on our Jan. 27 experience when we incurred higher than average losses of revenue on routes serving those counties because of extra buses that had to be added to serve patrons."

Gilstrap suid the $1,000 subsidy figure would be reviewed after a month's time to "see if the amount was appropriate with the level of service the three counties would be receiving."

Chaffey panel will review center plans

ONTARIO — Plans for the second phase of construction for the Chaffey Training Center will be reviewed by the Chaffey school board Monday at 7 p.m.

The board will also be reviewing an agreement for structural engineering services for the Montclair High School stadium with the firm of Moon, Winter, Chew and Associates, and statements on cafeteria profit and loss and student store profit and loss.

John Bratta, chairman of the driver education department at Chaffey High School, will make a brief report to the board on the National conference on Safety Education at Central Missouri State University.

In personnel matters the board members will discuss appointment of an assistant principal for Upland High School and counselors for Chaffey High Scrool.

Report will compare mental health aid by county, agency

POMONA — A report comparing mental health services offered by the Tri-City Mental Health Authority and the county will be reviewed at a meeting Monday of Tri-City's governing board.

The meeting will be held in the City Council chambers starting at 4 p.m. It is open to the public.

The report was prepared by Kenneth Carhill, community program analyst for the State Department of Health in response to a California Assembly resolution passed last year.

The resolution requested the department to "study the relationship between mental health services provided in city-operated programs and county-operated programs, including the extent of duplication of such programs and the equity of services provided."

The department was requested to report its findings and recommendations to the Assembly by March 1.

Tri-City, also known as the Pomona Valley Mental Health Center, was created in 1961 under the provisions of the state Short-Doyle Act through a joint powers agreement between the cities of Pomona, Claremont and La Verne, for the purposes of providing local mental health services.

It is believed Tri-City is one of only two such agencies of its kind in the state—the other being at Berkeley.

Tri-City's governing board is made up of representatives of the City Councils of the three participating cities.

A position paper by Dr. Roderick Richardson, director of Tri-City, on the comparison of services will be submitted.

Among other matters to come before the board include a review of the proposed 1974-75 Tri-City budget, a request for a salary incease for hourly clinicians, the resignation of Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith from the board, and one appointment to the Pomona Valley Drug Planning Board.

Student survives Golden Gate leap

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — John W. Adams, 21, walked around only dazed after jumping from the Golden Gate Bridge and landing on an embankment 190 feet below.

The Stanford University student was hospitalized after the incident Thursday night but did not suffer serious injury. Doctors at Mission Emergency Hospital said he may have received a shoulder separation.

The California Highway Patrol said Adams was believed to have hit an embankment near the tower of the bridge and he slid down to the rocks below.

'Ungreeting card' provincial humor has great success

By QUINTON SMITH

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon's exclusive claim to the "ungreeting card" is gone. It's also the calling card for Washingtonians and Californians and soon will be for residents of Colorado, Hawai and Texas.

Coloradans can "ungreet" friends in Texas with cards reading:

"Save Aspen..." and opening the card.."Ski Dallas." or "Colorado has everything..." and inside..."heat waves, snow storms, smog alerts, ticks, taxes, Texans, and a shortage of gas, oil and water."

Or the one that reads, "One day in Denver the smog go so thick the governor lost his way home..." and turning inside..."now he's the ex-governor and he's still lost."

Oregon's ungreeting cards, which started with "$120 and a brainstorm" just seven months ago here, have turned into a gold mine, and the card's originator, Frank Beeson, now president of the Ungreeting Card Co., says the idea could spring into a $10 million business within a very few years.

"It's amazing," he said. "It just kind of got away from us. The market is huge. Why the estimate of the card market in California alone is $200 million."

Beeson, with Jim Cloutier, began the Oregon ungreeting card idea last May and immediately the card—and the humor—took hold with Oregonians. Now nearly all stores that carry birthday, anniversary or get well cards — and many which don't—have the wooden display stand containing the original 18 Oregon ungreeting cards.

For Christmas this year in Oregon there were the five Christmas ungreeting cards, poking fun at the energy crisis, wet weather, wreaths made of poison oak, and one telling Gov. Tom McCall that Santa Claus was just passing through, not making Oregon his home. The cards sold 24,000 the first seven days on the market.

One card reads, "I wanted to send you a Christmas wreath from Oregon..." and inside..."but it was a bad year for poison oak." Or, "I was going to send you an electrifying Christmas greeting..." and inside..."but I didn't have the energy."

"It's a far cry from where it started and we don't know how far it's going to go," Beeson said. "But I've been told if we went into 24 states we could do $10 million in business. "And the funny thing about this is I still don't know exactly what I'm doing," he chortled.

"What we're doing here is using provincial humor," said Beeson, who writes 90 per cent of the punch lines. He said, for instance, the Texas cards will deal largely with the state's "preposterous" humor that everything is big. The Colorado cards delve into huge amounts of Texas money and Texans in Colorado and the Alfred E. Packer Society, the Coloradon equivalent to Oregon's James G. Blaine, anti-tourist society. Packer was a gold rush miner who cannibalized five of his companions one freezing winter.

Currently there are 24 cards dealing with California, and 12 in Washington. Coloradians will get 24, as will Texans and Hawaii residents.

One of the Hawaii offerings reads: "Be sure to visit Hawaii's number one tourist attraction..." and inside the directions are printed in Japanese.

To handle the load, Beeson's staff has grown from the original two to more than 20 and he's looking for 25 salesmen to handle the cards in California.

"We're after people with a good sense of humor," he said. "Our California sales manager says he's never had so much fun in business before."

Moretti forms panel to probe school violence

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti today announced creation of a special Assembly committee to investigate what he called "the growing trend of violence" in California's public schools.

The Van Nuys Democrat said incidents of violence have been reported by schools "virtually throughout the state."

"Children have been shot, teachers have been beaten, organized and unorganized gangs have fought, teachers have been raped in front of their classes and vandalism has become a regular expense and annoyance," Moretti said.

Moretti directed the committee to determine if any reduction of violence can be realized through short-term legislative solutions and to seek a "long term solution so our children can be free to learn in an atmosphere that is not destroyed through a reign of terror."

Moretti named Assemblyman Julian Dixon, D-Los Angeles, to head the five-man Select Committee on Juvenile Violence.

Shrimp boat 'catch' was false rocket

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) — A dummy rocket which gave the three crewmen of a shrimp boat quite a scare Wednesday will be turned over to Navy and Air Force officials for analysis.

The Coast Guard cutter Point Roberts headed into Mayport Coast Guard headquarters near Jacksonville Wednesday night with the dummy rocket, complete with a realistic looking warhead.

Coast Guard and Navy officials confirmed that the rocket, hauled in by the trawler Arlies about 32 miles off the northeast Florida coast, was a five-foot-long, five-inch diameter rocket with an inert warhead.

"The rocket was never a danger to anyone because it had no explosive charge," said Seaman 1. C. Paul D. Lucas of the Jacksonville Naval Base.

Lucas said he believed the rocket was a "sidewinder," an underwing type rocket carried by military fighter planes.

Both Navy and Air Force fighter planes use the Atlantic for target practice, firing the air-to-air "sidewinders" at radio controlled drone planes.

Recreation patterns here

More than 75 per cent of the recreation Americans participate in takes place close to home, after work, after school or on short trips, according to the National Automobile Club.

Wait before asking again

By JEAN ADAMS

FOUR NO'S: (Q.) There's a girl I like. I have tried to get a date with her four times in the last month. Each time she gives me a smile, an excuse and apology.

I am a little discouraged. But one of her friends told me she liked me and that she said not to give up. I am beginning to doubt this. I don't know whether I'm being too persistent or pushy or what. I really like her and would like to take her out, but she seems to be too busy. I would like to know what to do next.—Tenth Grader in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Routinely I would say give up on her and go elsewhere. To you I will say go elsewhere for two months. Talk to other girls and date them. In two months, if you still want to, go back to this girl and ask her ONE more time for a date. If she says no, do not ask her again.

NERVOUS MOTHER: (Q.) Do all Christian mothers treat their fifth child like my mother treats me? She calls me a tramp and a bum and is always afraid I will get pregnant. I am not pregnant and do not intend to get that way.

She makes me so angry. I store it up and jump on my friends when they say anything to me. Please help me—Fifth of Seven Children in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Your mother may be ill, and even if she is perfectly well, trying to take care of seven children is not easy. Be as patient as you can with her.

And do not "store up" your worries and angers at her. Talk to her. Talk plain. Tell her about your boyfriends and what you and they do. Do not hide things from her. Tell her before she asks you. The telling will ease the pressures on you and reassure her at the same time.

Prices show general downward trend

By JACK BRANNAN
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economic indicators that were uniformly disappointing and Arab insistence that their oil embargo is not soon to be lifted combined to push stock prices generally lower on the New York Stock Exchange this week.

Only in anticipation of President Nixon's state of the union message Wednesday night did stocks move higher. But the move upward lasted only that day. Losses during the next two trading sessions were the heaviest of the week.

Arab oil officials Friday riddled administration assertions that they were reconsidering their policies with an eye toward lifting or at least easing the embargo within a matter of weeks. The Arabs said this might be so with regard to its application against other countries, but not to the United States.

The widening reducion of short-term and prime interest rates failed to produce the buying enthusiasm usually stimulated by such loosening of money supplies.

The lower interest rates, in the view of market analysts, simply were overshadowed by reports of reduced manufacturing output and automobile production, higher unemployment, and a White House forecast of 1 per cent real economic growth and an inflation rate of 7 per cent for the year.

Julius Shiskin, head of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, concluded the week with a prediction Friday that the January jump to 5.2 per cent in the unemployment rate "indicates we may be moving toward a recession.'

Economists have tied most of the latest economic developments to the energy crisis and oil embargo, and market analysts view the oils as the principal guideline to overall price trends in the future. But it is more than just the matter of the embargo.

"It is not now only the presence or absence of oil that is significant but rather the cost of the oil that is available," said Monte Gordon, chief analyst for the Dreyfus Corp.

• "The market now has passed the point where an announcement that the embargo has been lifted or eased will do anything more than touch off a brief, emotional rally," Gordon said.

Hopes for just such an announcement carried the market higher and the Dow Jones industrial average up by 10 points on Wednesday prior to Nixon's speech. But the downward momentum of the previous sessions set in again the following day, the oils leading the way.

The Dow ended the week at 843.94, off 15.45 points from the previous week's close. The NYSE common stock index was off 0.66 to 51.00, and Standard and Poor's 500-stock index dropped 1.31 to 95.32.

Coal no quick way out of crisis

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The $64 million question about the energy crisis is —Why can't the United States solve it practically overnight by a return to burning coal?

The nation is sitting on enough coal to supply all its energy needs for the next 200 to 300 years. Both steam coal and metallurgical coal are being exported to Europe and Japan. So what's to prevent a rapid return to the time when coal was king, when factories and railroads burned coal and so did most homes and office buildings?

It's a matter of time, money, ecology and life styles —with time the most difficult element. Here are the main obstacles:

—Even with the most modern machines, digging coal is dirty, disagreeable and dangerous. Expanding the mine labor force is a problem.

—Much American coal is of high sulfur content. It either must be processed to remove the sulfur or industries that use it must install expensive equipment to prevent air-pollution.

—Much of the best coal is deep underground. It takes two to four years to sink shafts and build access railroads to open a new mine at huge cost. The most economical way to use much of this coal is to build minehead power plants, which increases the investment in time and money.

—Strip mining coal that can be reached easily usually arouses intense local opposition. It takes long and careful planning and a big investment in a soil reclamation program to get permission to mine such coal.

—Only the electric power industry and the steel mills currently are in position to burn coal as it comes from the mines. Few manufacturing industries are equipped to do so.

—The railroads could not build new fleets of steam locomotives overnight or replace the coal chutes and water towers they tore down when they converted to the diesel locomotive.

—Space heating of buildings and homes by coal-fired furnaces would require a reconversion as huge as the conversion to gas and oil, which took more than 40 years.

—It might take several years to replenish the railroads' depleted fleets of coal hopper cars to meet the present growth of coal demand, much less a stepped-up demand.

—Finally considering the many obstacles, much coal would have to be converted to gas or synthetic petroleum to help solve the energy crisis. That will take much time and money.

The Arab oil embargo has caused the nation "to turn the corner" in the direction of going back as much as possible to a coal economy, believes L.T. Forbes, coal expert of the Norfolk & Western Railroad. The N & W and the Chesapeake & Ohio between them haul most of the coal in the eastern part of the country.

Forbes said coal production now is rising faster than anyone would have believed likely a year ago. The trend that made electric generating plants change from coal to oil or gas to meet new environmental standards now has been reversed, he said.

The Edison Electric Institute said about 52 per cent of all electric power in the United States in 1967 was generated by coal fired steam. That dropped to 44 per cent in 1972. But now, said Peyton Winfree, also of the N & W, New England Power Co., Consolidated Edison of New York and other utilities have converted several big plants from oil to gas. New England Power even is importing low sulfur coal from communist Poland because it has trouble getting American coal.

Wall Street Chatter

The stock market had some "second thoughts" about some recent gloomy economic news, including a decline in industrial production, the sluggish growth of the real Gross National Product last month, a drop in housing starts, and the soaring inflation rate, according to E.F. Hutton. But while the market's reaction to the news was "disappointing," the letter said it "should not be interpreted as jeopardizing the entire advancing phase which the market is currently experiencing."

Healthy first quarter for Standard Brands

Standard Brands Paint Co., which has stores in Montclair and Covina, achieved record first quarter highs in both sales and profits during the three months ending Dec. 31, 1973, Sid Greenberg, chairman of the board, announced.

Profits were up 17 per cent on a sales increase of 16 per cent over the same period a year ago.

Net sales for the first quarter were $20,739,397 compared with $17,806,661 recorded in the first quarter of fiscal 1973. Profits after taxes were $1,479,456 or 28 cents per share based on the 5,270,646 average number of common shares outstanding. This compares with $1,259,285 or 24 cents per share based on the 5,245,128 average common shares outstanding for first fiscal quarter of 1973.

Greenberg also reported that despite dire economic predictions, he expects fiscal 1974 to be the best in the firm's history.

Sales this year are expected to be about $92 million, with earnings per share to hit between $1.30 and $1.35 for the same period, he said.

You need not take loss for stolen credit card

BY MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the past few years many Americans have had the impression they are liable for up to $50 if their credit card is lost or stolen and used by someone else illegally.

The truth is they may be liable for nothing at ll.

It was three years ago that an amendment to the Truth in Lending Law went into effect. It says a credit card holder is liable for up to $50 in unauthorized use —but only if the company which issued the card, such as an oil company or bank, complies with very specific requirements in the law.

You are liable for up to $50 only if the company has told you so in writing; provided you with a credit card that has a means of identifying you as the user —such as a blank for your signature; and has sent you a self-addressed, pre-stamped enveloped or postcard for you to send back to them to alert them to a theft or loss.

Report loss

Unless all of that has happened you owe nothing at all if someone steals your card and goes on a buying spree.

If all of the conditions have been met by the company which issued you the card, you still might wind up owing nothing because your $50 liability ends the moment you take reasonable steps to let the firm know your card is missing. Government lawyers say a telephone call to the company constitutes such a reasonable step. It probably would not hurt to follow it up with a letter.

It would also be to your advantage to find out, right now, what telephone numbers you should call and keep a list of them, along with your credit card numbers. Some consumers report they have had a hard time getting through to the company involved by telephone, so it may take several calls before you finally are able to make the proper notification.

Most oil companies have not been notifying their customers of their limited liability or providing them with return forms. So if you lose a gasoline credit card chances are you'll owe nothing. But some of the big bank-related and independent credit card companies have complied and you would be liable for up to $50 per card, until you notify them.

The best way to make sure is to carefully examine the literature the company sends you when they issue the credit card.

Warning flags raised

Warning flags are being hoisted about those Scotch whisky investment schemes. You've no doubt seen the ads in financial pages or maybe even received a direct mailing from the British Isles offering profits of up to 20 per cent per year for investing in warehouse stores of whisky which are supposed to increase in value as the years go by.

Both the Securities and Exchange Commission and the White House Office of Consumer Affairs are warning would-be investors that some people who have bought the booze are having a hard time unloading it when the alleged time to collect comes. In addition the prices you may pay to begin with are sometimes inflated, making the selling price little more than the investment was to begin with. A good investment counsellor and a detailed prospectus on the stock may be your best safeguard.

State would make sure grads can cope with life

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Students would have to display an ability to perform common, everyday tasks before getting a high school diploma under new standards proposed by the state.

—Make change and balance a checkbook.

—Read and understand a newspaper article.

—Understand first-aid skills.

Those are just a few of the new standards written by the state Department of Education to act as "guidelines" for local districts in composing their own.

The proposals come up for approval before the state Board of Education sometime early this year, probably this month.

Dr. Alex Law, chief of the department's Office of Program Evaluation and Research, described the standards as "more rigorous" than those in other states and "more comprehensive" than requirements discarded by California last April.

It is doubtful, however, that California's current crop of graduates could breeze through the evaluation. Several educators surveyed said they felt a considerable number of students lack the skills required.

Specifically, students would be posed with 35 "nuts-and-bolts" chores under the broad categories of communications skills, computational skills, occupational knowledge, occupational skills, consumer economics, basic health concepts and civic awareness and participation.

The tasks range from writing a letter to a friend, to recognizing the good and bad of credit, to figuring the "unit price" of store items, to filling out a short-form tax return.

Other requirements would be to compute numbers up to 12 without pencil and paper, distinguish between fact and opinion, cast an "informed" vote, fill out a traffic accident report, and spell 2,000 common words.

The old standards, abolished by the board, required the equivalent of eighth-grade performance on reading and computation tests. They were criticized as too lax.

Should the board adopt the new standards, it would end years of effort to spell out workable graduation guidelines. Although not mandatory, the requirements could be expected to weigh heavily when local districts write their own, as they must by law.

Along with the graduation standards, the state is proposing that districts provide "alternative" ways for students to meet them, such as early admission to college, furloughs for on-the-job training or enrollment in occupational centers.

Some districts already have such programs.

Among the other proposed requirements for a diploma:

—Ability to make the best buy when presented by several choices, based on the lowest cost and "most for the money."

—Be able to recognize high risk, fraudulent or deceptive business practices and "take appropriate steps to rectify situation."

—Be able to identify the implication of a social problem on local, state and national government.

—List illnesses requiring prompt medical attention.

—Ability to attend a public meeting and then summarize different positions presented.

—Be able to identify occupational groups and "realistically" assess personal abilities for jobs thought desirable.

Oakland is at work

Innovation keys redevelopment

OAKLAND (UPI) — The City of Oakland is undertaking a dramatic $150 million project to revitalize part of its dowdy downtown area.

A unique aspect will be a fullsize shopping center, like those which dot the suburbs.

Project manager Doug Salter calls it "the most ambitious attempt in the U.S. to rebuild a major city's central core from the ground up."

Already one 10-story tower has been completed in the 15-block section of Oakland downtown area. The whole complex is scheduled for completion in mid-1977.

Project directors are anticipating a $24.5 million investment by the federal government and as developer for the center, Grubb & Ellis Development Co. is responsible for the financing commitment. The city of Oakland has allocated $25 million for parking facilities within the center.

The project includes five office towers, a landscaped public plaza, a 500-room luxury hotel, a regional shopping center within an air-conditioned, multi-level mall and a large open space public park — all sitting atop the hub station of the new Bay Area Rapid Transit System.

A $6 million convention center is also being proposed and studied by the city. The center would be located on a city-owned block adjacent to the hotel site.

Salter says the project is unique. "To put a suburban-scale regional shopping center right in the dead middle of the city just hasn't been done. Although the trend is changing, for several years now retailers have felt that urban cores were declining market areas and have built in the suburbs. We're reversing that trend."

Grubb & Ellis, Salter's employer, says the regional shopping center will be built on 33 acres, allowing for 50 per cent open space.

Putting the center, which normally would cover 100 acres, on 33 acres will be achieved, Salter says, by constructing the bottom floors of the buildings at the underground level of a BART station at the site. "So," says Salter, "half of the buildings will extend to the BART level and half will extend above street level."

Besides open space and the unique design, Salter extolled the center's minority involvement programs.

To date, 66 per cent of the construction jobs at the center have been held by minority workers, more than reflecting Oakland's 50 per cent minority population.

And, adds Salter, Grubb & Ellis has gone beyond the contractual construction job quota system and requirements that capital ownership should be solicited outside the firm and has voluntarily proposed some minority involvement programs of its own.

Grubb & Ellis has affiliated with several minority-owned firms in Oakland for the leasing of office space. All design firms were required to place minorities on the project, and Grubb and Ellis set up a City Center Economic Development Corporation, consisting of the firm, nine black community leaders and two chicano leaders who make up the center's board of directors.

Eugene Wolfe, community relations officer for Oakland's redevelopment agency, says he is "very happy with Grubb & Ellis' attitude and with their success so far in implementation of things they said they intended to do.

"I have never heard of a major development of this size and scope having this kind of community involvement built into it," Wolfe said. "Oakland is probably the only place in the country where this type of focus and involvement has been attempted."

Siqueiros' death recalls controversial L.A. mural

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Faded colors on a whitewashed, downtown wall are all that remain of perhaps the only major outdoor work in America by Mexican muralist David Siqueiros, who died of cancer Sunday in Cuernavaca, Mexico.

But during the 1930s, in the years of his exile from Mexico, the young painter traveled to Los Angeles. His outdoor murals here so outraged city officials that they quietly whitewashed it out of existence in 1933.

But years of rain have diluted the whitewash and now, dimly, the angry design of the controversial "America Tropical" mural can be seen on the side of an obscure building near Olvera Street.

What touched off the controversy was the depiction, along an 80-foot wall, of the crucifixion of a Mexican peon beneath the American eagle, while an Aztec and a soldier of the Mexican revolution took rifle aim upon the eagle.

A Mexican-American organization tried to have the neglected mural either restored, repainted or taken down in sections and refurbished elsewhere, but the enormous task proved too expensive and was dropped.

UCLA forced to come back

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

The powerful Bruins, down by six points with 15:39 left in the game, scored 12 consecutive points enroute to a 65-54 victory in the first round of this year's cross-town rivalry.

USC had things going its way until its fatal dry spell. The Trojans were making good use of their plan to take the good shots and set the tempo.

The Trojans enjoyed a 36-34 halftime lead to shake the 12,361 Pauley Pavilion fans thanks to a 65.4 per cent shooting in the first 20 minutes.

But USC scored only eight points in the final 15 minutes.

Keith Wilkes was the catalyst for the Bruins in scoring three straight baskets to put UCLA ahead with 11:35 on the clock.

Wilkes scored 14 of 20 points in the second half.

Bill Walton, Mr. Basketball, did his usual job in scoring 19 points and grabbing 16 rebounds, 11 in the second half.

Fatigue helped cut the Trojans down.

With Clint Chapman out with a knee injury, USC was short on depth and coach Bob Boyd made only one substitution until the final minutes.

"I thought we executed our offense real well," Boyd said. "We wanted to either take layups on a fast break or wait and shoot later. And we did that. We had open shots and we hit them.

"But in the last 10 minutes the Bruins played tougher defense. They sensed they had the momentum, but we also didn't take as many open shots because we were tired."

The Trojans were finished when center Mike Westra drew three fouls within a four-minute period to foul out of the game with 6:18 remaining.

"Westra played a beautiful game," Boyd continued. "He was perhaps our outstanding player. In the first half, he made critical outside field goals and defended Walton well."

Boyd was obviously dejected by the loss, but he was happy about his team's performance.

"When the score was 46-40 our favor, I think UCLA played with added enthusiasm," the Trojan coach said. "We played as well as we could for three quarters of the game. But it is a game of momentum, and UCLA hit a streak where we couldn't stop them."

"USC is a very good basketball team and its first half shooting was truly outstanding," UCLA coach John Wooden said. "I made no major changes at the half except I told our players we must execute better. I don't think USC is as strong physically as Maryland, North Carolina St. or Notre Dame, but they have excellent shooting and a smooth, well-coached offense. I'm hopeful that we have the conference championship wrapped up before we meet the Trojans at the Sports Arena (March 3."

Guard Dan Anderson led the Trojans with 18 points, making nine of 14 shots, while sophomore forward Bob Trowbridge added 15.

Forward Dave Meyers was the other Bruin in double figures with 14 points.

UCLA, which shot 44 per cent in the first half, ended up hitting 54.3 per cent in the game to USC's 50 per cent. The Trojans had one more field goal (26-25) but made only two of seven foul shots while UCLA swished 15 of 17.

The Bruins were outrebounded 16-12 in the first half but ended up with a 31-23 edge.

The win was UCLA's 61st straight at Pauley Pavilion in Pac-8 play. The Bruins now share the Pac-8 lead with Oregon at 5-0 while USC drops to 3-2. The Oregon teams invade the southland next weekend with Oregon playing here Friday in a showdown for first place while Oregon State opens at USC.

"I understand Dick Harter, the Oregon coach, was here tonight," Wooden said. "He was also at Notre Dame. I'm sure he knows all about us and if there is anything he doesn't know about us I'll be glad to tell him."

BACK ON THE DRAGSTRIP AGAIN

Herman Petersen, who is making a comeback after a spectacular crash kept him out of action for seven months, made an appearance Saturday in his sleek new dragster at the Winternationals. Herman's oddly-designed dragster saw plenty of action on the Pomona drag strip.

Pomona's fastest field ready

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

POMONA — That black eye that the NHRA Winternationals received last year appears to have healed nicely.

In 1973, the traction on the L.A. County Fairgrounds was horrible and the weather was even worse.

Both have improved substantially, and when eliminations for this year's Winters get under way this afternoon at 12:30, the fastest and quickest field in the event's history will answer the call for the first round.

The quality of competition was guaranteed Saturday during an accident-marred second day of qualifying.

The bite on the asphalt improved dramatically as the sun was going down, and a pair of sub-six second runs were turned in.

Dwight Salisbury and Dwight Hughes each recorded an elapsed time of 5.97 seconds during the last, furious Top Fuel session.

James Warren, however, will enter eliminations as the low e.t. holder of the meet with 5.94 he put in Friday morning.

It was also during those last Top Fuel runs that the popular "TV Tommy" Ivo barely escaped serious injury en route to a run of 6.05.

Ivo's Dodge-powered dragster threw a rod as it entered the speed trap, went up in flames, and flipped end-over-end down the pavement.

Ivo, to the amazement of he crowd, emerged from the twisted, and charred wreckage unscathed.

Defending Top Fuel Winternationals champion Don Garlits, who was just about everybody's pre-race favorite, had a quiet afternoon, making only one run of 6.20—which wasn't even his lowest e.t. of the meet having posted a 6.09 on Friday.

Twig Zeigler leads Funny Car qualifiers with a 6.30 he put together late Saturday afternoon. Zeigler's top end speed of 232.55 m.p.h. is also the fastest of the meet.

Frank Hall, who had started the day as the number one Funny Car qualifier, is in third with a 6.43 at 223.88 m.p.h. Dale Pulde is second with a 6.35.

Defending Funny Car champion Don Schumacher will enter eliminations as the fourth best qualifier, a 6.46 at 214.28.

World Pro Stock champion Wayne Gapp winds up as low e.t. man in that category. Gapp turned in a 8.95 Saturday to secure the lead.

Bill "Grumpy" Jenkins, making his last appearance in his "Grumpy's Toy X" Vega before driving a new car, stands in second with an 8.98. Defending champion Don Nicholson is in eighth with a 9.095.

A whole batch of new National records were set in Sportsman and Pro Comp categories over the two days of qualifying, not the least impressive of which was a new speed record in Pro Comp by Brad Anderson of Covina. Anderson, piloting a BB Funny Car set the record on Friday with a top speed of 193.54.

Saturday may have also set the record for total number of mishap-incurred delays in one NHRA meet.

In addition to Ivo's crash, three drivers experienced parachute failure and wound up in the crash net.

England's Clive Skilton and Bellflower's Don Hampton each crashed at the end of the Fairgrounds parking lot, while Tom "The Mongroose" McEwen, whose 'chute anchor' failed, actually drove sideways into a chain link fence.

Tom Chelbana, attempting to qualify a C Altered, lost control of his car as he left the line and careened into the right-hand guard rail about one-third of the way down the strip.

Only moments later, Larry Van Unen, competing in Pro Comp in a BB Funny Car, lost control of his car as soon as he left the line, made a short right-hand turn, and drove straight into the "Christmas tree" tower.

Neither Van Unen nor Chelbana were injured.

In addition to the major accidents, a number of blown engines kept oil clean up crews busy and accounted for minor delays.

Drivers will be allowed to make practice passes starting at 9:30 a.m. today.

MONGOOSE ON THE MOVE

Tom "The Mongoose" McEwen leaves a cloud of smoke behind him as he burns his way down the Winternationals dragstrip at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona Saturday.

OMS still not completely out of the woods?

By JIM COUR
UPI Sports Writer

ONTARIO — Despite the doomsayers' predictions and a closure for the first half of 1973, the Ontario Motor Speedway is alive and well in its fifth year of existence.

And, says the man who runs the $25.5 million facility, OMS will have a big comeback year in 1974.

"We don't feel we're completely out of the woods yet," said Jim Cook, the track's executive vice president and general manager, "but we're definitely very optimistic and very enthusiastic."

Cook, a dynamic 39-year-old former Woody Hayes assistant football coach at Ohio State, is working under a group that took control of the financially plagued speedway last April.

Headed by former Indianapolis 500 winner Parnelli Jones and Indianapolis Motor Speedway president Tony Hulman, the new OMS operators— Ontario Motor Speedway Operating Co. — successfully staged the fourth California 500 last September and then won a five-year lease option contract from the city of Ontario.

The fifth Cal 500 will lead off the U.S. Auto Club's championship car season March 10. The previous four Cal 500s were staged on Labor Day weekends.

"We staged three races (also a motorcycle event and a drag race) last year," said Cook, "and we didn't lose money on any of them.

"We think under the right conditions that we can make the speedway go and make it go successfully. If we didn't, we'd be the first to tell the city and the bondholders."

OMS will stage five major racing events this year, according to Cook. It will add a Formula 5,000 event and probably a stock car race. And, Cook said, two or three major concerts.

"We feel that five good racing events per year, five different types of races, are the maximum we can put on," the OMS general manager explained. "But we need to develop non-racing activities in order to keep the speedway open on a permanent basis.

"Therefore, we think we could make this into the Carnegie Hall of the West. We honestly believe this is the most ideal facility in the world for outdoor concerts. We're talking about major, top drawer entertainment, too.

"Of course, the facility would remain primarily a center of racing. But we need the other attractions, too."

The 700-acre speedway was closed in December, 1972. The Jones-Hulman group didn't arrive on the scene until last April 20 and didn't really go to work bringing the so-called white elephant back to life until last June.

"It actually sat idle for six months," Cook explained. "It was in very bad shape when we took over but it's in top shape now."

Phoenix gains revenge over Lakers, 119-112

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Neal Walk and Dick Van Arsdale each scored 25 points to lead the Phoenix Suns to a 119-112 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Saturday night.

The victory avenged the Suns' 12-point loss to the Lakers in Los Angeles Friday night in which the Phoenix leading scorer, Charlie Scott, fractured an arm that put him out of action for the season.

Jerry West led the Lakers with 24 points, followed by Connie Hawkins with 19 and Jim Price with 18. Gail Goodrich was held to 15, half his average.

Phoenix led 24-15 at the end of the first quarter and stretched the margin to as much as 11 points midway in the second quarter before the Lakers fought back to a 48-48 halftime tie.

Frazier scores 10,000th point

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walt Frazier's 10,000th career point was the highlight of the game Saturday night as the New York Knicks coasted to a 103-85 triumph over the Cleveland Cavaliers in a lackluster NBA game.

Frazier, who had 21 points in the game, hit a basket at 11:34 of the second quarter to give the Knicks a 32-16 lead and put him over the 10,000-point pleteau with 10,001.

Nicklaus almost unbeatable now

HONOLULU (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus all but wrapped up the $220,000 Hawaiian Open Saturday when, sweeping across the fairways of Waialae Country Club, he shot his third straight sub-70 round and opened up a six-shot lead.

About the only way Nicklaus could lose the tournament title Sunday is if he gets lost some place among the palm trees on the back nine.

Competing in only his second tournament of the year, Nicklaus made his chances for his first victory almost certain by shooting a three-under-par 69 to go with his previous rounds of 65 and 67.

That put Jack at 15-under-par 201 for 54 holes, and in the minds of most of his competitors left them playing for second place.

"Unless he falters completely, like going three-over-par on the front nine Sunday," said John Lister, one of those nearest Nicklaus, "I'd say no one else has a chance. But maybe we can believe in miracles."

J. C. Snead, tied for second with Gibby Gilbert at 207, nine-under-par and six swings behind Nicklaus, wasn't quite as pessimistic. But he isn't making plans for the $44,000 first prize either.

"If Jack shoots 73 or 74," said Snead, "some one here might catch him. But if he shoots 69 or better, there's no way. But that doesn't mean I'm not going to try."

Tied for fourth at eight under 208, seven shots behind Nicklaus, were Rod Curl, who had one of the day's better rounds, a five under 67, Dwight Nevil, Eddie Pearce, Lister and Tom Watson.

Another shot behind at seven under 209 were Bobby Nichols, winner of last weekend's Andy Williams-San Diego Open, and Dewitt Weaver.

Lee Trevino and defending champion John Schlee were 13 shots back at 214, while Arnold Palmer, in his first start of the year, was way out of it at 220 after shooting a four over par 76.

Johnny Miller, winner of the year's first three tournaments and $90,000, is 10 shots back of Nicklaus at five under 211. But he did keep intact his record of going under par in every round he's played this year, 14, by shooting a two under 70.

Nicklaus had another impressive round considering it is this early in the year. Jack, the only man in golf with $2 million purse winnings, had three birdies and no bogies for a round of 35-34 on the 7,154-yard, par 36-36--72 course.

He now has 17 birdies and only two bogies in 54 holes, but as he quipped:

"That's two more bogies than I planned on making."

Jack opened with a birdie four on the 537-yard first hole, getting a trap shot to within five feet and making the putt. He saved par out of a trap on four, a four-foot putt, but until the 13th hole most of the birdie attempts were in the 25 and 30 foot range.

After the 12th, Grier Jones, who won this tournament two years ago, was looking at the big outdoor scoreboard and remarked, "Well, 13 will be a birdie for Jack, you can bet every dollar he has on that."

Jones was right, Jack reached the 479-yard, par-five in two shots, and then two-putted from 60 feet. He holed a 25-footer on the next hole for his final birdie.

"I guess I had had so much practice with 25 footers until that time," said Nicklaus, "I was bound to make one. I didn't play as well as I did on Friday, but when I made a mistake I was unable to recover. I had fine sand shots on the first, third and 15th holes."

Nicklaus was asked what he thought of his chances, which by anybody's standards had to be quite good.

"Well," he chuckled, remembering his position of being 10 shots behind in that tournament, "I'd say they're a lot better than in the Crosby.

"Actually, it depends on me whether anybody can catch me. I have to play bad. I like to be in that position.

Minor signs Denver pact

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Broncos Saturday signed their No. 2 draft choice to kick off the long season of courting, convincing and signing for the 1974-75 football season.

The first to sign was Carl Wafer, a 6-3, 250-pound defensive tackle from Tennessee State. In Denver Saturday with Wafer was third round draft choice Claudie Minor, a tackle from San Diego State and Garey High in Pomona who has yet to begin contract talks with the Broncos.

"He (Minor) was just looking around the city today," a Bronco spokesman said.

Panthers tumble

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

ALTA LOMA — Riverside City College virtually wrapped up the Mission Conference basketball championship for the second year in a row Saturday night, holding off Chaffey, 93-87, in a thriller at Sicinsky Gymnasium.

It was the 20th victory of the season for the Tigers and 10th in a row in conference play, pushing them three full games ahead of Chaffey which dipped to 15-6 overall and 7-3 in the Mission.

With only six games remaining on the schedule, Riverside needs only to break even to guarantee at least a tiefor the title. But there were no guarantees being handed out by Chaffey Saturday night.

Losers by 15 points in the first match with the Tigers, the Panthers were ready for their last chance to cut into Riverside's advantage in the conference standings.

The outcome was in doubt even into the last minute of the contest when the Panthers sliced an 11-point Tiger lead and were within six points, 91-85, with 21 seconds to play.

Ironically it was veteran forward Bob Kovach who sealed the tomb for his team by fouling Tiger guard Bill Montigel in the act of shooting.

It was Kovach's fifth personal and he left the game with 27 points and 18 rebounds, as Montigel went to the line to tally his 24th and 25th points of the evening.

But Montigel and Kovach were only spear carriers in this game. The lead role went to one slick sophomore forward named Bo Williams who stole the show with 30 points and 18 rebounds in an unstoppable performance.

Williams canned 18 points of his total in the first half to ease the Tigers into a 48-43 lead at halftime after the score tied 10 times and each squad took leads briefly in the first 20 minutes.

Fourteen turnovers by the Panthers accounted for 15 Tiger points in the first half alone, and coach Barney Newlee acknowledged it was the deciding factor.

"We turned the ball over nine times alone on the offensive end of the court," said the veteran Chaffey coach. "We just beat ourrleves in the first half."

Complimenting Kovach in the Chaffey arsenal was freshman forward Russ Williams who added 26 points—13 in the first half—and guard Pierre Rankin who popped for 17. Guard Gary Clark, with 15 points, joined Williams and Montigel in double figures for Riverside.

APC beats Oxy, thanks to Cahoon

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

AZUSA — It's a good thing center Roger Cahoon is playing the best basketball of his career at Azusa Pacific.

If it hadn't been for the former Mountie's 17 points and 14 rebounds Saturday night, the Cougars probably would have suffered the ignominy of having their ovin win streaks snapped by a team that had won only six of 17 games.

Occidental (now 6-12) gave APC a stiff fight before succumbing, 58-50 on the Cougar's home court. As it is, the loss of forward John Zorcowich in the first half may have cost the Tigers the game.

Zorcowich twisted his right ankle in a fall under the APC basket with 4:52 left in the first half. At the time, Oxy was holding a 27-19 lead.

Zorcowich stayed in and played hobbling for another 1:20 before being replaced by Ed Wheeler. He tried to return twice but was a one-legged player and had to give it up. He did not even come out for the second half.

Meanwhile, APC got its game together and pulled to within two points, 30-32 at the half. Stu Campbell, who came off the bench to hit a 20-footer for the last two points of the first half, connected on his first two shots in the second half to tie the game and then give the Cougars a lead they never relinquished.

APC's two big scorers, Rick Reed and Dennis Vanzant, each had an off night. Reed missed his first three shots and was only three for nine in the first half and six of 15 for the game in a 15-point effort. Vanzant scored 11 of his 13 points in the first half. Te 6-9 senior picked up three fouls in the half and never was effective thereafter. He was charged with his fourth 5:37 into the second half and wound up connecting on only five of his 14 shots in the game.

Occidental opened the game like Joe Frazier fights. The Tigers came out smokin' and made eight of their first 11 attempts. Meanwhile, Reed and Vanzant both missed their first three shots.

But things changed drastically in the second half. Oxy didn't score a point until Tom Ratkovich sank two free throws after being fouled by Vanzant. The Tigers didn't get a field goal until Wheeler connected 6:56 into the half. They wound up eight for 24 for the half and 23 for 56 (41.1 percent) for the game.

APC, which seems to shoot better on the road, was 24 for 58 (41.4 percent.) The Oxy two-three zone kept the Cougars away from the basket most of the evening except for Cahoon. The big center was unstoppable on his hook shots and sank eight of nine.

Azusa Pacific, 19-3, now has won eight in a row and 20 straight at home.

Indians hand Citrus 7th straight loss

AZUSA — Frank Johnson, coming off the bench, and Ed Greene combined for 29 points Saturday night to lead San Bernardino to 97-55 Mission Conference basketball win over Citrus.

Johnson tallied 15 points in a reserve role, high for the Indians, while Greene contributed 14 from the forward spot.

Roy Hickman, the Mission Conference leader and No. 4 scorer in the state with a 29 point per game average, was held to 18 points before fouling out late in the second half. Hickman was joined by reserve Dave Weakly (10 points) in double figures as the Owls dropped their seventh straight battle.

San Bernardino upped its conference mark to 4-8 while the Owls dipped to 3-7 in Mission play and 6-17 overall.

The Owls host Saddleback Wednesday in an 8 p.m. encounter.

Graebner, Mayer move into finals

TOWSON, Md. (UPI) — Veterans Clark Graebner and amateur Sandy Mayer advanced Saturday to the championship round in the $210,000 Baltimore International tennis tournament.

Mayer upset fourth-seeded Jurgen Fassbender of West Germany, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3, in his semifinal match. Mayer crushed Fassbender in the first set, but the West German rallied from a 5-4 deficit in the second set to even up the match. Mayer, the only amateur in the tournament, jumped to a 3-0 lead in the final set to wrap it up.

Graebner, who replaced top-seeded Jimmy Connors here after Connors bowed out because of illness, downed Charlie Owens in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, in the other semifinal.

Knights of Columbus meet

Wottle barely wins mile run

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Dave Wottle, 1972 Olympic gold medal winner, nipped Irishman Eamonn Coghlan by one tenth of a second in the mile run and sprint champion Herb Washington angrily pulled out of the finals of the 50-yard dash Saturday night in the Cleveland Knights of Columbus track Meet.

Wottle, former Bowling Green runner, passed Coghlan in the last lap and finished in 4:02.9 to the Villanova runner's 4:04.0.

Coghlan, 31, of Dublin, Ireland, said he had not run the mile since high school and this was his first year of indoor competition. With two laps to go, he burst past veteran runner Juris Luzins and Wottle barely caught him on the last lap.

Washington, co-holder of the world record in the 50-yard dash, pulled out of his specialty in a dispute with the starter.

Tom Whatley of the University of Alabama won the race in 5.3 seconds, three-tenths of a second off the record held by Washington and two others.

Washington said he pulled out of the race because the starter, Charles Martin, fired the gun before he had come into the "set" position.

"That's why I haven't been to Cleveland for three years," he said, "because this starter you have tonight doesn't give the time to get set that I need to win the race."

Martin said angrily, "Ask any other runner in the race if it was a good start. I know whose trying to psych the starter," he said. "Does he think I'm a rookie starter? I've been here seven or eight years and I started the NCAA nationals last year."

William Mason of Kent State University was second in the sprint and Angelo Nuttall of the University of Chicago third.

Tom Hill of the U.S. Army team edged Willie Davenport in the 50-yard high hurdles in 6.3 seconds, one-tenth second off the world indoor record they share with three other runners.

Clarence Musgrove of Catholic University won the men's special 440-yard dash in 50.5 seconds; the Sports International Track Club won the women's one-mile relay in 3:54.3; and Jenny Gill of the Panther Track Club won the women's 50-yard dash in 6.1 seconds.

Stan Vinson of Eastern Michigan won the 600-yard run in 1:11.3, nearly four seconds off the world record.

Ashland College (Ohio) and Catholic University won the two sections of the university two-mile relay; and Byron Dyce, former Olympian from Jamaica, won the 1,000-yard run by one-tenth of a second over Lowell Paul of Chicago with American Olympian Marty Liquori third. Dyce's time was 2:09.6.

Robin Campbell of Sports International won the women's 880-yard run in 2:12.8.

John Harnett of Villanova, another Irishman, lapped the field with an 8:31.5 timing in the two-mile run for the only meet record of the night.

Second was Sid Sink, a another former Bowling-Green State University runner, who held the former record of 8:36.8.

Roland Carter of the University of Florida won the pole vault at 17 feet. Second was Canadian Bruce Simpson and Steve Wallick of Miami University was third.

Gene White of the Pennsylvania Athletic Club, Pat Matzdorf, former world record holder and Robert Francis of Kent State tied at 7 feet in the high jump, but White was awarded first place on the basis of fewer misses.

Elmer Scrpy of Sports International won the woman's 440-yard dash; and mile relay heats in the university division were won by Kent State, Villanova, and University of Florida. Sports International won an open one-mile relay, the final event of the night.

Kings hand California 21st straight road loss

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Dusha Widing and Bob Berry scored third period goals Saturday night to send California down to its 21st straight defeat on the road as the Los Angeles Kings trimmed the Golden Seals 3-1.

Widing rebounded in a 40-foot effort by teammate Sheldon Kannegiesser to snap a 1-1 tie with 14:38 remaining in the game. Berry added an insurance goal with 47 seconds left when he put the puck into an open net.

The victory moved the Kings to within two points of fourth place Atlanta in the NHL West. Meanwhile, the Seals now have lost 17 of 18 matches away from home ice this year.

Los Angeles dominated first at California goalie Gilles Meloche. But the Kings' only score came at the 14:49 mark when Don Kozak slanted across the crease from the right corner to deposit his eighth goal of the year.

Ivan Boldirev evened things for the Seals with seven minutes left in the second period when his shot from behind the net bounced in off the skate of Los Angeles defenseman Neil Komadoski.

The goal was the 20th of the season by Boldirev.

Billiards trio still lead way

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jim Rempe and Ray Martin joined 14-year-old women's defending champion Jean Balukas in running their records to 2-0 Saturday in the men's and women's division of the $26,500 World Pocket Billiard championships.

Rempe, of Scranton, Pa., defeated Jim Maraya, Las Vegas, 150-42 and Martin, Clifton, N.J., beat John Ervolino, Las Vegas, 150-116, and Jerry Moore 150-84.

UOP near perfect in claiming Swim Relays

POMONA — The University of Pacific easily captured the championship of the California State Polytechnic University Swim Relays Saturday at Cal Poly.

UOP finished first in seven of the eight events, losing only the three meter diving competition, to complete the two-day event with a total of 420 6-6 points.

Competing against 11 teams, Occidental placed fifth (213 5-6), Claremont-Mudd sixth (205), Cal Poly, Pomona (176) was seventh and Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo was eighth with 120 points.

CMC's Jim Magonigal and Dan Kalman were third and fourth, respectively, in the three meter diving event.

Cal Poly Pomona's John Roche swam to a fifth place finish (49.4) in the 100 yard freestyle. Bronco freshman Craig Ehmmler swam to a sixth place finish in the 400 Individual Medley with a time of 4:30.4.

Roche and Ehmmler then teamed with Mark Jacobs and Steve Nyeholt for a fourth place finish in the 400 free relay in a time of 3:19.8.

THE CLINIC CROWD — While Cal Poly pitcher Dee King keeps a close eye, Howard Lopez of Diamond Bar works on his pitching delivery during the Cal Poly Baseball Clinic Saturday. The clinic, which was open to boys from 9 through 14 years of age, featured Cal Poly baseball players giving demonstrations and discussing baseball fundamentals from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

McNamara will try again

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — John McNamara, the good-guy manager who helped mold the Oakland A's into a world championship ball club only to get fired by Charlie Finley in a moment of pique, gets his second chance today when the San Diego Padres name him their field leader.

Buzzie Bavasi, the Padres' president, has called a news conference in San Diego today to introduce the 41-year-old McNamara to area media. However, around the San Francisco Bay Area, and throughout most of baseball, McNamara needs no introductions.

What he does best as a manager is exactly what the Padres need, a young leader who has the ability to bridge the generation gap—the one he grew up in that was hard-nosed and unyielding and the current one where a manager coddles more than he directs.

The Padres in their five previous seasons have been the doormats of the National League. They started out with a collection of has-beens and youngsters in over their heads. That didn't work, so they junked the older players and went strictly with kids.

That hasn't worked out either and Ray Kroc, the millionaire head of the McDonald Corporation who purchased the club outright last week, has put Bavasi on notice to give him a solid contender within two years.

While the Padres in 1974 will be basically a young club they have such solid veterans as slugger Willie McCovey, picked up from the San Francisco Giants where McNamara was the third base coach the last three years, Bobby Tolan from the Cincinnati Reds and Glenn Beckert from the Chicago Cubs.

"They can't get a better man as manager than McNamara," said McCovey when asked about the Padres' managerial situation. "He's a very approachable man—the kind of man everyone likes. No ball player ever had any problems talking with the man, and he knows baseball as well as anyone."

When McNamara is officially named Padres manager he will start out immediately with two coaches—old pal Bill Posedel to handle the pitchers and Jimmy Davenport to work with the infielders.

Posedel was the A's pitching coach for a number of years but last year served the World Champions as a scout and special instructor. He's 67 but will come out of retirement to help McNamara, whom he views as his son.

Davenport served as manager of the Giants' Phoenix farm club in the Pacific Coast League the past two seasons but quit to look for a big league job. When [illegible] unsuccessful, he hooked up with the California [illegible] and was to serve this year as manager of their El Paso club in the Texas [illegible]. However, he had an understanding with Angels general manager Harry Dalton that if McNamara got the San Diego job he would be let out of his El Paso contract.

McNamara's departure opens up a coaching spot on the San Francisco club that is expected to go to former Giants catcher Tom Haller. Giants manager Charlie Fox all but confirmed earlier this week that Haller was joining the club.

Laub captures Cleveland Open

NORTH OLMSTED, Ohio (UPI) — Veteran Larry Laub of San Francisco won the $60,000 Cleveland Open Bowling Tournament—his second championship of the year and fifth lifetime—despite a near record-breaking performance by his final game opponent, Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., defeating Anthony, 257-247.

Anthony, who qualified fourth for the five-man finale at Buckeye Lanes, had breezed through three straight opponents before bowing to Laub, a 30-year-old righthander who picked up $7,000 for this win after taking first place in the Don Carter Classic in Los Angeles three weeks ago. Laub was top-seeded into the nationally televised windup to the four-day event after averaging better than 234 for the first 42 games.

In his four games, Anthony, 35, who won seven Professional Bowlers Association crowns, spilled 1,020 pins—an average of 255—as he missed by only one stick of snapping Laub's four-game TV high.

Anthony started out the afternoon with a 299 game, missing out on a $10,000 bonus for a perfect linescore when he left the nine pin on his final shot on what appeared to be a perfect pocket hit. The man he defeated was Johnny Petraglia of Brooklyn, N.Y., who shot a 201.

In his next game, Anthony faced veteran Roy Buckley of Columbus, Ohio, and won by a 257-196 score, registering eight more strikes to go with his opening 11. The day's third contest pitted Anthony against Butch Gearhart, a five-time winner from Houston, Tex. This match went down to the final frames before the crew-cut Washingtonian prevailed by a 217-191 tally. That set the stage for the payout game with Laub, who spilled more pins and won more match games than anyone else in the starting field of 184.

Laub also made a strong bid for a perfect game when he started out with seven strikes in a row, but missed out in the eighth frame. Anthony fell behind by as many as 41 sticks midway in the game, but closed the gap when he started his own string of strikes in the sixth. Laub left the door open in the 10th frame when he left a split. But Anthony, needing a "double' in the 10th, recorded only the first and lost by 10 pins.

The runnerup took $4,000, while third-place Gearhart got $25,500. Buckley bankrolled $2,000 and fifth-place Petraglia — an eight-time titlist — pocketed $1,800 for his efforts.

Larrieu breaks own record

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Francie Larrieu of the Pacific Coast Track Club ran a brilliant 4:34.6 mile Saturday night at the Seattle Indoor Track Meet, smashing her own world indoor record by nearly two seconds.

Flying from the start, Miss Larrieu quickly outdistanced her competition and set a deadly pace that kept her consistently ahead of her old world mark of 4:36.5 set in 1973.

Her face set in grim determination, the California runner led second-place schoolgirl sensation Debbie Quatier by more than half a lap at the finish.

Her world record time was 6.1 seconds better than the meet record she set last year.

O.J. bags Hickok Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — O.J. Simpson, who's winning just about every award worth winning these days after breaking the 2,000-yard rushing barrier in pro football, Saturday was named the winner of the Hickok "Professional Athletes of the Year" award.

Simpson will receive the Hickok belt—valued at more than $15,000—at a special awards luncheon here Monday.

Simpson won by the biggest margin besides receiving the largest number of first place votes in the 24-year history of the award.

It's rare for a pro athlete to dominate a sports award the way Simpson has this season. He was even named the athlete of the month in October, an honor which traditionally goes to the World Series hero.

The Buffalo Bills' running back got 149 first place votes and a total of 506 1-2 points to easily outdistance Hank Aaron, the Atlanta Braves' slugger who got 17 votes for first place for a total of 213 points—which has been good enough to win the award in some years.

Aaron came within one homer of making a better run for the award when he finished the season with a career total of 713—one short of Babe Ruth's record.

If Aaron had tied or broken Ruth's record last season, he would have been in stronger contention. But since he's a cinch to do it this year, he has to be the early favorite for the 1974 award.

Nolan Ryan, the strikeout king of the California Angels who set a major league record with 383 strikeouts, finished third in the balloting.

George Foreman finished fourth for knocking out Joe Frazier in February to win the heavyweight championship. He, too, might have been a stronger contender if he'd defended it against some legitimate contenders during the year.

Secretariat also received some votes although there's some question about whether or not he's an athlete.

Simpson is the fourth football player to win the award, which was inaugurated in 1950 when the Yankee's little shortstop Phil Rizzuto won the award.

The other three were Otto Graham, quarterback of the Cleveland Browns in 1955, Jimmy Brown of the Browns in 1964 and Joe Namath of the New York Jets in 1968.

Of course, Simpson broke Brown's rushing record with his 2,003-yard performance. He also snapped the record for carries, rushing 332 times to break Brown's mark of 305.

Simpson carried over 100 yards in 11 different games to set another record, and he gained 250 yards in a single game for still another mark. He also set records for most carries in a game (39) and most games rushing more than 200 yards (3).

Simpson was also an all-star off the field. He spent most of the season giving his teammates the credit for his performances. He said so many nice things about guard Reggie McKenzie that he helped McKenzie make the all-pro team this year.

Nastase, Gorman do battle in Fidelity finals

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Top-seeded Ile Nastase of Romania overcame a second-set slump Saturday to defeat fourth-seeded Nikki Pilic, 6-3, 2-6, 3-2 and advance to the finals of the $50,000 Fidelity World Championship tennis tournament.

Second-seeded Tom Gorman topped Patrice Dominguez 2-6, 6-3, 6-2 to set up a Nastase-Gorman final this afternoon.

Nastase, 27, taking advantage of key double faults and errors by Pilic, won the first set easily. But the 34-year-old Pilic, from Yugoslavia, mounted a comeback in the second set.

Trailing two games to one, Pilic swept the next five games to force a decisive third set.

Nastase, the WCT's leading money winner last year, won the first three games of the final set and went on to post an easy win.

Gorman, 27, of Seattle, Wash., had his service broken twice as he lost his first set, 6-2. But he came on strong in the second and third sets to easily outclass Dominguez, the tournament's Cinderella player.

The 23-year-old Frenchman had beaten Erik Van Dillen, Tony Roche and Marty Riessen to reach the semifinals.

The colorful Nastase was in fine form, delighting a Richmond Coliseum crowd of 5,000 with his antics. At one point, when Pilic duffed an easy shot, Nastase called out; "Thank you."

Sports news in brief

SANDRA PALMER fired a four-under-par 69 Saturday to take a four-stroke lead into final round of the $35,000 Burdines Invitational Golf Tournament, the first stop on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

Four strokes back of Miss Palmer's two round total of 139, were Karolyn Kertzman (71) and Donna Caponi Young (70) at 143. Mary Mills is five strokes off the pace at 144.

JULIUS BOROS fired a five-under-par 67 Saturday to lead the third round of the 35th Annual PGA Men's Seniors Championship at the St. Lucie Hilton Country Club in Port St. Lucie, Fla.

The Miami golfer's total of 204 was just three strokes ahead of Sam Snead, caught in a four-way tie for second with Roberto De Vicenzo, Art Wall and Pete Cooper.

UNSEEDED RAUL RAMIREZ, a 20-year-old from Mexico, upset top-seeded Jaime Fillol of Chile, 6-3, 7-6, Saturday afternoon to advance to the finals of the $25,000 First Annual Dayton Tennis Classic.

In the other semifinals match, second-seeded Brian Gottfried defeated unseeded Alex Metrevelli, 7-6, 7-5, to advance to today's finals match against Ramirez.

SANDY MAYER upset fourth-seeded Jurgen Fassbender of West Germany, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3 Saturday to advance to the finals of the $20,000 Baltimore International Tennis Championship.

Mayer, the only amateur in the tourney, will meet the winner of the Clark Graebner-Charlie Owens semifinal match, today.

CHIN LING CHANG of Taiwan is paired with Pattie Ann Reese and Ingrid Bentzer, of Sweden, plays Carrie Fleming today in the qualifying round of the $50,000 S&H Green Stamp Women's Tennis Classic.

Also on today's bill is the Robin Kenney-Kate Latham match.

On Monday, Jeannie Evert plays Patti Hogan for the last qualification match., Jeannie's sister, Chris Evert, is top seeded in the tourney.

Winners of the qualifiers will be added to a field of 28 players already in the draw for the tournament, the fourth stop on the Virginia Slims tour.

CHARLIE SCOTT, the Phoenix Suns guard who suffered a compound fracture in his left wrist which will put him out for the rest of the season, said Saturday he expects to be released from the hospital next week.

Scott, 25, was the NBA's fourth-leading scorer before colliding with Los Angeles Laker center Elmore Smith in a game Friday night. Scott fell hard to the floor, trying to break his fall with his hand.

RICHMOND'S BARRY SMITH, a first-round draft choice of the National Football League and the New World Football League, Saturday was named the Big Five Player of the Year by the Virginia Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

Smith, a third-team All-American fullback, helped power Richmond to an 8-2 season. The 235-pounder was drafted by the NFL's Green Bay Packers and the new Baltimore-Washington franchise of the WFL.

THE MONTREAL EXPOS Saturday signed outfielder Ken Singleton, second baseman Ron Hunt and catcher Bob Stinson to 1974 contracts, bringing to 21 the number of players signed

Shoemaker rides to his 8th San Pasquel win

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker brought Tri Jet to a head victory Saturday in the 37th running of the $59,050 San Pasqual Handicap at Santa Anita for his eighth win over the years in the rich stakes.

Forage split the entry of Tri Jet and Susan's Girl as the famed mare failed for the fourth time in her career to beat male horses.

For Shoemaker it was the 607th stakes victory and raised his wins over 22 years to 6,594.

Tri Jet raced the 1 1-16 miles in the excellent time of 1:41 2-5, just a second slower than the track and stakes record set by Nodouble in 1970.

The crowd of more than 35,000 installed the Fred W. Hooper entry as the 6-5 choice and it returned $4.60, $2.40 and $2.60.

Forage, an outstanding New York campaigner last year, paid $3.20 and $4.40 for his place finish.

Tri Jet has now won six stakes of which the $100,000 Hawthorne Gold Cup last summer was his richest win. The triumph in the San Pasqual was worth $36,550 and boosted Tri Jet's career earnings to more than $300,000.

Tee to cup

A Frank Sinatra Scholarship Program, designed to give financial assistance to needy but bright young golfers seeking college educations, will be inaugurated with the 1974 fall semester.

"We'll tee off the program with three scholarships this fall," said the entertainer, "and hopefully we'll increase the number every year."

Sinatra has been deeply involved in assisting needy young men obtain college degrees through his work as chairman, with Palmer, in his Day With The All Americans Tournament, which will be held Tuesday at Canyon CC. Proceeds benefit the Tony Lema Scholarship Fund, named after the late Pro Golfer.

Sinatra indicated he would like eventually to expand the program to include a youngster from each of the eight NCAA districts.

"I think it would be something terrific to have kids from each of these areas across the country in our program. They tell me this concept has never been approached before."

The value of the scholarships will be determined at future meetings. Selection of winners from high school graduates, by a national scholarship committee, will stress academic excellence and financial need, not golfing ability.

"We aren't necessarily looking for these boys to be the future Arnold Palmers, Johnny Millers or Ben Crenshaws," said Sinatra. "But if they turn out to be doctors, dentists and scientists, well, that's not so bad, either." William D. Fugazy, president of Diners-Fugazy Travel & Incentive Corp. and the man who started the Lema Scholarships in 1968, said, "Frank's scholarship program will be similar to the Lema one but will be a separate entity. With Frank's active participation, one program will augment the other and broaden the scope of assistance."

PREVIOUS PARTICIPANTS needn't take a second look at their calendars; they're seeing correctly. The fifth annual California 500 Celebrity Golf Invitaional, nomally hald in September, will be played Friday, March 8.

The Ontario 500 Festival Association will sponsor the 18-hole shotgun tournament at Ontario National Golf Club, two days before the California 500 Race at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Entry fee for amateur players will be $100. Each sponsor will receive two $20 tickets to the 500 Race, several gifts, free greens fees and golf cart, an invitation for two to the awards presentation cocktail party and buffet, a chance to golf with the top celebrities and athletes and a chance to win individual and team trophies.

Entry forms and further information may be obtained by contacting Helen Palmieri at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 31, Ontario, Calif. 91761. The telephone is (714) 984-2458.

BRUCE BARNES, former UCLA gridder and now playing as a professional with the New England Patriots, has become the first golfer ever to collect a hole-in-one on the long No. 14 hole at Valencia Golf Course, located on Inter State 5 near Magic Mountain.

Cal Poly baseball loaded with speed

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Don't be surprised if the Cal Poly baseball field resembles a race track at times this season.

1974's Bronco baseball fortunes will depend in large measure on the Bronco's ability to out-speed rather than out-slug their opponents, according to coach John Scolinos.

"This is one of the best base-running clubs I've ever had" is the way Scolinos sums up his squad's speed. "Our ability to run the bases will be our main offensive weapon this year."

All of which promises an exciting season for Bronco baseball followers.

Actually, the Broncos have a lot more to offer than speed. Coming off a 27-26 record last year and a 14-9 record in the super-tough California Collegiate Athletic Association, Coach Scolinos' crew has several major pluses for 1974.

Perhaps the biggest is the return of third baseman Steve Ludewig.

Ludewig, a senior this year, posted an incredible .441 batting average against all comers last season. "Rags," as he is known to his teammates, was selected to the NCAA College Division All-West Coast team for his play last year and appears to be ready for a repeat performance.

Ludewig will serve as co-captain with leftfielder Steve Bruecker, also returning from last year's varsity squad. Bruecker, a .287 batter last season, should make the Broncos offense go from his leadoff spot.

Rightfielder Steve Herter and shortstop Nick Lusic also return from last year's team, while Dave Chapman will assume full-time catching duties after being the Broncos' backup receiver in 1973.

The designated pinch hitter rule is making its appearance in college ball this year, and Scolinos feels he has a good one in Pete Alexander of Damien High. Alexander, like virtually all the Bronco starters, has good running speed and can also play both infield and outfield if needed.

Junior college transfers make up a very small fraction of the Poly roster, but two that Scolinos does have appear to be standouts.

Centerfielder Dennis Sherow, who attended Compton JC last year, is a real major league prospect in Scolinos' opinion. Sherow reminds many big league scouts of a right-handed Willie Davis, and he is, as Scolinos says, "a real flyer." Sherow, at 6-foot-4 and 185 pounds, also has good power and should find himself batting cleanup for the Broncos.

The other JC player Scolinos has is second baseman Kevin Thornhill, a 5-foot-7 dynamo who was a JC All-American at Merced (Calif.) College in 1973.

Biggest question mark for Scolinos other than the pitching staff is the situation at first base. Scolinos still is undecided whether John Turriff, a junior, or Dennis Rodgers, a senior, will start at that position.

Pitching is, and must be, a major consideration in the rugged slate the Broncos face. One of the men Scolinos planned to have as a starter was senior righthander Scott Cassells of Montclair, but Cassells has come down with a sore arm this winter. The loss of Cassells, who had a 3-3 mark last year, could really hurt the Broncos.

On the plus side of the pitching ledger, ace righthanders Vic Bernal and Dee King return. Bernal, only a sophomore last year, led the team in wins with a 8-6 mark. King, now in his senior year, had a 4-4 record last year. They give Scolinos a good one-two starting punch to throw at rivals.

Other pitchers vieing for the remaining starting slots are sophomores Tom Rosenstein and John Kistner and seniors Bob Franks and John Riddle. Riddle in the only southpaw in the lot.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A year ago, Jake Milford was making his living as a scout for the New York Rangers.

"At my age, a person doesn't need all the aggravation and pressure that goes with a general manager's job," he said.

Regardless, the 57-year-old Milford finds himself as GM of the Los Angeles Kings, a club that hasn't made the NHL playoffs for four straight seasons.

"I was a little frightened at first," he admitted. "Believe me, I wasn't after the job. I wasn't that enthusiastic at first."

Hired as an assistant general manager to Larry Regan this season, Milford inherited the job of running Jack Kent Cooke's hockey club when Regan resigned Dec. 4.

"I was taken by complete surprise," the new Kings' front office head offered. "And I had been working with Larry and everything seemed to be going along very well."

Regan submitted his resignation following a trade the Kings made with the New York Rangers, giving up Gilles Marotte and Real Lemeiux for Tom Williams, Mike Murphy and Sheldon Kannegiesser. It was a trade Regan didn't like.

The trade, which Milford recommended strongly to Cooke, has helped turn the season around for Los Angeles. Since the Dec. 1 deal, the Kings have a dozen wins, nine losses and five ties.

"I very seldom let myself think we're not going to make the playoffs," said Milford. "Actually, I think we're good enough personnel-wise to wind up in third place in our division (the NHL West) this season."

Los Angeles has made too many deals in the past, according to its new GM.

"Several times they (the Kings) were a little too quick in making trades," he declared. "They didn't wait long enough for a boy to come along. This is a major reason why the trades they made didn't turn out.

"I feel now that it's very important if any trade is made to acquire younger fellows like we did in this last trade because most of the draft choices of the next few years have been traded off."

Borzov, Puttemans lead impressive field

INGLEWOOD, Caoif. (UPI) — Valery Borzov, Russia's double sprint gold medal winner at the Munich Olympics in 1972, and Belgian distance ace Emiel Puttemans, holder of six world records, head an impressive list of foreign track and field athletes entered in the Times Indoor Games Friday night.

Sponsored by the Los Angeles Times, the 18th annual meet at the Forum also will feature all three long jump medal winners at Munich—University of Southern California's Randy Williams, (gold) West Germany's Hans Baumgartner (silver) and the San Diego Track Club's Arnie Robinson (bronze).

Puttemans is entered in the two-mile run and may be matched against Oregon's Steve Prefontaine. Prefontaine, holder of three American distance records, hasn't decided whether he will go at one mile or two miles here.

Puttemans, a gardener from Louvain, Belgium, was ranked as the No. 5 athlete in the world and the best in Europe in 1973 by the Track & Field News following an undefeated season.

Borzov was here a year ago and lost to Herb Washington in the 60-yard dash. He went on to lose the other three races of his indoor visit in the United States and Canada.

In fact, the Soviet Union sprint whiz failed miserably to regain the form that enabled him to win at 100 and 200 meters at Munich two years ago. He was not ranked among the world's 10 best in either event in 1973.

Other Russians entered in the Times meet are Olympic silver medalist Yevgeniy Arzhanov in the 1,000-yard run, pole vaulter Yuriy Isakov and high jumper Valentin Gavrilov.

Another top foreign athlete is Marcello Fiasconaro of Italy, the world 800-meter record holder who is entered in the 600 yard run.

Injuries fail to halt trip

FARMINGTON, N.M. (UPI) — Western New Mexico basketball coach Dick Drangmeister, with six of his players injured in a traffic accident, decided Friday to go ahead with a scheduled road trip through Colorado.

The six players —including star Ernie Signars —and assistant coach Sam Olney received minor injuries Thursday night when their van went out of control and overturned on an embankment.

None of the players required hospitalization. Olney, 23, was released after observation. The six players, which included three starters, were all sore and stiff.

The coach said Signars, who received stitches for a cut on his neck, would start on the road trip.

Olney, who was driving the nine-passenger van, said he was behind a station wagon carrying Drangmeister and other players when a herd of deer ran onto the road.

Olney said he hit the brakes and swerved into the southbound lane, but had to swerve back when another car approached. The van overturned down an embankment. Several of the players were thrown out.

Winnipeg dominates

Winnipeg's Jets won the Western Division of the World Hockey Assn. the first year. First place was made easier because of an 8-0 margin over the Los Angeles Sharks.

Marques Johnson surprised when put in starting lineup

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Seventeen-year-old Marques Johnson couldn't believe what he heard when John Wooden began giving out defensive assignments moments before the UCLA-Notre Dame rematch.

"He said, 'Walton take Shumate, Johnson guard Dantley,'" Johnson recalled. "I was shocked. I had no idea I'd be starting. It was the farthest thing from my mind."

The surprise move also came as a shock to Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps. After the Bruins had rolled to a 94-75 victory, in which the freshman Johnson scored 16 points, Phelps marvelled, "Johnson was the key to the game."

Johnson, a strong, 6-5 ½, 212-pound forward, has surprised a lot of people with his rapid progress, including Wooden.

"He has just remarkable poise," Wooden said. "I didn't want to rush him, but now he's definitely ready. I'm very happy for him."

Johnson came to Westwood with impressive credentials—All-City player of the year from Los Angeles' Crenshaw High, prep All-America—but many of his friends and teammates warned him he'd just be another clean-up man at UCLA.

"A lot of people told me I'd be sitting on the bench here, wasting my talent," he said. "I felt I had something to prove to them, and to myself."

Johnson's rise to the starting lineup of the nation's top-ranked team, making him Wooden's first freshman starter in more than 20 years, climaxes a season of steady improvement. He joined the team as one of five freshman battling for one remaining varsity slot.

"I'd originally figured on playing jayvees my first year," he said. "I looked at the roster and figured (6-9 center) Richard Washington would be the likely freshman to make it.

"In the first couple weeks of practice, I played pretty poorly. As time went on, I started getting the hang of the system Wooden uses and I began playing better. Then I thought I had a chance of making the team."

As it turned out, both Washington and Johnson made the squad. A sophomore, Casey Corliss, decided to sit out the year.

Johnson's play kept improving, but his chances of cracking Wooden's nucleus of eight "starters" looked dim until the first UCLA-Notre Dame game. One of Wooden's explanations for the 71-70 loss was poor rebounding, which he felt Johnson could help "shore up" in the rematch.

Wooden tried out his new alignment, with Johnson and Dave Meyers at the wing positions, against Santa Clara the night before the Notre Dame game. Johnson responded with a game-high 20 points and earned his starting job, although he's not sure how long it will last.

"Coach said if we play against a quick team he'd probably start Pete (Trgovich)," Johnson said. "But he would use me against a strong rebounding team. I'm just not sure who will start."

Wooden's response: "For the time being, I'll probably start him. He has delivered for us. He deserves a chance to be in there."

Chacon KOs Ramos in five

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Featherweight Bobby Chacon, 128, of Los Angeles scored a fifth-round knockout over Jorge Ramos, 129 ½, of Buenos Aires, Argentina, Friday night.

Chacon, the sixth-ranked featherweight, put Ramos down with a right-hand to the jaw. Ramos fell heavily to the canvas, landing on his left shoulder. He got up at the count of five but told referee John Thomas that he was unable to continue.

Chacon set the pace and outboxed Ramos. Ramos scored at times with wild overhand rights but also went down in the third round from a left-right combination.

It was Chacon's 22nd win against one loss with 20 knockouts. Ramos' record slipped to 41-10-3.

Five-goal scorer

When the Los Angeles Sharks obtained Ron Ward in a trade for goalie George Gardner, they acquired the first player to score five goals in one game. Ward rang the red light five times, Jan. 4, 1973, against Ottawa, while playing with the New York

West Coast Jets enter Indoor Times track meet

POMONA—The West Coast Jets will be well represented when coach Bill Fergerson enters five members of his own family along with Shirley Lenyoun and Renaye Bowen in the Times Indoor Games Friday night.

Of the Fergersons, Mable will be running in the 60 yard dash and the 440 yard run. Willa Mae is scheduled for the 440 as well. Vernell will run in the 60 yard dash with twin brother Vernon a standby in the event. With Tim entered in the 600 yard run.

Bowen and Lenyoun will both be entered in the long jump with Renaye competing in the 60 yard dash and Shirley entered in the medley relay.

This group is also running in the National AAU Indoor championships in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 22.

Centers ignored

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only two centers have been selected as the No. 1 pick since the Natinal Football League began drafting college football players in 1936.

They were Ki Aldrich, great TCU center in 1939, and Chuck Bednarik, Pennsylvani's big star of 1949. Both played offensive and defensive football. Bednarik was the last NFL player to play two ways, which he did until his retirement in 1960.

Happy's comeback a successful one

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Coming off a crippling knee injury that caused him to miss virtually all of last season, Happy Hairston was a question mark even to himself when he started his 10th NBA year.

After all, he reflected, it was the first major injury of his basketball career.

"It had to be the most trying experience as an athlete I've ever had," said the 31-year-old forward. "I didn't know what to expect.

"The exhibition season and the first 10 to 15 games of the regular season were very tough. My knee had a lot of pain and stiffness."

Despite the rough start, the Hairston comeback has been a successful one. A highly successful one, in fact.

In the first two-thirds of the Lakers' schedule — four months and 51 games—the 6-7 former New York University standout is the club's No. 4 scorer with a 13.6 average but, more importantly, is its top rebounder.

In 46 games, he has 610 rebounds to 574 for 7-foot center Elmore Smith.

"One of the toughest things about coming back was learning to cut again," he recalled. "I could run straight up and down fine but whenever I cut I would have all kinds of pain.

"I'm really elated about the way things have turned out now, though. I think if I had another serious injury that I'd have a better mental attitude because I'd be able to cope with it better."

His job with the Lakers, Hairston said, is to compliment Smith, the man who is trying to fill the departed Wilt Chamberlain's big shoes.

"There's no question we miss Wilt," he remarked. "But Elmore is an outstanding ballplayer, too. He's a fabulous shot blocker.

"I really feel I should be getting 15 rebounds a game. Really, that's not that many. I know I get down on myself if I get any less than 12 or 13."

Surprisingly, the Lakers find themselves ahead of Golden State in the Pacific Division.

"I think we can win our division," Hairston said, "and who knows what will happen in the playoffs. We've beaten Milwaukee twice this season and they're supposed to be the team to beat."

Rivers top candidate for centerfield spot?

ANAHEIM — Mickey Rivers, like Nolan Ryan, may be faster than instant coffee.

While Ryan has exhibited his prowess on the mound, Rivers is beginning to show his talents offensively. He is running, hitting and fielding with promising consistency, making him a prime candidate for the Angels' center field position.

"He has matured as a player," said teammate Frank Robinson, who managed him at Santurce in Puerto Rico this winter. Rivers batted .356, third best in the league, finishing with 90 hits, 42 runs, 14 doubles, three triples, seven home runs and 30 rbi in 70 games.

"He is ready to play every day," said Robinson. "He has blinding speed on the field and can move around the bases as fast as anyone. At the plate he knows what to do with certain pitches. He has learned to pull the ball as well as go to the opposite field. He throws well and gets rid of the ball very quickly. With his speed he can out-run most fly balls."

Rivers once was timed in 3.1 seconds to first base. With added experience at taking leads from first and second base and with four solid minor league seasons behind him, he appears ready to make an impression in the American League.

In a doubleheader for Santurce he collected nine hits in 10 at-bats, including two home runs, a triple and two doubles. He led the league in batting until the final three weeks of the season.

In four seasons with the Angels farm system, Rivers has combined for a .336 batting average with 516 hits in 1,537 at bats, scored 316 runs and stolen 104 bases. He appeared to have things together in the final month of the regular major league season in 1973. In 30 games, after joining the club on September 4, he collected 45 hits, batted .349, scored 26 runs, had 16 rbi and finished the year with a 14-game batting streak (.391, 25-64). The 5-10 speedster had three hits in a game on four occasions.

'What kind of a mother...?'

By ERMA BOMBECK

By ERMA BOMBECK

There are six words that make my flesh crawl. I don't even hang around for the rest of the sentence. As soon as I hear, "What kind of a mother would . . ." I split.

We all start out like Mary Poppins. But somewhere along the line, the washer breaks down, the gerbils form a city, and you realize the high spot in your day is finding your comb in the toy box.

It's easy to be critical when you don't know the circumstances. For some of the most-often-asked questions, I offer these answers.

"What kind of a mother would let a child go to church wearing a sweat shirt that reads, 'U. S. OLYMPIC DRINKING TEAM'?"

Answer: A mother who washes and irons eight days a week, who succumbs to pleas from her child to "Let me dress myself" and is at this moment knocking on the door of the convent begging for an application blank.

"What kind of mother would let a child play with the produce?"

Answer: A mother who has one child in the cart eating a bar of soap, another one with a hand caught in the gum machine, a husband who is going around the block with his gas gauge on E, and who has two items too many for the Express Line.

"What kind of amother would strap a baby into a car so that he can move only his head?"

Answer: A mother realistic enough to believe the old adage that "God couldn't be everywhere at once so he made two-year-olds."

"What kind of mother would write a 15-cent check for school milk?"

Answer: A mother who is shrewed enough to hid her ballpoint pen in the oven.

"What kind of a mother would call the teacher to verify her son's request for $6 for a workbook?"

Answer: The same mother who sent $6 for the same workbook for the same child back in September, who is realistic enough to know there's a little larceny in every child.

Mothers aren't perfect. No one said they were. But what's wrong with collaring your own child once in awhile and saying, "Kid, on a love scale of ten, today you're a big zero."

What kind of a woman would say, "What kind of a mother would . . .?"

Possibly the woman who reads only the Ivory ads, watches the Brady Bunch, or who has forgotten what it takes to survive "the best years of your life."

Iowa congressman to quit after 26 years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Take off his tie, give him a pitchfork and H. R. Gross could be the man in Grant Wood's classic painting "American Gothic." Ascetic, gray and grim, he is a negative image of the lush Iowa farm country he has spoken for in Congress for the last quarter century.

Now Henry Royce Gross, the curmudgeon of the House, the "Last of the Big Non-Spenders," is packing it. At 74, after 13 two-year terms, Gross has concluded he can no longer give the job the time and effort it requires.

For Gross, the job demanded attendance, attention and toughness. For most of 26 years he occupied a seat halfway back on the Republican side of the House chamber from opening to adjourning gavel of nearly every day's session.

From there, he has sniped at Democratic and Republican colleagues alike, battled what he regarded as laxity and waste of taxpayers' money and denounced what seemed to him to be a flood of foolish ideas from fuzzy-minded liberals.

That most of these things represented the unstoppable flow of government and society since World War II did not seem to faze Gross. He almost always lost his crusades for thrift and against change, but he always came back for more, objecting, ridiculing, warning.

And he had his triumphs. Once a committee tried to slip through a bill authorizing federal funds to design and produce a special flag for members of Congress. With practically no one else on the floor, Gross extracted the information that the flag was to accomodate a congressman who wanted to fly it on his cabin cruiser.

Then, sweetly allowing that land-locked members might want to use the flag on their automobiles, he asked the redfaced sponsor: "Would I fly it above or below the racoon tail?" The bill was withdrawn.

He also betrayed a weakness for puns. Once he described a public official who got caught taking free transportation from a brewery as "sadder Budweiser,' and another time went to some pains to get a budgetcutting bill he sponsored designated with the selfidentifying number H. R. 144 (H.R. stands for House Resolution and a gross is 144).

Gross rose through seniority to become ranking member of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, which has jurisdiction over government pay. But despite his most strenuous objections, he could not stop federal pay raises, and many observers believe his long years as a House "loner," ruined any chance he might have had to build influence in the fraternity-house atmosphere of the House. But that didn't seem to bother him either. He told the House last December: "I am not here to backscratch or be backscratched."

He was death on foreign aid, junketing congressmen and members who refused to give full time to the job. Gross gave the mythical "I-T-O-T Club" (In on Tuesday, Out on Thursday) its name and often would demand rollcalls to compel members to attend sessions.

But he was far from friendless. The late Rep. Clare Hoffman, R-Mich., another maverick who had his suits tailored without pockets to demonstrate he was not "on the take," was a close friend. When Hoffman suffered a crippling stroke, Gross went daily to the Michigan man's Capitol Hill apartment to feed and bathe him. No one knew about that until Hoffman died.

When Gross announced Thursday he would retire at the end of the year, he did not prepare an elaborate press release. He had his statement typed on onion-skin carbon sheets, signed each and sent them to the House Press Gallery.

Cut your own taxes

Refunds may represent losses, not savings

By RAY DE CRANE

It's tax refund time again. Americans love refunds-even if they have to pay dearly to get them.

Of the $21.2 billion paid out in refunds by the U.S. Treasury last year, nearly one-half, or $10, billion, was the direct result of over-witholding. Over-withholding results when you permit the Government to deduct more from your paycheck than you should. You do this by claiming fewer exemptions than you are entitled to.

Think about it. Is a refund always a blessing? At least half of the time, it appears from the record, the refund is a gyp.

When you owe the Government money and are late in paying, six per cent interest is added to your bill. But when you give the Government extra dollars every week of the year and the Government merely gives you your own dollars back-with nothing added for interest-you are actually losing money.

You don't have to be smart to get a deal like that.

Think what you could do with that money. You could put in a savings, account and earn the interest for yourself, you could invest it in stocks or bonds, or you could simply get the advantage of cash discounts on all your purchases.

Those $10 billion in unnecessary refunds collectively cost taxpayers $500 million in lost interest last year. At least that is what the $10 billion would have earned if invested at five per cent.

Maybe you have a better place for your money than passing it along interest-free. Perhaps you would like the use of that money yourself during the year.

Read all the installments in this tax series. Then get a copy of Cut Your Own Taxes 1974. You will learn how to SAVE money by cutting your taxes instead of LOSING money on a refund.

You can get complete details on how to save dollars on your 1973 income tax by following the step-by-step instructions in CUT YOUR OWN TAXES 1974, the book by Roy De Crane that tells all. Send your name, address and zip with check or money order for $1 plus 25 cents for postage and handling to Progress - Bulletin Tax Book, P.O. Box 849, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Research links IQ to environmental causes

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Evidence supporting an environmental rather than a genetic explanation for the higher scores of whites over nonwhites on intelligence tests has been offered by a University of Pennsylvania anthropologist.

Research by associate professor Peggy Sanday indicates that social class integration in schools, usually accompanying racial integration, leads to improved IQ scores for both blacks and lower-class whites, according to a report released this month by the U.S. Office of Education.

A study of the IQ changes of all ninth graders attending primarily segregated Pittsburgh schools in 1971, Dr. Sanday found that school segregation had a negative effect on the IQ scores of blacks, but the changes seemed to reflect school environment rather than racial aptitude and the pattern of white gain and black loss seemed set by the fourth grade.

Dr. Sanday said her study showed that blacks "removed from mainstream culture" lost IQ points between kindergarten and ninth grade, while whites gained. She also noted that blacks and whites lost IQ points when enrolled in lower socio-economic schools.

The professor said the findings suggest the importance of school integration at an early age because "after that point, the magnitude of the amount gained or lost increased each year."

The findings run counter to the widely publicized positions of Nobel prize-winning physicist William Shockley and educational psychologist Arthur Jenson, who contend that IQ differences stem from genetics.

Greasing the crisis skids

Energy office handles massive task

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — On the door of Eugene Standley, deputy regional administrator of the Federal Energy Office, a sign reads:

"We didn't know oil could cause so much friction."

Easing friction is the task of the regional energy office hastily organized in San Francisco for Arizona, California, Hawaii and Nevada.

Originally the office consisted of Standley, an Interior Department oil and gas specialist, and an aide. Three months ago its complement grew to 10.

"They threw the whole ball of wax at us, without any money," Standley says. "We had to beg, borrow and steal all we could, even people."

Now the office has 112 persons, mainly borrowed from other federal agencies, along with government furniture moved into rented quarters in a downtown office building.

Donald Holz, who is in charge of the section handling inquiries from frantic oil users and suppliers, has a background of evaluating recreational sites for the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

"It's not the best experience for the job," he says, "but there is nobody with good experience."

Along with the businessmen, Holz' staff receives a stream of people with ideas for solving the energy crisis—like the man who wants freeway sections enclosed so wind generated in the resulting tunnel can be used to drive turbines.

With desks standing around waiting for placement, a ladder in the middle of an office for some adjustment, disorganization remains the rule.

One middle-aged employe explains that he is changing jobs and sections "after lunch." Another walks into the office of his boss with a problem, and says on the way out, "By the way, it is nice to have met you."

William Loefstedt, a Coast Guard lieutenant commander trained for inspection of ships, says that while he was in Washington for a few days, his section's staff doubled.

Loefstedt is in charge of case resolution officers, the people who process applications from fuel users seeking extra oil or gas. With the help of guides the size of phone books, they issue allocation orders to suppliers to be filled if they have enough supply.

Large users and their lawyers troop into Holz' office, which gets 400 phone calls daily, to obtain forms FEO 17, which are applications for fuel allocations. The allocations are based on their use in 1972.

"But business has expanded a lot since 1972, and hardly anybody can operate fully on the same amount they used then," Holz says.

When the expanded Honolulu bus system has only enough diesel left for two days, when tiny Sierra County in California learns the gas stations serving its sheriff's vehicles are hours away from going dry, when Northern California floods have hardly risen before an urgent plea comes for diesel to clear the wreckage, calls go to the regional energy office.

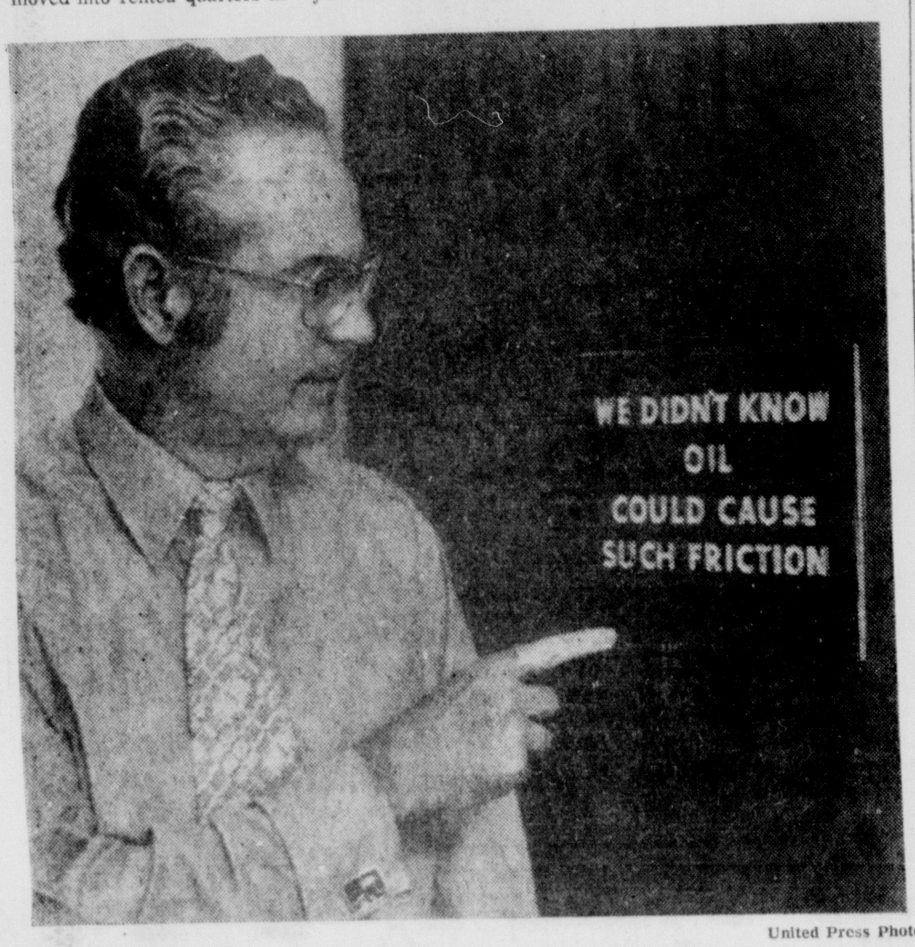
So far, in spite of spot shortages, especially in Arizona, the officials think nobody in the region has been badly hurt by fuel shortage, with the possible exception of filling station operators.

Jesse Kingsberry, a Forest Service employe on loan as head of compliance and enforcement, tells of the San Diego commercial fisherman who had just built a new tuna boat and had no allotment.

"He flew in and we got him enough so he could get his boat out to sea, where he should be," Kingsbury says.

Kingsbury's section will balloon this spring when 100 investigators of price gouging and false claims are added to the staff. The function temporarily is being handled by Internal Revenue Service agents.

"Our job is a challenge," Kingsbury says. "We can set the standards of the new agency by our behavior. It is personally rewarding."



United Press Photo

SIGNS OF THE TIMES — Eugene Standley, deputy regional director of the federal energy office in San Francisco, says this placard on his door describes accurately what his job is all about.

Illegitimates one-third of kids on county welfare roll

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than one third of the children being supported by the county are illegitimate, about 133,000 of them, County Welfare Director Ellis P. Murphy reports.

However, his report showed, the number of illegitimate births has been declining steadily ince 1970, ending a 20-year rise before that.

In a report to the Board of Supervisors, Murphy said the county dispenses about $35.7 million a month in welfare aid to families with dependent children, with about $12.6 million going to the 36 per cent born out of wedlock.

There are about 102,000 illegitimate children not on the welfare rolls, he said.

He said 43 per cent of the mothers gave birth to illegitimate children while the mothers were between 18 and 26 years old, and 35 per cent of the women have only one illegitimate child.

Los Angeles is typical, for the most part, of major U.S. urban areas, he said, and appears to have slightly less illegitimacy than Chicago or New York.

Postal service honors veterans

The U.S. Postal Service has announced the issuance of a special stamp on March 11 at Washington, D.C., to honor the veterans of the Spanish-American and all other foreign wars. The stamp will also focus attention on the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Robert Hallock of Newtown, Conn., designed the horizontal 10 cent stamp. "VFW" with a star following each letter appears in red across the top of the stamp. Beneath, also in red, is the Maltese Cross, symbol of the organization. Opposite is "Anniversary" and in the center appears "Veterans of Spanish-American and Other Foreign Wars." To the right is the value of 10 cents in blue.

Starting with the Revolutionary War about 32 million men and women have served in America's military forces in wartime.

First-day cancellation requests should be sent to "Veterans Stamp," Postmaster, Washington, D.C. 20013, accompanied by payment.

Expo' 74 World's Fair and its "Preserve the Environment" theme will be saluted with a colorful 10 cent stamp on April 18 at Spokane, Washington. The central figure in the design is a male figure, called by the designer Peter Max, a "Cosmic Jumper" running through the Max Universe, which features animals and other figures representative of the environment. The semi-jumbo stamp will be printed in yellow, red, blue, purple, green and black. It will be issued in panes of 40, with six plate numbers. Orders for first-day cancellations, with proper payment, are to be addressed to: Preserve the Environment, Postmaster, Spokane, WA 99210.

A souvenir card honoring all hobbyists will be released during the National Hobby Show in Chicago which takes place Feb. 3-6. The card recognizes the importance of hobbies in the lives of people and reflects the Postal Service's efforts to encourage the hobby of stamp collecting.

The multi-color souvenir card bears a message from Postmaster E. T. Klassen who notes that it is "issued in compliments to everyone who enjoys a hobby and to the Hobby Industry and its convention at Chicago." Subjects featured on the 1972 American Revolution Bicentennial stamps are part of the design, namely colonial craftsmen, a glassmaker, a silversmith, a wigmaker and a hatter. The cards are available at $1 through the Philatelic Sales Division, Washington, D.C. 20036 after February 4.

Czechoslovakia announced the following stamp issues:

JANUARY 1 — 30 h — Fifth anniversary of Federal Government;

JANUARY 4 — 60 h each, three stamps, 150th anniversary of the birth of Bedrich Smetana (1824-84) Czech composer; centenary of the birth of Josef Suk (1874-1935) founder of the world-famous string quartet and composer; 70th birthday of Chilean poet Pablo Neruda (1904-73);

JANUARY 23 — 1 Kcs. — 25th anniversary of Council of Mutual Assistance;

FEBRUARY 21 — 60 h — Theme: Czech and Slovak Graphic Art. 3 of surviving Berlin quints reported well

BERLIN (UPI) — Three surviving children of quintuplets born to the wife of a leader of the Free Democratic party were in good condition today, the family said.

Angelika Rasch, 30, wife of Walter Rasch, 31, deputy party floor leader in the West Berlin House of Representatives, gave birth Dec. 29 in the Martin Luther Hospital.

The first girl was born dead after a Ceasarian operation. The second died shortly after birth.

Two girls and a boy survived and were removed to a special clinic and placed in incubators.

The mother, who received hormone treatments, has one other child, a daughter, 5.

Casa Colina benefit
Slated by Juniors

"Put Your Heart in the Right Place" is the theme chosen by the La Verne-San Dimas Junior Women's Club for its luncheon-fashion show at Casa Colina Hospital.

The event is scheduled Saturday with a social hour at 11:30 a.m. and luncheon at noon.

Mrs. Janet Hoxsey will be fashion commentator. Models will display ensembles from the Casa Colina Auxiliary Boutique located in the hospital.

La Verne-San Dimas Juniors have taken Casa Colina as their major philanthropic project this year and funds raised at the luncheon will be used to purchase equipment needed at the hospital.

Mrs. William Biggers is chairman for the event. Decorations chairman is Mrs. James Anthony, and in charge of correspondence is Mrs. Joseph Wessel. Mrs. James W. Watkins is publicity chairman.

Reservations must be made before Tuesday with Mrs. Biggers, 599-4909; Mrs. Ken MacChesney, 599-7202; or Mrs. Larry W. Adams, 599-1325.

The Juniors of La Verne-San Dimas received their charter from the California Federation of Women's Club, Junior Membership, last June and have already conducted a babysitting clinic, volunteered their services at the San Dimas Library and participated in the Mothers' March for the March of Dimes in their neighborhoods, collecting approximately $400.

Americans getting stapled

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last year more than 200,000 Americans were stapled. That brings to 700,000 the number stapled instead of stitched during surgery.

In addition, more than 200 narcotic addicts in the Los Angeles area are walking around with surgical staples in their ears.

Dr. Lester Sacks of the Los Angeles Medical Group inserted the staples, said to reduce effects of withdrawal.

The staplers aren't like the ones on a desk in an office or home. And neither are the staples. But the reason behind their use is the same —to hold things together.

The principle is different with the addicts. Stapling is in place of acupuncture needles — earlier used to ease withdrawal pain. Acupuncture needles were cumbersome. So Dr. Sacks and his associates turned to surgical staples.

Addicts wiggle staples three times a day to reduce pain. In more than 200 patients treated so far the success rate is the same as acupuncture.

Called staplepuncture, the process involves clipping a quarter-inch stainless steel staple into the skin of the tiny ridge of flesh at the outer opening of the auditory canal.

The insertion is painless, due to local anesthesia. The patient does not feel the staple during the two to six weeks it is in place.

For this information and much more on the use of staples in the health field we are indebted to Turi Josefsen, a young woman who has assisted doctors in more than 350 surgical stapling operations and who demonstrates the techniques involved at conferences worldwide.

Also expanding our knowledge in this field was Dr. Mark Ravitch, chief of surgery at the University of Pittsburgh Medical School.

Dr. Ravitch is considered the country's most experienced staple surgeon. In a telephone interview he said the modern day technology of surgical stapling enables the procedure to be used in far more surgical situations every year. However, stapling isn't used in all surgical situations.

A bonus in the stapling, according to the surgeon, is this:

"Surgical stapling reduces operative time by as much as 50 per cent with the added benefit to the patient of faster healing and less post-operative complications."

Miss Josefsen, vice president of sales for United States Surgical Corporation which markets a line of six staplers called Auto Sutures, said tiny stainless steel staples are used.

"The surgeon can place simultaneously the equivalent of 66 silk sutures with one application," she said.

Surgeons who favor the stapler approach say the technique allows them to work faster, more precisely and with less handling of tissue — therefore less trauma to the patient. The payoff for the patient includes: less time on the operating table, reduced blood loss, shorter time under anesthetic and less injury to blood vessels and organs.

Surgeons in more than 1,500 hospitals use the staplers.

The surgical stapler grew from clamps first used by Aladar Van Peltz, a Hungarian, in the 1920s. Russian researchers made many advances in the 1950s and developed a number of different surgical staplers but they required handloading and were difficult to clean.

The auto suture guns have some features of the Russian staplers. But they come equipped with loaded, sterilized and disposable cartridges that can be slipped in and out with ease during operations.

Miss Josefsen said the most famous name associated with an auto suture operation is Cincinnati Reds' star Johnny Bench. Considered by many to be the best baseball player in the nation, he had a lung lesion removed during surgery performed with the aid of a surgical stapling machine.

The surgeon who performed the operation said afterward that without the stapler he would not have been able to remove the lesion without cutting important back muscles.

The economics of surgical stapling relieve the pain in the pocketbook this way:

—Hospitals estimate it costs between $80 and $100 an hour to run an operating room. Any device that saves $40 to $50 an hour reduces the expense for patients. It can mean a saving to the patient of between $25 and $50 when he gets his anesthesia bill alone.

Proceeds from the Saturday fashion show and luncheon charted by the Chino Valley Junior Women's Club will be used to purchase Film Loop equipment for the children's section of the Chino Library.

"A Spring Fling" is the theme for the show at Griswold's 555 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont, which begins with a social hour at 10:30 a.m. Brunch will be served at 11:30 and the style show will begin at 12:30 p.m.

Women's fashions will be provided by Gene's on the Montclair Plaza, children styles are from the Magic Cradle and Teeka's Teens. Hair styles will be done by Robert P. Sandhagen of Towne Avenue Hair Fashions. Models will be club members and their children.

Reservations may be made by calling 597-2328.

Radio math

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University is launching a program to teach mathematics by radio to children in developing countries.

The core of the program, designed for first through sixth graders, is a 20-minute math lesson presented daily by radio, with strong backup from the classroom teacher.

Staff members of Stanford's Institute for Mathematical Studies in the Social Sciences this year are studying five Latin American countries.

March 30 wedding charted

Miss Gloria Holguin and Loren Wayne Ashby will be married on March 30.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Ruben Holguin of Fullerton and the late Mrs. Susie Holguin. She graduated from Nathaniel Narbonne High School in Harbor City and is majoring in police science at Mt. San Antonio College.

Miss Holguin is employed at Hamilton Drug Store.

Mr. Ashby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ashby of La Verne. He graduated from Bonita High School and attended Citrus and MSAC, majoring in police science. He is employed by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department.

Sorority to discuss Awareness

The annual Civil Awareness program of the Foothill Area Council of Beta Sigma Phi is planned Monday at 8 p.m. at the Elks Club in Ontario.

Deputy Shirley Burt of the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department will discuss "Self Protection for Women."

Future council events include the annual Valentine Ball on Feb. 9 and a fashion show luncheon on Feb. 23.

The executive board of Foothill Area Council will serve refreshments at the Monday meeting. The next council program will be on March 4 at the Security Pacific Bank in Upland.

LINDA SLIVA

Miss Sliva will marry Mr. Kiefer

A reception at the 104-year-old Ralston Mansion at the College of Notre Dame, Belmont, will follow the rites.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Sliva of Pomona, the bride-elect attended Claremont High School and Mt. San Antonio College. She is majoring in education for the handicapped at San Francisco State University.

Miss Sliva is employed as a teachers aide by the San Mateo School Distict while on furlough from a position as a Trans World Airlines stewardess.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kiefer of San Mateo, the groom-to-be attended the College of Modesto and is employed at the Continental Bakeries in San Francisco.

BPW clubs will hear minister

The Ontario and Fontana Business and Professional Women's Clubs will meet jointly on Feb. 12 at the Ontario Holiday Inn to celebrate the 51st birthday of the Ontario club.

Patriotic songs will be presented by soloist Mrs. JoAnn Inga. Mrs. Ann Warren, program chairman, will introduce the Rev. William Richard Denton who's topic is "The Liberty Bell Still Rings."

Mr. Denton has been studying and collecting bells for 20 years, dating to his student days at San Francisco Theological Seminary where he played a chime of 13 bells and wrote a master's thesis entitled "Bells and their Use as a Means of Christian Education." He is the librarian on the staff of the Claremont School of Theology.

The dinner will be at 6:30 p.m.

Skirt comeback

This spring and fall will see skirts in great variety — soft, flared, gored and pleated for more and easier movement.

"It's Sew Easy"

Looking for easy sewing tips? Then be sure to attend the Unique® sewing class in our store. It will only take thirty minutes and save you hours of sewing time.

The Unique representative will show you how easy it is to install the Unique Invisible Zipper. And she'll give you lots of extra tips to make all your sewing easy and fun.

She'll take time to answer your individual sewing questions and give you a free sewing booklet to take home, too.

Auxiliary initiates members

Ten new members of Ontario American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 112, were initiated at a recent meeting.

Welcomed to membership were Mmes. Peter Christofero, Robert Crisp, Mary DeMars, Alice Hollowell, Nels Nelson, John Oliver, Bonifacio Rodriguez, Mary Sarsany, Sherman Van Enwyck and Michael Ventrella.

Participating in the installation rites were Mrs. John Sugar, initiating officers, Mmes. Charles Kennedy, James Coulter, Elmer Merritt, Madeline Gunther, Cora Johnson, Arthur A. Novelli and Joseph Monduck.

Past presidents of the auxiliary donated $17.25 to City of Hope in memory of Stephen Rumsey, husband of auxiliary past president Lorena Rumsey. Past presidents will met Feb. 13 at 6:30 p.m. at the clubhouse for a dinner meeting.

February 11 in the deadline for reservations for the national president's luncheon at the Huntington Sheraton in Pasadena on Feb. 17.

The auxiliary has scheduled a rummage sale on Feb. 27 to 29 at the Ontario clubhouse.

Mothers attend meeting

Three members, representing the Pomona Valley Chapter of American Gold Star Mothers, recently attended the executive board meeting of the Department of California, Arizona and Nevada, in Phoenix, Ariz.

Attending the two-day meeting were Mrs. Edith Penn, chapter first vice president; Mrs. Ruth Tedrick, recording and corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Olga Bolton, chapter treasurer and officer on the department board.

The department convention will be held in Anaheim on April 17 to 20.

The Pomona chapter's executive board will meet Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Rheta Wilson, 310 E. Philadelphia Ave., Space 2, Ontario.

Monthly payments

If you must use credit, arrange for monthly payments which suit your budget. If your monthly payments on the appliance and on all other credit will be greater than 20 per cent of take-home pay, you have over-extended yourself. The monthly mortgage isn't figured in that amount.

Legion unit luncheon set

A luncheon for members of Charles P. Rowe, Post, American Legion Auxiliary, is scheduled at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. K. F. Kirkpatrick, 1538 Ganesha Pl.

Members are asked to bring their own table service. Reservations must be made by Tuesday with Mrs. Kirkpatrick.

Proceeds will go to the auxiliary.

Woolery-Louisignau vows said in Nevada

Miss Rebecca Zoe Louisignau and Herlin E. Woolery exchanged wedding vows in an evening ceremony at Las Vegas, Nev.

The Rev. J. Byron Terrel officated at the double-ring ceremony which was witnessed by the mother of the bride and the father of the groom.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Louisignau of Claremont, was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Harry R. Woolery of Claremont.

For the ceremony, the bride selected a beige gown of silk and lace. Lace formed the sleeves which were cuffed at the wrists. A rosebud accented the neckline.

She carried a bouquet of carnations, lilies of the valley and streamers.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Las Vegas, Mexico and Southern California. They were honored at a reception later at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolery are residing in Ontario.

Cool stool

THREE NEW ITEMS. First a cool stool! The double-duty ice chest-stool stores cubes in the base and has a padded vinyl lid for sitting comfort. Great for picnics, camping and backyard barbecues.

A modular snack tray allows one trip refreshment service. A second tray to hold drinks, dips or what-have-you fits over a trio of snack servers snuggly held on a lower tray.

The third handy helper is a series of stackable boxes. Looking like an up-dated version of milk crates, these colorful units can be used for storage of almost anything. All three items are available in several colors and wash clean easily.

Auxiliary schedules meeting

Mrs. Florence Minto will present the program for the Tuesday meeting of Pilgrim Congregational Church Women's Auxiliary.

Mrs. Minto will show films of her second African trip and will have wood carvings, bead work and batik paintings on display. Many local people accompanied Mrs. Minto of Pomona Travel Agency on the recent trip.

Mrs. Jerome Johnson will present music for the day and devotions will be given by Mrs. Charles Magnusson.

The auxiliary board will meet in the Randleman Room at 9:45 a.m.; and the business session will begin at 11:30 a.m. in Pilgrim Hall.

Members of Charity Guild will be hostesses for the luncheon to be served in the gymnasium at 12:15 p.m. The program will follow at 1 p.m. in Pilgrim Hall.

HEW Secretary

GOP speaker booked

Casper Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will be the guest of honor at the Lincoln Day dinner sponsored jointly by the Claremont and Pomona Republican Women's Clubs, Fed., on Friday.

The 7:30 p.m. dinner at Griswold's Indian Hill Inn, Claremont, will be preceded by a 6:30 p.m. social hour. Ticket reservations are due Monday and may be made by calling 626-8443, or 622-4966.

Mr. Weinberger, often mentioned as a possible candidate for governor of California, served as the state's Director of Finance before moving to the national capital. Prior to his appointment as Secretary of HEW, Mr. Weinberger served as Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Congressman Victor V. Veysey, (R-Calif.) will introduce Mr. Weinberger. Congressman Veysey, the U.S. Representative from the 43rd District which has been reapportioned into the newly created 35th District, now represents parts of western San Bernardino County and the Pomona Valley area.

The two men plan to hold a press briefing and a meeting with local civic and governmental leaders prior to the Lincoln Day program.

Star dust may be start of earth's life

NEW YORK (UPI) — Life on earth may stem from tiny bits of star dust floating in space long before the earth took form, according to a report in Chemical and Engineering News, newsweekly of the American Chemical Society.

The organic ingredients of terrestrial life could have formed on the surface of interstellear dust that later agglomerated into planetary bodies, Dr. Gustav Arrhenius of the University of California, San Diego, proposes in a new theory on the formation of life.

Thus, the theory continues, when the earth coalesced from the interstellar dust particles, it already contained the materials common to all forms of terrestrial life.

SILVER ART — Warwick Vase by Paul Storr (1771-1844) is one of the works in "Monumental Silver: The Gilbert Collection," an exhibition now being held at the county Museum of Art. The 18-inch-high silver gilt vase was made by the English artist in 1814. The collection was loaned to the museum by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gilbert.

Romantic music leads Ojai Festival program

OJAI — The annual Ojai Festival, under music director and conductor Michael T. Thomas, will be held in the Ojai Bowl May 31-June 2. Five programs are scheduled.

The opening concert, "A Romantic Recital," will offer music by Wagner, Schumann and Schoenberg, songs by Liszt and Ives, and "Melodramas" by C.P.E. Bach, Schumann and Listz. Appearing on the program will be soprano Phyllis Bryn-Julson, baritone David Evits, pianist Ralph Grierson, Michael Wager, actor, and a boys' choir.

There is an emphasis on Schoenberg and Ives throughout the festival, since 1974 is the centenary of the birth of these two pivotal composers. The afternoon concert June 1 will be devoted to their music. Violinist Paul Zukovsky and pianist Gilbert Kalisch will play the four Ives violin and piano sonatas and the Schoenberg Fantasy for Violin and Piano.

Zukovksy, who has been hailed as an exponent of contemporary violin music, returns that evening. He will play Charles Wuorinen's Concerto for Amplified Violin and Orchestra, which he played in New York in a recent Buffalo Philharmonic concert in Carnegie Hall. Evits returns in an all-20th Century program that includes Stravinsky's "Abraham and Isaac" and Ives' "Three Places in New England."

On the morning of June 2, Thomas expects to continue last year's, successful jazz program. That afternoon he has scheduled what he calls "The Known and Unknown Beethoven." The program includes th Symphony No. 7, the rarely-played Overture and Incidental Music from King Steven, Op. 117, and two "unknown" Beethoven choral works, 'Elegiac Song", Op. 118, and "Calm Sea and Prosperous Voyage," Op. 112. Thomas will conduct the Ojai Festivals Orchestra and the UCLA A Capella Chorus.

In the past year, Thomas, not yet 30, has continued, as director of the Buffalo Philharmonic and principal guest conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, winning honors for his Deutsche Grammophon recordings with the Boston Symphony. He recently has signed an exclusive contract with Columbia Records which will allow him unprecedented freedom in showcasing new and unusual music and his talents as conductor, pianist and programmer.

This year, in addition to the weekend in Ojai, he will open the Hollywood Bowl and Tanglewood seasons.

Brochures with full information on this year's festival will be available at the end of March. Those wishing to be put on the mailing list to receive a brochure should write to Ojai Festivals, Box 185, Ojai, 93023.

Jordanian king will visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan will visit President Nixon next Friday to discuss the Middle East situation, the White House announced.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Hussein was invited by Nixon.

Ziegler stressed it would be a "private visit," without the usual ceremonial activities.

This will be Hussein's fifth visit to the United States, but his first since last February.

There were indications Hussein wants to discuss the status of the Palestinians on the West Bank of the Suez Canal in connection with the Mideast peace talks under way in Geneva.

'Light' art not to be taken lightly in Scripps showing

CLAREMONT — Thirteen artists who stress the use of light on painted and sculptured objects will take part in "Light," an exhibition opening Feb. 13 at the Lang Gallery of Scripps College.

The show demonstrates the use of light in contemporary art. Many pieces involve viewer participation and change constantly.

Neon lights are used by Larry Albright who blows and bends them into unique shapes. Laddie John Dill also works with neon as does Jessica Jacobs, gallery director at Mt. San Antonio College. Miss Jacobs, who was featured in a "Womanspace" exhibit recently, places the neon behind colored glass to create a slowly changing image.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Grinstein of Los Angeles have loaned a piece using fluorescent light tubes by New York artist Don Flavin, one of the first to use light in art.

Steve Sher, recent recipient of a New Talent Award from the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, will have two pieces in the show involving viewer participation with projected light.

DeWain Valentine is exhibiting a clear plexiglass hoop. Light is caused to converge through the rim of the hoop to make a pattern on the wall. Robert Irwin's well known work consists of large, transclucent discs through which light passes, causing shadows.

Michael Davis will have a series of etched pictures on glass in the exhibit. The pictures are of cowboys riding broncs, and light passing through the glass gives the illusion of the figures moving on the wall.

Chris Outwater and Eric von Hamersveld team their efforts to provide a holographic display of three-dimensional space images and laser beam constructed artworks.

Greg Card is showing a sculpture involving the words "light" and "shadow." Also participating in the exhibit are Paul Maull and Ron Cooper.

The public is invited to an opening for "Light" from 3 to 5 p.m. Feb. 12 in Lang Galleries. The exhibit may be viewed, free of charge, from 1 to 5 p.m. daily through March 9.

Instructor to give program at meeting

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — David Negron, instructor at the Art Center College of Design, will demonstrate portrait painting at a meeting of the Heights Art Association at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The meeting will be held in the community room of First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 2233 S. Hacienda Blvd. Guests are welcome.

Negron, a native of Texas, holds a bachelor of arts degree from Baylor University, a Certificate of recognition from the Famous Artists School, and a BPA from the Art Center College of Design. He has had one-man shows throughout the West and has exhibited at the California Museum of Science & Industry, 20th Century-Fox, the Soceity of Illustrators Galley in New York and others. He owns the B. J. N. Studio Gallery in Los Alamitos.

The art association is now meeting on the first Wednesday of each month instead of the second as in the past.

CAPSULE REVIEW--"The Sunshine Boys," Neil Simon's most recent effort, is just that—an effort. Instead of the witty comedy with nostalgic touches of vaudeville that Simon obviously intended, the play is flaccid and only mildly entertaining. It opened Tuesday at the Shubert Theater in Century City and goes to March 23.

The Sunshine Boys, Jack Albertson and Sam Levene, are a pair of aging alumni from burlesque and the borscht circuit who are lured out of retirement for a TV special on old-time vaudeville. The gimmick, if that's what it is: they can't stand each other.

Albertson and Levene are an odd couple. They are excellent comedians, skilled by long years in showbiz at the arts of projection, the adroit mannerisms of the comic, the intuitive interplay of character, a fine sense of inventiveness. Unfortunately that's about all the little charade has to offer. "The Odd Couple" had richer characterization, "Plaza Suite" more depth, and "Barefoot in the Park" a better plot.

An unexpected plus is added to the production by young Michael Durrell as Albertson's long-suffering, affectionate and ambitious nephew. He is a forceful, engaging actor who lends a needed stability to the nonsense.

"The Sunshine Boys" is a vapid, bawdy comedy, and in it the Sunshine Boys are slightly overcast.

THE CALIFORNIA ARTS COMMISSION is currently pondering how to divide up the $1 million the state will award to various art groups this year. Requests came from 684 art organizations totaling $8 million. Newly-appointed director James D. Forward said the awards will be announced at a public meeting in San Francisco Feb. 25.

Tuesday art program has dual function

CLAREMONT — Members of the Pomona Valley Art Association will have an evening of eating and sharing art experiences and techniques at a meeting at the Claremont branch of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards, at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Each artist will bring a snack food and an art or craft object, tools or materials, to illustrate skills and technique. Program director Al Anderson says the meeting will give members a chance to meet each other and to learn various art specialtes.

Hospitality chairman Julie Parsons will provide coffee and punch.

Entries opened for 4th MSAC art show

WALNUT — Paintings and drawings are now being accepted for the fourth Mt. San Antonio College Biennial Exhibition March 6-April 4.

The show is open to all artists in the Los Angeles area. Artists may enter two original works in either or both of the categories. Paintings and drawings may not be larger than 96 inches high. A detailed prospectus may be obtained from the MSAC Art Gallery.

The Biennial, sponsored by MSAC Community Services, provides a visual forum for original, new art works.

Barbara Haskell, curator of painting and sculpture for the Pasadena Museum of Modern Art, will be the juror. A $1,000 fund contributed by the District and Community Service will be available to purchase award-winning pieces for the college.

Purchase award winners will be announced at the opening reception March 6 at 8 p.m. Many of the exhibiting artists will be in attendance. The public is invited.

Gallery hours will be daily from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; closed Saturdays, Sundays and school holidays.

Griswold's sets Redlands Art Assoc. show

CLAREMONT — The Redlands Art Association will have an exhibition at Griswold's Art Gallery opening with a reception from 2 to 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Forty-eight paintings and macrame works by 37 artists will be shown. The works were selected by Dallas K. Rogers, galley director, Doris Cook and Beryl Larkin, art association president.

All of the works will be for sale. The gallery is also showing work in a wide variety of media, including batik, ceramics, photgraphy, silk screen, glass and enamel.

Photographs of African animals are on exhibit

POMONA — An exhibition of color photgraphs of African animals by Upland photographer John A. Shaw Jr. is on view during regular business hours at Home Savings & Loan Association, 100 Pomona Mall West, through Feb. 15.

Shaw recorded the primitive beauty of East Africa during a recent safari. Touring Kenya and Tanzania under the auspices of the San Diego Hall of Science and the Zoological Society of San Diego. Shaw also witnessed the total eclipse of the sun June 30. It lasted four minutes in the Sahara Dessert southeast of Lake Rudolph.

Reception opens masks exhibit

ALTA LOMA — An exhibition of African masks from the past century will open with a reception at the Chaffey College Museum-Gallery at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The exhibit will be a focal point of Afro-American Week at the college Feb. 10-16.

The masks, drqwn from three regions of Africa, are of historic and anthropological as well as artisitc value, according to gallery coordinator James Pahl.

Galley hours are noon to 4 p.m. on weekdays and 2 to 5 p.m. on weekends and holidays. Admission is free.

Selling moon plots for dollar an acre

By United Press International

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Barry McArdle, 24, Carmichael, Calif., appeared on the University of California campus Monday selling certificates for one-acre plots on the moon for $1.

McArdle, clad in silver boots, vest and cap and wearing aviation sunglasses, sold more than $200 in certificates.

"What I'm trying to do is put credibility back in the land business," he told the campus newspaper.

Recipes for laughter and a big mess

CULVER CITY (UPI) — "Pile candy bars in a round pan. Buy five grasshoppers at the store. Use only the legs. Pile green frosting on the top, then white frosting and chocolate sprinkles. (Take a sack to Bob's Big Boy, Jr. and you can get a lot of sprinkles—free.)"

It may not sound terribly appetizing to you, but it is one of the favorite dishes of 5-year-old Tim Bell of Culver City.

Thirty-one kindergarten students may not always agree on everything, but one thing Anne Hedges' class did agree on— they like to eat.

So the Culver City students compiled an off-beat cookbook called simply "A Collection of Recipes" and subtitled, "You May Not Want to Try Them, But We Know You Will Treasure Them."

Julia Childs, take a hint.

For example, for Helen Ige's favorite dish, "Pasghetti", you take "1 can tomato sauce, 1 pound noodles, 2 pounds lamb meat cut up, 1 celery, cut up" and "put it all together. Put noodles in last. Cook it yesterday for 2 minutes. I eat a whole bowl."

If you still like pasta, but would rather go the macaroni and cheese route, try Kristen Hurley's recipe: "Cook 56 macaronis until they get fat. Use a strainer so no noodles fall. Put a knife of butter in.

"Add: 100 dots of cheese from a small bag. Stir in ½ pint of milk. Stir it until it's all done and looks like scrabble eggs. One shake of a salt and 1 shake of pepper makes it good."

Michael Wada doesn't know what you-call-the-thing-you-mash-potatoes-with, but he does know that to make "Snowflake Potatoes" you cook two skinned potatoes "until it's dark out." Then you "put in a stick of butter and 2 shakes of salt" and "pile them on a plate with maybe a steak or two."

And how about dessert? Chet Melnarik has no regard for calories, cavities or cholesterol as he takes "200 chocolate chips, 1 pound of sugar, 2 pounds of flour and 5 pounds of Crisco' to make "Chet's Choco Chip Cookies."

Then, Chet says, "stir it up. Take a spoon and dip it out on a pan. Cook at 50 degrees for 1 hour. Makes 20 cookies. We have 2 brothers and one sister who does all the dishes. When everybody gets 8 they are going to have to start doing dishes."

However, if that is too rich for you, John Medall's "Bump Cake" requires only "about 10 chocolate chips, powdered sugar, 1 cake mix, 2 eggs, 2 cups milk."

And what to bake it in? A "thing what has bumps in it—a bump pan. Bake until night time. Sprinkle with powdered sugar, however much you want.

"Have mommy clean up the kitchen."

China okays oil package for Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — China has agreed to supply Japan with 1.5 million metric tons (12 million barrels) of crude oil during 1974, the Kyodo news agency said in a recent dispatch from Peking.

The announcement was made by Ichizo Kimura, vice president of the International Oil Co., a Japanese firm set up to deal exclusively with oil imports from China.

He said Chinese authorities have agreed to supply one million metric tons of oil during the first half of the year, and 500,000 metric tons during the second half.

China emerged as an exporter of oil to Japan for the first time in 1973, selling about 8 million barrels.

The figure of 12 million barrels for 1974 was well below than the 40 million barrels Japan originally had hoped to buy from China this year.

Kimura said he had hopes the Chinese would increase the amount for the second half above the scheduled figure.

Kimura said the oil would come from the Taching oil field in Manchuria, and would be shipped from the port of Dairen.

Eating up the opposition with sneaky knight fork

By SHELBY LYMAN

Top chess players rarely blunder. Pherhaps they monitor possible error in a way similar to Tigran Petrosian, who is reputed to check the safety of each of his pieces before his proceeds with analysis.

International Master Edmar Mednis told me, after leaving a piece en prise in an important game, that he had only made one other blunder on that scale in previous tournament games (in over 20 years). It is not surprising that Boris Spassky should be haunted by egregious errors he made against Bobby Fischer in their title match.

"Two of the mistakes I made were the sort which would not be made by a fifth-class player," he told an interviewer. "It's been like playing a movie through backwards."

In casually playing over random games, I have found the same combinational theme overlooked by grandmasters four times twice by the victims and twice by the potential perpetrator. I am referring to the not abscure theme involving queen and knight, in which a queen sacrifice is followed by a cataclysmic knight fork.

Two such examples of this theme have appeared in previous columns.

They are given in diagrams one and two. In the first position, Savon (white) has played 1. Q-Q4? He is hoping to use the time Browne (black will need to meet the threat of 2. Q-B6 and 3. Our next position shows Bobby Fischer making the same thematic oversight. Here he played 1. Q-QR1, evidently overlooking 1 Q-KR5. He would then win at least the KRP. For if 1 . . . K-N1 (protecting the pawn), 2. QxN! and 3. N-K7 check would have been lethal.

Familiar with these positions, I was surprised to come across our

Dark days meet famed S.F. crabbers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "There's only seven or eight of us now," says Frank D'amato as he checks the weight of a crate of Dungeness crabs unloaded off his boat, the Leonilda.

D'Amato, one of San Francisco's last crab captains, walks from the scale on the dock of the Tarantino Fish Co. and pushes the yellow stalk of an electric hoist over the Leonilda's deck to haul up a second case of crabs.

He left Fisherman's Wharf at 4:30 a.m. for the trip to the Pacific crab grounds, 40 miles west of the Golden Gate. Now the 5-foot-7, broad shouldered D'Amato, dressed in a light sweater and knee boots, has only two cases of crabs. But he says its too soon to tell what kind of season it will be.

At one time the crab harvest was in the millions of pounds. But since the late fifties the catch has been dwindling. Last year only 335,000 pounds were caught.

Since mid-November when the season opened, the catch hasn't been sufficient for the Fisherman's Wharf restaurants, which have been using frozen crabs from Alaska, where the Dungeness is still abundant.

"Last year wasn t very good, real quiet on crabs," says Phil DeMercurio of Tarantino's, as he squints through his bifocals in the darkness and writes the weights of the crab crates on a small white pad.

D'Amato receives $1 a pound for the crabs. In the restaurants a crab dinner will cost about $6.

Like a man recalling the birthdays of his children, D'Amato remembers the good years and the bad. "Back in '55 it was real heavy--up to nine million pounds. Lots of boats too."

Crabbers use stainless steel wire traps baited with squid. Each trap is marked with a buoy—a different color for each boat. "That tells us who's who and what's what. But every one knows his own—that's for sure."

D'Amato has been crabbing since 1946, when at 17 he started with his father. They worked through years when there were some 200 crab boats. Now his father is retired and the small San Francisco fleet is augmented by boats from Eureka, Crescent City, Fort Bragg and Astoria, Ore.

The 45-foot Leonilda has been part of the operation since 1947. She is a handsome workboat, with red and blue trim, low gunwales aft, a steep deck house and flying bridge forward.

D'amato is able to crab about 2½ months a year. After that the crabs will be mating and won't bite. The rest of the year he fishes salmon.

He has decided not to go out the next day because a storm is forecast. Winter storms bring heavy weather to the Northern California coast, making it impossible for the Leonilda to sail through the Golden Gate.

"There are ferocious seas. They just close up the area. It's all shoals and banks. It just closes up the channel."

D'Amato, other crabbers and biologists don't have an answer about what happened to the Dungeness crab. Some blame pollution, others say the crabs were taken too aggressively.

And D'Amato isn't sure if the tasty crab will make a resurgence. "It may. Its really hard to forecast something like that."

At least jail offered roof

BEDFORD, England (UPI) — Police caught old age pensioner Ciryl Swann setting fire to some rubbish and arrested him.

In court he told the judge he set the fire so he would be sent to jail because he had nowhere to live.

The judge returned him to his cell pending welfare reports.

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm having a terrible time getting my old Lady to eat this special diet food that her doctor put her on. Lady's 20 pounds overweight and her doctor said she's got to lose it but she's been holding out for her regular food and wouldn't even touch the stuff until I finally had a bright idea. I starved her into it. It sounded pretty mean but it took me two days and it worked. She knows now she doesn't get her regular food until she eats this diet stuff first. I thought this system might help others who have the same problem I did getting their dog to eat the diet food. The only question I have is how long does it take to work? So far she hasn't lost a thing and she's been on it for two months. In fact, if I didn't know it was impossible, I'd say she's even gained more.—T.P.

DEAR T.P.: To start with, I have to jump to the conclusion here that your original "old Lady" phrase here was referring to a canine companion. If so, then your technique of starving her into acceptance is one of the more practical but hard-hearted techniques in getting acceptance of a new, less desirable food. However, your technique of using the diet food as an appetizer to her main meal defeats the purpose. Check with her doctor and I'm sure you'll find his original intention was the diet food to be the main and in fact, the ONLY meal. Not surprising that the addition of the extra food, even though it's comparatively low in calories, hasn't worked out too well as a weight-reducing program.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Your point about that cat, Miss Prim, and her tongue being a grooming tool was well put. The trouble is you idn't mention to that owner that Miss Prim should have help with her grooming. If she is combed and brushed regularly she is not going to get so many hair balls. And she won't have to spend so much time cleaning herself, either.—R.G.

DEAR R..G: Comb and-or brush sorties should be a part of most pets' home care programs. Giving Miss Prim more leisure time, though, isn't necessarily a benefit. Most cats (and most dogs, too) have too much leisure time already.

Even so, the grooming is a good idea: It not only reduces hairball hazard but for a long-haired cat, particularly, it helps prevent progressively larger lumps (hair mats) from forming in various difficult-to-groom body areas such as on the back and under the ears.

Researcher slips, falls to his death

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (UPI) — The body of American microbiologist Wolf Vishniac was found this week at the base of an ice shelf 75 miles from the McMurdo base camp.

Vishniac, 51, had apparently fallen to his death while on a field trip in the Asgaard mountains.

The University of Rochester professor was carrying out a national science foundation project on micronisms in the "dry valleys", northwest of McMurdo.

Dr. Bowen said Vishniac had apparently slipped and fell about 500 feet to the boulder strewn slope below.

Ways to conserve:

Energy you save may be yours

Progress-Bulletin Real Estate

NEW YORK (UPI) — The energy crisis, unlike some headline-making news, is one that hits home. Every home.

It behooves each homeowner to do what he can to save energy — fuel oil, heating gas, electricity. If he doesn't, it won't be a faceless "somebody" that suffers the consequences. It will be his own family.

From the experts come a welter of tips on how to keep warm using less fuel, how to use appliances most efficiently.

"The single most effective way in which to save heating fuel without sacrificing comfort is to install a humifidier that puts from 15 to 25 gallons of moisture into the air each day," according to John P. Farrell, marketing manager of the Tappan Air Conditioning Division, Elyria, Ohio.

Evaporation reduced

"Installation of a humidifier, in conjunction with the government recommendation for turning down your thermostat six degrees, could save the homeowner as much as 25 per cent of his fuel bill, while maintaining a lower but acceptable level of comfort. A humifidier, alone, could save 15 per cent of that," Farrell said.

He explained the physiological reactions and laws of physics governing this. "Perspiration evaporating from the skin cools the body. The rate of evaporation and, consequently, cooling of the body, is much higher when the humidity is very low. By increasing the humidity in the house, the rate of evaporation is reduced and the body's natural cooling mechanism slowed."

In colder climates, during mid-winter, relative humidity in a home may drop to 10 per cent. Under this condition, even with the thermostat set at 77, a person may feel chilly. A relative humidity of 30 per cent, however, will permit lowering the thermostat a few degrees without loss of comfort.

Farrell recommended also the following general practices for conservation of heat and fuel:

— Wear warmer clothing and turn down the thermostat a few extra degrees.

— Turn the thermostat still lower at night, when you go to bed;

— Install storm windows:

— Caulk and weatherstrip all windows and doors against leaks;

Add insulation

Adequate insulation, it is agreed, is a major energy-conserving measure, one that can cut fuel usage enormously, particularly in older homes, many of which can be best described as "heat sieves."

Guy O. Mabry, vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., says adding insulation to a poorly insulated home can lower home heating costs by as much as 30 per cent — for savings of more than $100 a year for the owner of an average size home in an area with moderate winter temperatures.

Mabry explained insulation is measured in terms of "R" value, standing for thermal resistance. The higher the "R" value, standing for thermal resistance. The higher the "R" rating, the greater the insulating effect.

Thickness, he noted is not a good measurement standard "because a 3½-inch fiber glass blanket insulates as well as a 9-inch-thick wood wall, a 4-foot thick brick wall or an 11-foot thick stone wall.

Heat travels upward

Atticks, he stressed, are the first place to be insulated since heat travels upward and is easily lost without a good "top" to keep it inside the house.

In addition to the attic floor — easy to insulate since it usually is unfinished — a do-it-yourselfer can insulate basement walls, garage walls that adjoin the house, the ceiling of any unfinished space below living space. In paneling a room, insulation can be tucked into baseboard cracks, space around window frames, pipes where they come through wall or floor, baseboard electrical outlets.

Adjust water level

Even though the energy required to run home appliances represents only about 5 per cent of all energy used in the country today, homemakers can help reduce this amount with the proper use of appliances and the application of a little thought and some old-fashioned "elbow-grease," say the experts at the Maytag Co., Newton, Iowa.

Maytag notes the water level and temperature controls on clothes washers, used properly, can conserve energy and water.

Adjust water level to the size of the load. Too much water for a small load is wasteful, but to little water for a large load will result in clothes that are not clean.

While it is generally recommended that white clothes be washed in hot water, the homemaker who is willing to "pretreat" soiled areas, will be pleased with the results given by warm water.

For clothes that are slightly soiled, a reduced wash cycle will conserve time and energy

In using a dryer, be sure to remove clothes when they have a little moisture in them. And don't let a load tumble on and on. Be on hand to remove clothes when they are finished. Check venting and lint filters to be sure they are not obstructed.

In using dishwashers, conserve hot water by washing only a full load, Maytag suggests. For many families this can mean once a day washing.

Dishes that are air dried are just as nice as those power-dried so this is another chance for a savings. When possible, eliminate the dry cycle.

The water heater should be set for 140-150 degrees, the temperature range for most efficient operation. Insulating all hot water pipes helps reduce heat loss also.

Some useful hints

Home economists at Rockwell International's Building Components suggests a number of ways in which a typical family can save gallons of water—and the energy required to heat it—every day:

—Stopper the sink or use a dishpan for hand washing of dishes. A running water wash or rinse uses about 30 gallons of water per meal.

—Turn off the water while shaving— a saving of nearly 20 gallons of water per shave.

—Take showers instead of baths. The average bath requires about 36 gallons, an adequate shower only 10.

— Use a basin for shampooing hair. The shower uses three times the hot water.

—Keep water heater at an even setting. Running water until it becomes hot wastes energy and water.

—Check household faucets. Even a slow drip at one faucet wastes 15 gallons of water per day.

More coordinated system needed to best utilize water planning

LOS ANGELES —A much more coordinated and stabilized system of intergovernmental relations is needed to permit better utilization of techniques in water resources planning.

So claims Joseph A. Krivak, division chief of Intergovernmental coordination for the U. S. Department of Interior. Speaking before the American Society of Civil Engineers, he reported past efforts to integrate water quality and water resource planning have resulted in an imperfect marriage.

"We need to get away from quick starts and stops. Various federal programs have often shut off resource aid to local and state governments just when institutions at those levels and the resources to carry out the programs have become established.

"We need to establish the responsibilities of partners so that one level of government will know what to expect from the other."

A new coordinated system of intergovernmental relations should spell out and distribute the responsibility of each level for establishing goals, programs and priorities, authorities for administration, enforcement and monitoring, and include a program for continuing evaluations of problems and progress, he added.

"Second governmental procedures need more formal recognition of current interest and demands for, and positive contributions available from citizen involvement in the decision-making process.

"This needs to be transferred from the level of shouting at zoning hearings and other public particpation efforts to a more positive program of community goal setting and understanding of feasible plan alternatives and involvement, to the proper degree, in the decision making process.

"Third, we need some formalization of procedures for determining the goals for which communities and individual states in the nation shall strive.

"Fourth, we have a great need for achieving better syntheses of our highly specialized but segmented areas of knowledge in order to solve problems within their total context. We need to create a new and enlarged concept of modern society which will encompass the increased knowledge of many applicable professions and scientific findings. Resource planners and many others concerned with water development have remained relatively separate in their professional worlds. During the past two decades, although there has been a great increase in individual planning efforts, there has been limited interchange and sometimes jurisdictional conflicts between specialized planners. More recently, rising to the fore are the environmental planners dealing with the problems caused by technological waste production, with the general result of the introduction of many new restricted approaches to controlling human activities. Our problem has been that while the specialized functions are performed better and more progressively, the generalized direction lacks vision," said Krivak.

"Finally, from a professional and private enterprise standpoint, if we want to retain the benefits derived from the private enterprise system, and I believe we all do because of its relative vigor and innovative capability as demonstrated in our achievements, we then must recognize the valid constraints operative there For example, the need for stability and continuity are most important when long term investments are at stake. Problems similar to that of public enterprise are involved in developing and maintaining professional competence on a continuing basis. The ultimate objective here is not for the benefit of the developer per se but the relative benefits that can and do accrue to the ultimate consumer. Further, we must develop additional techniques and feedback if we are to determine better what our clientele really seek.

"I do not depreciate the technological advances which provide great assistance to planning practice. Nevertheless, these actions are of relatively limited value if we do not know what we want to do with them. Within the planning profession there are certainly areas where better communication skills are vital." he concluded.

EDWARD V. BELL of Covina has been named director of operations for Leadership Housing, Inc., whichs is building a housing project in San Dimas.

Apartment group hosts speaker

CLAREMONT — John K. Tyrrell, executive director of the California Apartment Association, will speak Feb. 13 to members of the Apartment Association — Mt. Baldy Area.

The program, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association building, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards.

Tyrrell, an apartment owner for 15 years, will discuss local, state and national problems involving apartment owners.

The program will also include the installation of new officers and directors. They are:

Tessier, who serves as association attorney, will conduct the regular problem clinic. Refreshments will be served.

Bill bans gas sale, if tanks half-full

PUNTA GORDA, Fla. (UPI) — The Charlotte County Commission passed an ordinance this week banning gasoline sales for any car with more than a half-tank of fuel in efforts to stop panic buying on Florida's lower Gulf Coast.

Joint efforts are needed to revive building industry

HOUSTON — The new president of the National Association of Home Builders has offered to work with federal officials in an effort to bring housing production out of its serious slump.

"I believe government and the housing industry can get together and will do it," said Lewis Cenker, an Atlanta, Ga., builder and lawyer.

The NAHB board of directors elected him here recently as leader of the 75,000 member organization.

"Home builders and the consumers have been deeply affected by the series of government actions beginning a year ago. These include the suspension of the housing subsidy programs for low and moderate income families and policy changes by the Federal Reserve Board and other monetary regulating agencies last July 5.," he added.

"Those changes in policy resulted in a tightening of money which has hit first and hardest at home mortgages."

Would-be buyers seem to have adopted a general wait-and-see attitude. Cenker's advice to builders was to become more aggressive in telling the public about the new home bargains available to them at this time.

"The public will never get those houses at the same price again," he said.

The same advice came from Thomas Bomar, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, at a news conference when he said that people in the market for new homes were making a mistake by not buying now.

Cenker made the particular point that the public needs to become not only more aware of housing issues but more vocal about them.

"If the American people want it (a turnabout) to happen, the Administration and the Congress will take the necessary action," Cenker said.

"Until the time comes that meeting housing needs is accepted by the majority of Americans as a national responsibility, elected and appointed officials will provide only limited effort to meet the needs."

Cenker has been a builder in Atlanta since 1947. He was president of the Home Builders Association of Atlanta in 1960 and a founding member of the Home Builders Association of Georgia and its president in 1969. He was NAHB's first vice president last year.

The other senior national officers of NAHB elected were J. S. Norman, Jr., of Houston, first vice president; John C. Hart, of Indianapolis, vice president-treasurer, and Robert Arquilla, of Glenwood, Ill., vice president-secretary.

New condominiums:

Selection of homes offered at Chino's Franklin-Webster

CHINO — Buyers have a wide selection of homes in the Franklin-Webster condominium development here.

They are offered a choice of two and three bedroom plans and single or split level designs. Each has its own private patio.

Entrance to the project is between Walnut Avenue and Riverside Drive, near Telephone Road. Homes are priced from $22,950 to $25,950.

The dwellings have double thick walls insulated for sound control and comfort. No one lives above or below another home. Living and dining rooms have patio access through sliding doors, which adds dimension to living and entertaining space. Each home has two bathrooms.

Kitchens include built-in ranges and continuous cleaning ovens, disposers and trash compactors. Homes have their own laundry spaces with washers and dryers built in in some plans.

Other features include capeting, custom lighting fixtures, wrought iron stair railings, cultured marble counter tops in bathrooms and powder rooms, and mirrored wardrobe doors.

Exteriors have Spanish stylings. The lawns and landscaped garden areas are professionally cared for. Owners may enjoy year-round swimming and a Jacuzzi pool.

The condominium concept offers all the advantages of home ownership, including tax deductions and protection from rent increases. But owners have none of the time-consuming chores of exterior painting, yard or pool care.

Schools and a shopping center are located nearby.

SAN DIEGO — The National Institute of Real Estate Brokers (NIREB) will conduct a training program on "Obtaining, Training and Retraining Sales Associates" Feb. 19-21 in San Diego.

The three-day session, cosponsored by the California Real Estate Association, will be held at the Sheraton-Harbor Island Hotel.

It will be aimed at selecting and inspiring new sales associates, with emphasis on effective interviewing techniques, company-oriented training programs, possible incentive plans, characteristics shared by successful sellers, and creating stimulating sales meetings.

The course is open to those who have completed the program, "How to Manage a Real Estate Office Successfully."

Registration for the San Diego program can be made through the NIREB registration coordinator, 155 E. Superior St., Chicago, Ill., 60611. Persons wanting more information may contact Margaret Reilly of the California Real Estate Association, 505 Chatteau Place, Los Angeles.

New savings, loan assn. system makes branch bank of supermart

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Nebraska savings and loan association has put into operation a system it believes will appeal to the 25 per cent of Americans who normally live on a cash basis.

These "checkless" Americans are mainly blue collar workers. If the Transmatic Money Service (TMS) introduced by First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Lincoln succeeds, it might challenge savings banks trying to encourage deposits of wage earners' pay checks. It almost makes the supermarket a bank branch.

The TMS plan first was introduced in two stores of the Hinky Dinky supermarkets. It employs an IBM System-370 computer and an IBM telephone card reader to enable customers of the supermarket to deposit money in a savings account or to withdraw money at the supermarket's checkout counter by means of a magentically encoded card.

This means money can be deposited or withdrawn from a First Federal account any hour of the day or night when the store is open.

For some people it could eliminate checks, the 10 or 15 cents per check charge and the monthly service fees charged by many commercial banks on special checking accounts.

It also means that when the blue collar worker deposits part of his paycheck at the supermarket checkout station— getting grocieries and cash for the remainder of his paycheck —the sum deposited goes into an interest bearing savings account instead of a sterile commercial bank deposit.

"We expect this to be a tremendous selling point," John E. Dean, executive vice president of First Federal, said.

Dean said he believd TMS was breaking ground for the first real checkless and cashless money system. "As soon as we have proper government authorization," he said, "it will be a simple matter to expand it to have the computer credit a merchant for a customer's purchase and debit the customer's account."

First Federal pays the entire cost of TMS as a savings deposit and withdrawal system. TMS even makes it possible for depositors to make emergency withdrawals from their savings accounts any evening the supermarket is open.

If the system is expanded to merchandise debits and credits, it thus could become a limited competitor of the conventional credit card business. Expansion of TMS to other supermarkets and retail outlets is expected.

Other savings and loan associations have tried various devices to improve their competitive position vis a vis commercial banks.

These include raising interest rates on deposits, establishing remote teller booths in convenient locations and giveaway premiums and checklike negotiable orders of withdrawal commonly called NOW's.

But Dean believes TMS is superior to all of these and that it will appeal to merchants as well as the blue collar public because it will build customer traffic in the stores.

The terminal being used for TMS originally was designed by IBM for use in the credit card business to validate transactions at the retail level by instantaneous telephone communication with the computer.

Increase seen in nation's building

CHICAGO — Building permits in the nation's 200 largest cities totaled $1.3 billion during November.

This marked a 2.4 per cent hike over October's $1.2 billion but was still the second smallest volume in 33 months, reports Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

The November total was well below the $1.4 billion recorded during November, 1972.

Plans filed in New York City rebounded strongly to $75 million in November from October's five year low of $40 million, officials added.

Permits in the other 199 cities held within four per cent of the previous month's total. Increases in cities such as Los Angeles, Chicago, Dallas, Washington, Milwaukee, Memphis and Seattle almost offset the declines in Houston, Indianapolis, Boston, Phoenix and Denver.

Total permit valuations for all 200 cities reached $16.2 billion for the first 11 months of 1973. This was a 3.2 per cent decline below the $16.7 billion recorded the same period the previous year.

The City of Pomona, ranked 192nd, recorded a November valuation of $202,160, which boosted the 11 month total of $14,201,638.

November and 11-month valuations and the ranking of other California cities include:

Los Angeles, 3rd, $74,480,001 and $743,128,500; San Francisco, 13th, $13,718,391 and $262,828,333; San Diego, 14th $16,865,606 and $232,665,264; San Jose, 31st, $11,347,734 and $203,281,454; Oakland, 38th, $2,256,682 and $60,033,594; Long Beach, 40th, $5,371,130 and $100,623,250; Sacramento, 55th $4,954,350 and $76,118,448.

MILDRED HECKMER, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, recently was presented the California Real Estate Association political action committee's annual "goal-getter" award in Los Angeles. The award was given to the local board since it exceeded its monetary goal toward support of political candidates. Mrs. Heckmer accepted the plaque from C. Larry Hoag of Downey, the CREA president.

Colby Realty opens office In La Puente

LA PUENTE — Dale Colby Realty has opened a new branch office to serve the La Puente and Valinda areas. Jack Minto is the manager.

"We have long felt the importance of having a centrally located office which is also more convenient to the San Bernardino Freeway offramp at Francisquito Street," said Colby.

"This will allow us to give much better service to residents on the west side of La Puene and Valinda and the southern Baldwin Park and Bassett communities."

The new office is located at 14414 Francisquito St. The telephone number is 960-2736.

Minton had supervised sales people in Colby's Foothill and La Puente branch offices.

Lewis Homes employs new manager

UPLAND — Lee W. Brown, a builder of homes for 16 years, has been named regional manager for Lewis Homes.

He will maintain offices both at the Lewis headquarters here and also at the regional facilities in Sparks, Nev., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

Brown's appointment marks the start of a personnel expansion program which is being motivated by increased building projects expected this year, said Richard Lewis, firm president.

The new manager is a former member of the Home Buidlers Association's executive board and is a past president of the Young Homebuilders Council of Southern California.

Navy recruiter commended for her success

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Petty Officer Kathy Noll, 20, gets the Navy Commendation Medal Wednesday for her whizbang success as a recruiter.

Where the average recruiter signs up about four persons a month, PO Noll signed up 20 for the Navy and five Marines in one month. She credited her success to honesty: "I told them like it was, even if it wasn't good."

One notable failure as a recruiter, however, was herself. She won't re-enlist, she said. "I'm not career oriented."

SAMUEL FRESHMAN

Realtors to hear lawyer at luncheon

POMONA — Samuel K. Freshman, member of a Beverly Hills law firm, will speak Feb. 19 to members of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

The program, starting at noon, will be held at Orlando's restaurant. Freshman will discuss real estate syndication.

The speaker, a graduate of Stanford University and Stanford Law School, has lectured and written on real estate financing and syndication.

As a member of the California Real Estate Commissioner's advisory committee, he assisted in drafting the current state syndication regulations.

Freshman ha served as chairman of the California Real Estate Association's legal committee and is author of the book, "Principles of Real Estate Syndication."

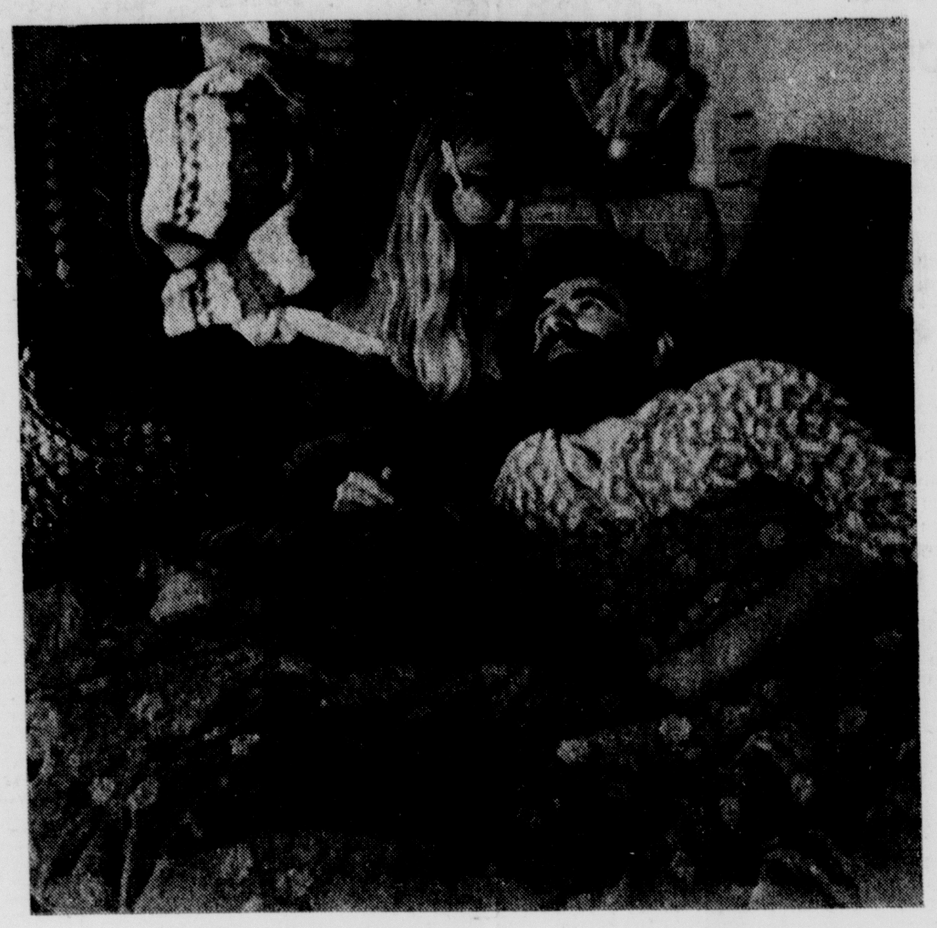
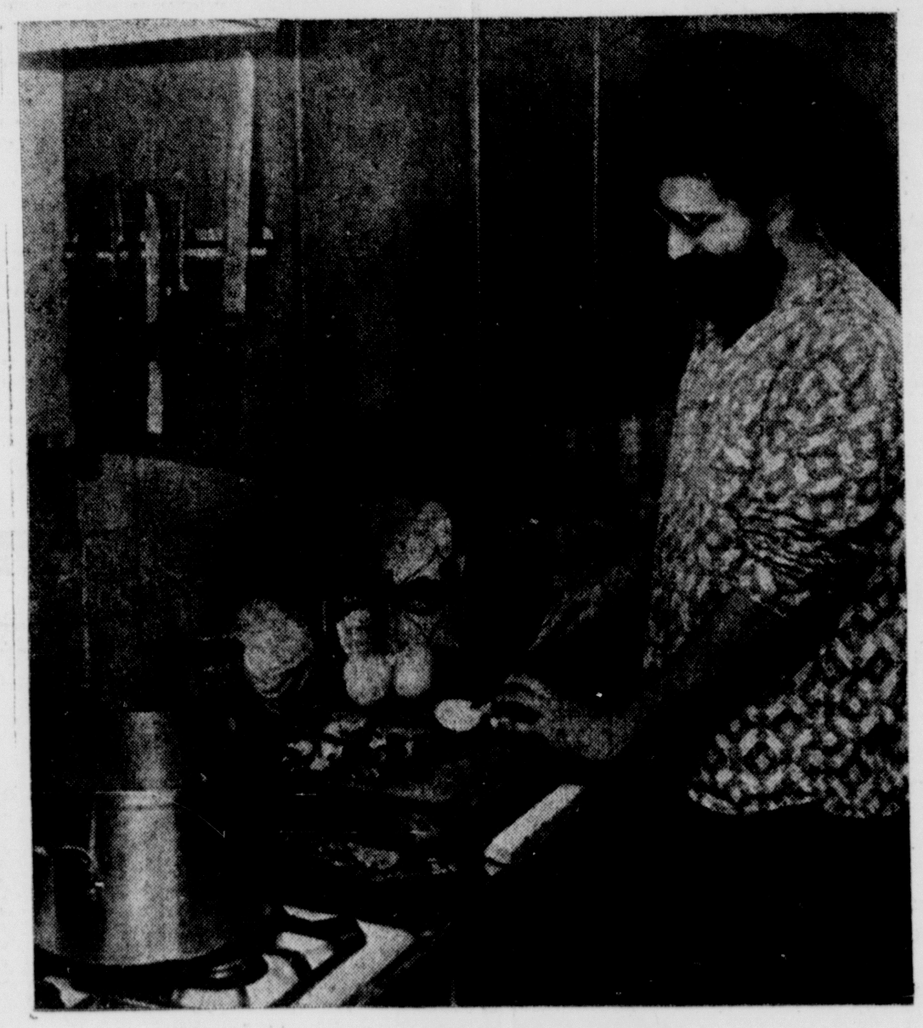
Would you call him a househusband?

Sheldon Schachter of Carmel has given a new twist to the old tale of the farmer who stayed home to work while his wife tilled the fields. In the fable, the switch did not work — but Schachter and wife Sanday are delighted with the change in roles. At upper right, he rises from his warm waterbed to kiss her goodbye while son Jason, 4, watches from under the covers. Schachter cooks and cleans house — then has as much fun as he can.





Navy proposes recycling of old warships

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has asked Congress for permission to use part of San Francisco's Hunters Point Naval Shipyard as a recycling station for old warships.

The Navy has proposed that Pier Two and 13 acres of adjacent property be released to a private "ship-breaking" company to convert warships into scrap metal.

The Navy said the action would help relieve America's scrap shortage which has contributed to higher steel prices.

Ship-breaking companies would be allowed to bid for purchase of some of the Navy's mothball fleet. The Navy has designated 226 ships for disposal.

Mayor Joseph Alioto said he was "delighted" with the proposal as an interim usage for the yard while the city completes negotiations for full lease of the property to private industry.

Alioto said the ship-breaking might provide up to 400 jobs for people of the Hunters Point and Bayview areas.

FDA won't fight ruling on DES use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said today it will not appeal a court decision overturning its ban on DES, a cattle growth stimulant that is suspected of being a cancer cause.

The agency said it will hold a public hearing to take another look at the question, if the manufacturers so desire. The FDA said it assumed such a hearing would be requested.

If the facts turned up at the new investigation are sufficient to change the agency's earlier stance, then new regulations governing DES use will be issued. If, however, the hearing does not produce enough evidence to warrant a change, the FDA said it would immediately reimpose the ban.

DES was banned in April, 1973 from injection in cattle, and has been outlawed from use in cattle feed since August, 1972. The cattle industry had complained the shutoff had resulted in animals that weigh less, citing the ban as a factor in beef shortages.

A federal court recently lifted the ban at the request of some DES manufacturers. The court said the drug could be marketed again pending the outcome of the hearing, but industry spokesmen said they doubted that would happen until the issue is completely resolved.

The court ruled that the ban was illegal because the FDA did not hold hearings on it in the first place. DES has been recognized since 1966 as a possible cancer causer in test animals.

Modern day explorers

Lewis and Clark route traced

Editor's Note: The writer was a member of an expedition which in 1973 retraced the route of the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

By GARY KIMSEY
Written for UPI

The American explorers Merriwether Lewis and William Clark probably would not recognize the country they discovered on their 1804-06 trek into the unmapped Pacific Northwest.

At least that's what five of us —members of a modern expedition—surmised after retracing for five-and-ahalf months in 1973 the explorers' return route from the mouth of the Columbia River on the Oregon coast to St. Louis, Mo.

Our expedition over the trail blazed by the 31 members of the famous Lewis and Clark Corps of Discovery meandered for 3,800 miles along rivers and mountain paths through 11 Western states. A jet could have covered the same territory in three hours.

Transportation

Our transportation—a kayak and two canoes on the water, and feet across the Rocky Mountains—allowed us to witness a unique panorama of western America for a total of $2,500, about the same cost as the original expedition.

Besides this writer, the modern expedition consisted of Bob Miller, 23, a photographer and former Canadian wilderness guide, Albuquerque, N.M.; Mike Cochran, 29, an illustrator and ex-Marine medic, Grand Junction, Colo.; Mike Wien, 22, a public relations consultant, Chicago, and Clay Asher, 18, an Eagle Scout, Twin Falls, Idaho.

We departed June 7 from Ft. Clatsop, where the original expedition wintered on the Oregon coast in 1805-06 before returning to St. Louis, and paddled 470 miles up the Columbia and Snake Rivers to Lewiston, Idaho.

Hike 435 miles

From Lewiston, we hiked 435 miles with 65 pound packs across Idaho's Rocky Mountains to Dillon, Mont., where we again launched our craft.

This time, however, the boats floated downstream in the Missouri Rivers headwaters, over 2,800 miles from our St. Louis destination.

During Indian Summer, we paddled east on the Missouri across Montana and then south through the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, and Missouri. St. Louis officials greeted us Nov. 19 when we docked at their city's Gateway Arch, built in honor of Thomas Jefferson, the President who sent out the original expedition.

What did we see on our expedition?

As Miller explained, we traveled across "the same country as the early explorers, but we saw little of what they discovered."

What they saw

Thick oil spills from ocean liners steaming inland to Portland, Ore., covered much of the Columbia River. Pollution also clouded our St. Louis arrival: smog hig the 630-feet high arch, the tallest monument of its kind in the world, until we were less than a half mile away.

For the most part, the once wild rivers have been dammed up.

The U.S. government has constructed 24 dams for hydroelectric power and flood control on the Columbia, Snake and Missouri Rivers.

The dams have backed up nearly 1,500 miles of river water into lakes, creating a boom in local boating recreation but eliminating magnificent landmarks that the explorers discovered, such as the Columbia's Celilo Falls, near the Dallas, Ore., and the Missouri's Great Falls, at Great Falls, Mont.

There now are 15 lakes along the Missouri, most of which are nearly 200 miles long. Those lakes proved to be our greatest opponent, as we averaged less than two m.p.h. crossing them because of the slack water and high winds blowing in our faces.

Wild water

We discovered only a 150-mile stretch of water which remains as wild as in the time of Lewis and Clark. Starting at Fort Benton, Mont., the Wild Missouri—as local canoeists christened it — passes through uninhabitable wastelands.

We drank from mountain streams and the upper Missouri without purifying the water until reaching Sioux City, Iowa, where we saw waste dumped from open sewers into the river.

The Rocky Mountains' Lolo Trail, which the Corps of Discovery frantically crossed on horseback in a raging blizzard, now has thousands of eroding acres dotting the once thickly timbered slopes, the results of forest fires and unchecked logging operations.

However, we discovered two items which remained the same: the natives were as friendly and the weather was as treacherous.

We met nearly 2,000 "natives." They were white people, though, while the original explorers ecountered Indians.

Offered homes

Many families along the route offered us their homes to rest in or provided us home-cooked meals, welcomed changes from our tent and freeze-dried food.

As their journals show, Lewis and Clark always met with the chiefs of Indian tribes along the way to present them with friendship medallions.

In turn, we met with as many "chiefs" of the local "tribes" as possible—five governors and four dozen mayors—to present them with a memento designed to celebrate the 169th anniversary of the Corps of Discovery's departure.

Our first meeting with a governor, Montana's Tom Judge, occurred in the Helena capitol building, but we later met him again on Holter Lake, one of the lakes on the Missouri near Helena, and he attempted to paddle our kayak. He soon was going uncontrollably around in circles on the lake.

Bad weather

Bad weather plagued us as it did the original explorers, more than half of whom could not swim.

Cold rainstorms and high winds often caused us to stop traveling and wait, huddled around a campfire or in our tent, until the weather cleared.

The wind often created five-feet high waves that capsized our craft 21 times.

Once we nearly lost Cochran, a thin man, when his craft capsized battling the Snake River.

In that same episode, we lost our cooking equipment, which forced us to cook out of bailing cans for two weeks until reaching the next civilization at Lewiston.

But, despite the problems, we would follow the trail again.

After all, what closer way is there to see America than by hiking and canoeing across it?

10% assigning $1 of tax to '76 campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Early federal tax returns show that only 10.7 per cent of taxpayers are earmarking $1 for presidential candidates in the 1976 election.

Internal Revenue Service figures compiled from the first 403,000 forms showed that one taxpayer in 10 marked the box on their form authorizing $1 of their taxes for the campaign.

This is more than triple last year's mankoff when only 3.1 per cent checked the box but likely to disappoint advocates of election campaign reform.

David Ifshin, co-director of the Committee for the Presidential Election Campaign Fund, said he was hoping for a 25 per cent response.

But the first spot check represents a tiny fraction of the country's 73 million or more returns to be filed this year.

If the checkoff raises enough over four years, each major party will be eligible to receive 15 cents per citizen over age 18 —a total of about $21 million each for the Democrats and Republicans. Minor parties would get amounts proportional to their total vote in the last election and new parties would be reimbursed retroactively based on their showing.

Before the money is made available, Congress must pass an appropriation, regarded a formality if taxpayers support the checkoff strongly.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Pacific Fleet's last enlisted naval aviator, Kenneth Milburn, retired Monday after 32 years. The master chief petty officer enlisted a year after World War II was declared.

Secluded apartment luxury living. Uniquely different, because the Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees and get back to nature.

A stone's throw from Montclair Plaza. Minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities, and freeway close!

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

2 SWIMMING POOLS, SAUNAS, WALKING TRAILS, HOT SWIRL POOLS, GAME ROOM.

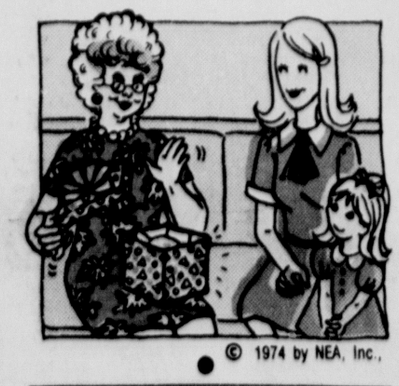
Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Both my husband and I so enjoy reading your feature each Sunday. For my mother and mother-in-law at Christmas and on birthdays I make sure that at least one gift is wrapped so the lid can be lifted off. Each still has a completely gift-wrapped box to be given to someone else. They both dislike wrapping gifts, this is especially appreciated. I attach the ribbon inside the lid so it stays on after it is opened. All either has to do is to add a name tag and, of course, a gift. — GAIL



© 1974 by NEA, Inc.,

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — When I clean my medicine cabinet in the bathroom I first lay a bath towel over the sink. If any bottles should fall the towel helps prevent breakage of the bottles or at least shattering if they do break. This is not only helpful but a safety measure. — MARIE

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for knitters who use markers that are so easily misplaced. Cut a 1-inch square from the elastic top of an old pair of pantyhose. Make a hole in the center that the needle will fit through. This will serve as a marker when slipped on a needle between the stitches. I carry these on the back of my needles when not in use.—KARYN.

DEAR POLLY—Having to wash my hair in order to set it can be a terrific bother so, when my hair needs fixing, I don't always wash it, but fill the sink about half-full of water and put in it the rollers I'm going to use. I can set my dry hair as the rollers will be wet and I get the same effect as if I had washed my hair or dampened it.—PAM.

DEAR POLLY—Save your old plastic shower and window curtains to use as ground covers under sleeping bags while camping, or to use as cloths on picnic tables.—MARY.

DEAR POLLY—A clip-and-save for readers: When you park your car in the sun, place a newspaper over the steering wheel. You will not have to sit and wait for it to cool off after you get back in the car.—MRS. C. C. V.

DEAR POLLY — A good way for students to have a pencil sharpener on hand at all times is to paste a piece of sandpaper to the inside cover of a notebook. Just turn the pencil on it when a sharp point is needed. — BECKY.

DEAR POLLY — I use an iced tea spoon to remove jelly from a jar. No more sticky mess! — KARLENE

Smocked Slippers

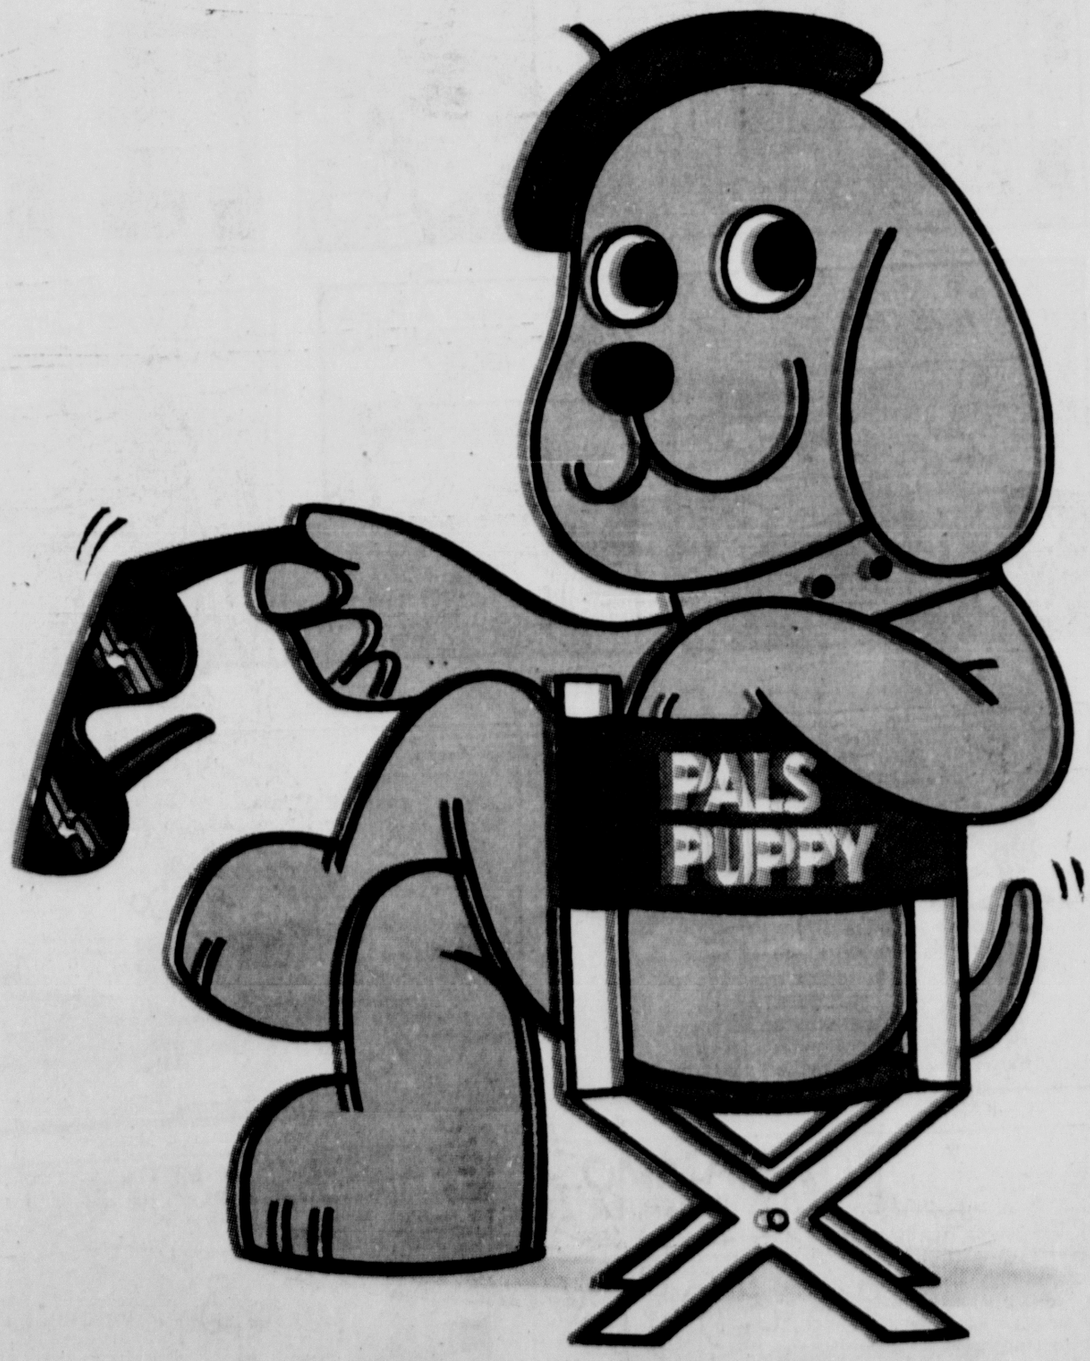
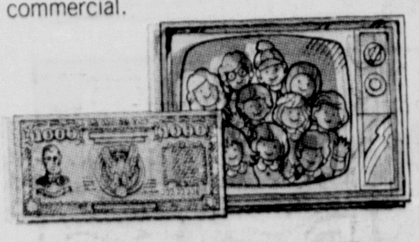
Your child can star in a Pals Television Commercial.



Just enter your child in the Pals Puppy Contest.

- Ten winners will be in a Pals TV commercial. (This includes an expense-paid trip with a parent or guardian to film the commercial.



- One super grand prize of a $1000 government bond.
- 1000 runner-up prizes of a Pals Puppy Wristwatch.

All you do is think up a name for the Pals Puppy. Then fill out and mail the entry coupon below with any empty box of Pals® or Pals Plus Iron or the word PALS written on a piece of paper.

Other rules:
Enter often, but mail each entry separately.
For children 12 (as of April 15) or younger; adults may enter for children.
One prize to a family.
Winners appear in a Pals TV commercial, and while not paid, get air fare, hotel accommodations, meals and transportation for child and one parent or guardian. If winner cannot appear on date selected, another child will be chosen.
Winners selected by an independent judging organization whose decisions are final.
Names judged on suitability for the Pals Puppy. 101 Semi-Finalists selected in random drawings from each of ten geographic regions. Of those, one Grand Prize Finalist from each region (total of 10) will be selected. Open to residents of Continental U.S. only.
No substitutions for prizes.
Winners notified at least thirty days prior to filming. All prizes will be awarded.
Void where prohibited. No purchase required. Complete rules at participating stores or write to: Pals Rules, Box 300, Baltimore, Md. 21203.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out,

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.

Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.

Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes.

'PLEASURES OF HOUSE-BUYING'

"The Househunter," a new series aimed at preparing prospective house buyers for the hazards of making what will probably be the largest purchase of their lives, will debut Tuesday at 7:30PM on KCET, Channel 28. The six-part series of 15-minute programs will be hosted by KCET consumer specialist Ciji Ware Billett.

"Here in Los Angeles a house changes owners on the average of once every four years," Ms. Billett notes. "In fact, house-hunting has practically become a local sport. It's a sport not without hazards, however. If you're thinking about buying a house, be prepared to hassle with final bids, title searches, probate sales, termite inspections, closing costs . . . and usually, you'll be in it alone."

On the opening program, Ms. Billett focuses on how to choose a neighborhood, taking into consideration such factors as local transportation, schools, parks, hospitals, pollution, congestion and potential resale value. She also touches upon ways of calculating your price range and how to judge a realtor in interviews with Elsie Stern, a real estate broker for 33 years in Los Angeles, and Dr. Fred Case, professor at the UCLA School of Business Administration specializing in real estate.

Other programs in the series will deal in detail with the proper means of inspecting a prospective home, the best ways of financing, how to estimate maintenance and improvement costs, the least expensive ways of moving, and how to decorate to fit the owner's personality and life style. Among those interviewed will be Herb Siegel, a building inspector; Ed Dilkes, an attorney specializing in real estate and home financing law; Jim Gilmore and Herbert Porter of Bekins; Phil Decker of the Public Interest Research Center, Berkeley; and Robert Rosevsky, author of a book called "Frauds, Swindles and Rackets."

'THE MIGRANTS'

"Unconditional surrender! I stopped cooking for my family years ago when they stopped eating my food—and abandoned the kitchen. But I haven't given up being a near-perfect mother. That I leave to no one but myself." So confides Cloris Leachman, with mock hysteria creeping into her voice.

"I've also given up asking myself if a mother of four boys and one small, skinny girl should spend so much time away from home. But we're all busy people in my family," she continues. "So far, for a naturally disorganized bunch of folks, we're terribly well ordered. My oldest son cooks for the boys when I'm away, and the two middle boys clean up and take care of the small boy. The small, skinny girl—Dinah—I keep with me. Ma, here, she keeps her thumb on all of them."

Some actresses give up their domestic and maternal chores because of their frantic professional schedules. That could easily be the excuse for Miss Leachman, whose style of life is definitely classified as frantic. She moved from filming guest appearances on The Mary Tyler Moore Show to the filming of the season's second CBS Playhouse 90, Tennessee Williams' "The Migrants," airing Sunday at 9PM on CBS.

After that, she was off to Italy, for a Peter Bogdonovich film. So, keeping tabs on her brood requires daily letters from Miss Leachman to each of her four sons, directed to them according to age, size and interests. "For my youngest boy, I manufacture fantasies with drawings of animals flying outside the window of my plane," she says. "You may think it's ridiculous, but he doesn't, and, therefore, I don't." Letters to her oldest son include daily pleas not to transform the car into something this side of a cigarette lighter.

Information flow is eased within this country—"Boys never write letters, you know"—by nightly telephone calls back home. "It gives Dinah a chance to talk to the boys," Miss Leachman notes. "But once she gets on the phone, she discovers she's never got anything to say. So, I've surrendered my household to the younger generation, but so long as we all keep in touch, close touch, I have no regrets or problems about indulging myself in a career."

THE EVERYDAY HOUSEWIFE

Mitzi Gaynor stars in a one-hour musical-variety special, "Mitzi . . . A Tribute to the American Housewife," on CBS, Monday at 9PM. Suzanne Pleshette, Jane Withers, Ted Knight and Jerry Orbach are Mitzi's guests for music, dance and comedy vignettes, all keyed to "an up-to-date look at the life and times of the American housewife." Jack Bean is executive producer of the special, Lee Miller produced, Tony Charmoli is director and choreographer and the script was written by Jerry Mayer and Charlotte Brown.

THE MIGRANTS

Tennessee Williams' "The Migrants," the stark and sensitive story of a desperately poor family of present-day farm workers, is the second presentation of the CBS Playhouse 90 series, on CBS, Sunday at 9PM. Cloris Leachman stars with Ron Howard, Sissy Spacek, Cindy Williams, Ed Lauter, Lisa Lucas and Mills Watson. The drama focuses on Lyle Barlow (Howard), a teenager caught in the despairing, endlessly tedious cycle of a migrant worker. He rejects with disgust the lives his mother and father are living, and fights to get away from them to find stability in a permanent home and job.

'COUNTRY GIRL'

"Please, Georgie, don't be mad at me. I know I'm no damned good but I'm worried to death. . . ." Jason Robards was speaking the lines in a dusty ballroom of an old New York City hotel. The ballroom had been converted into a rehearsal hall for the new Hallmark Hall of Fame production of the Clifford Odets play, "The Country Girl," a drama special airing on NBC, Tuesday at 8:30PM. In it, Robards plays a frightened actor, Frank Elgin, whose once-flourishing career has been dissipated by alcohol and fear. Shirley Knight Hopkins co-stars as his wife Georgie, helpful but realistic about the strengths and weaknesses of her husband. George Grizzard also co-stars as Bernie Dodd, super-confident director who offers Elgin what could be the last chance to regain his stature as a performer.

Robards read his lines in the bleak rehearsal hall under the watchful eyes of the rest of the cast and of director Paul Bogart. Also looking on was Sidney Carroll, the veteran television writer who adapted the Odets play for television. Said Carroll: "It's an adventure to watch Robards rehearse. He never does the same thing twice with a line or a movement. He's always thinking, always searching, searching, searching for the meaning . . . the reasons . . . behind the dialogue."

Robards said the condensation of the play, necessary for television, has changed his approach to the role. "For television, I've got to make one line, one expression, take the place of six I would use on stage. As a result, I find totally new values in my characterization. The compression of the play forces me to get deeper into the character. Sid Carroll is right. I never quite do the same thing twice."

Grizzard, too, is no stranger to "The Country Girl." He said: "This is the third time I've played the part of the director; the last time was with Jason in 1972. My first time was 20 years ago with the Washington Arena Stage group in the nation's capital. I had to grow a mustache in order to look older than I was."

Co-starring in the special are Larry Haines as Phil Cook, the producer; John Lithgow as Paul Unger, the playwright, and Christopher Murney as Larry, the stage manager. Featured is Lisa Pelikan as Nancy, the ingenue. This production marks the television debut for Lithgow, a Tony Award winner as "Best Supporting Actor" for "The Changing Room." It also marks the professional acting debut for Miss Pelikan, 19, who said: "Watching Jason, Shirley and George work is the finest education any young performer could get. I'm floating on a cloud."

The story begins on a dimly lit New York stag where Elgin (Robards) is thrust from the duty o understudy to the leading part when the sta deserts a play in rehearsal. The director (Grizzard who remembers Elgin in his prime, is sure there stardom left in the performer and sets him for th leading role despite objections from the produce and the trepidations of the actor's wife. The cor flicts which follow threaten the actor, his wi and the director.

This production was taped in Toronto, Canad All scenes which take place in a theatre actuall were performed in Toronto's graceful Roy Alexandra Theatre. In the studio one of the scene is set in Sardi's, the famous Broadway restaura in the theatrical district. Ben Edwards, art directo for "The Country Girl," recreated the exact deco of the restaurant and he also was able to borro some of the authentic, original autographed carica tures of famous personalities which have hun on the walls of Sardi's over the years. Asked ho he was able to borrow the valuable caricature Webster said: "I wish I could give you a big, in volved story. I can't. I know Vincent Sardi Jr., an I simply explained what I wanted to do and aske if I could borrow them. He said 'yes' and her they are."

"The Country Girl" is a Talent Associates Norton Simon, Inc. production in association wit FCB Productions. Duane C. Bogie is executiv producer for FCB Productions. For this show however, he will have dual credits. Bogie also i seen as one of the actors in the play-within-a-pla sequence. It all happened one quiet morning at th Royal Alexandra.

Bogie and others associated with the special wer sitting in the orchestra watching rehearsals whe director Bogart suddenly turned and looked a those seated in the orchestra. He said: "We nee one more person to play an actor for this scene. He pointed at Bogie and said: "You look right fo the part. Say something—yes, you sound righ You've got the part. Memorize three speeches. Bogie smiled and replied: "I'll never live throug it." But he did and he appears as a bespectacle gray-haired actor in one of the on-stage scene of "The Country Girl."

'DRAMA OF INVOLVEMENT'

The hard-hitting Emmy nominated TV Series Insight, seen locally on KNBC-TV, Ch. 4, Sundays at 4PM, in half-hour dramatic episodes, explores in depth such diverse topics as the plight of the working man, prison reform, genetic manipulation, the battered child syndrome, mental retardation, the middle-age crisis and the challenge of loving.

Paulist Father Ellwood E. Kieser, a 6'6" Catholic priest, is the Executive Producer of Insight, the world's most widely seen religious TV series, now in its 14th year. When queried about Insight's popularity, Father Kieser said, "Most American television is the drama of distraction. Ours is the drama of involvement. We're trying to dramatize the problems faced by the man in the street and involve him in the search for the solution. People are looking for meaning, freedom and love. We're trying to illumine that search."

Another reason for Insight's success is the caliber of talent Father Kieser has been able to recruit. Stars like Bob Newhart, Michael Learned (The Waltons), Carroll O'Connor, Martin Sheen, Anne Francis and Clu Gulager contribute their time and talent. These top-priced stars work for union scale and in most cases, donate their check back to Insight.

Jenny & Vince are roommates. He likes the arrangement. She wants more. A sensitive exploration of the meaning of commitment.

'A GLITTERING TREAT'

"Mitzi . . . A Tribute to the American Housewife" will provide a visual treat for art lovers, decorators and movie buffs beyond the obvious delight of watching Mitzi Gaynor, Suzanne Pleshette and Jane Withers. The hour-long special airs Monday at 9PM on CBS. It also stars Ted Knight and Jerry Orbach in its light-hearted salute in music and humor to the woman of the house. But beyond the talented cast, two of the props in the show are of special interest.

They are 12-foot-tall crystal candelabra. Each is made up of thousands of hand-cut pieces of Baccarat crystal, totaling 1800 pounds, and holds 72 light bulbs. They are valued at $200,000 although there really is no way to put a price on them as they would probably be impossible to duplicate. Beyond their intrinsic value, the history of the lamps makes them of interest.

They are from a set of four manufactured in France during the early part of this century for decor in the Baccarat Room of the Monte Carlo Casino. At one time they were displayed at the Louvre in Paris as part of a display of Baccarat crystal. Precisely when movie mogul Jack L. Warner acquired the pair used in the Mitzi special is not known. He used to say that he won them as a gambling debt, but Warner Bros. studio employees suspect he paid a high price for them. It was rumored that he used them in his palatial Hollywood estate, but at some time they were shipped to the studio for use in a motion picture. The name of the picture has long-since been forgotten—and so were the candelabra.

It was producer Lee Miller who recognized the unique pile of glass lost in the recesses of the studio's storage area. He was searching for unusual props to add to the appeal of "Mitzi . . . A Tribute to the American Housewife" and quickly contracted to rent the huge lamps. He admits that if he had known the cost of the restoration, cleaning and assembling for their renewed life he might have changed his mind. Steel bases had to be manufactured to transport the lamps to the studio in which Mitzi was doing her special and Miller jokes that it took three gallons of glass cleaner to polish them after they arrived.

Now the taping is past and the future of the huge lamps again is uncertain. At this time of energy shortages, there are few places for $100,000 lamps which burn nearly 3,000 watts of current when lit.

EDDY ARNOLD: PLOWBOY WITH MIDAS TOUCH

"When I was born," says Tennessean Eddy Arnold, "dad hung up his fiddle and never played anymore. Don't know why exactly, but that was the way folks did things there."

Happily, son Eddy's musical leanings didn't come to such an abrupt halt. One of the top four recording artists (trailing Bing Crosby, the Beatles and a fellow Tennessean named Elvis Presley), Arnold is host of the "Country Music Hit Parade," Monday at 10PM on CBS.

Back when Arnold's dad found that he had better things to do than fool around with a fiddle, however, you couldn't blame him. Young Arnold, two brothers and a sister were brought up in the depression time of the 1930s. When Arnold was 11, his father died. The family lost their farm and had to rent it back from the fellow who bought it at auction. All they had to start over with were a team of mules and milk cow. The farm itself wasn't any great shakes. It produced about 500 pounds of ginned cotton a year—cotton then sold for 10 to 15 cents a pound.

When the crops were sown, the boys tried to get jobs until harvest time. Mostly, they would cut timber in the river bottom in July and August when the swamps were dry. After the fall harvest, they'd return to school, a one-room institution with eight grades. That's as much education as Arnold ever got.

But life wasn't all grits and gloom. When Arnold was seven, kinfolk left him an old guitar. He soon learned to pluck a few chords and sing a few songs. When he got bigger, he started playing Saturday night dances at 75 cents a date. Eddy could then afford to spark the girls, at 50 cents. "Man," he recalls, "you spent that much on a girl where I come from, and she wanted you to come back."

Thanks to a singularly successful career, Arnold is decidedly more flush today. After starting his career playing square dances, he landed jobs with radio stations in Jackson, Tenn., St. Louis and Memphis. In 1945, Arnold signed with a top record company—and if the match wasn't exactly made in heaven, it was the next best thing. Together they've sold a whopping 70 million records.

Arnold married in 1941 to Sally Gayhart, whom he had met while she was working in a five-and-dime store in Louisville, Ky. (they have a son, 24, and a married daughter, 28). The Arnold homestead is a 107-acre farm outside Nashville, Tenn. A sharp investor (principally in real estate), Arnold, at 56, is a millionaire. He would enjoy a six-figure annual income even if he never sang again, which isn't apt to happen.

FAMILY ROOMS—BEDROOMS—BATHROOMS

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

BY BILL MAHAN

One of the many guilds and unions in Hollywood is the Screen Extras Guild, more commonly called SEG. This is an extremely difficult guild to get into—it is very nearly a closed shop. Maybe, however, it should be opened up some to give movies and television a bit of a break.

Take for example a half-hour pilot I saw recently—its title: FIRE-HOUSE. The pilot film had considerable exterior shots of the fire that the lead actors would eventually put out. There were shots of fire engines, police, featured players in the episode, and extras standing around watching the fire. If you looked carefully you would see the same extras in too many places at the same time. In fact, if you looked very carefully you would see two particular extras almost everywhere there was a crowd of people. And, worse yet, those same two extras turned up walking ahead or behind the featured players, no matter where they were or what part of the film they appeared in.

This is the kind of thing that makes large, gaping holes in television. It can be blamed partly on the film editor for not editing the film in such a way that these extras are cut out of the places they don't belong, but many times he is locked to the film the director has shot and there's nothing he can do to save the situation. You can't blame the casting directors, either, because they don't hand-pick the extras. They just put out a call and take what comes. The real blame lies with the extras themselves. They should know better but their egos won't permit it. They think that by being on as much film as possible they have a better chance of being seen and possibly discovered. They apparently don't realize that all they do is infuriate the executives and directors when they turn up too often.

It seems to be just another of those unsolvable situations that constantly plague a motion picture or television company. On the other hand, maybe it really isn't a problem. I know the faces of probably all the extras in the business. This makes it much easier for me to spot them on film. Maybe the viewer who doesn't know their faces never notices how often they pop up in the wrong places. If any of my readers are so inclined, drop me a note c/o TV WEEK, 544 W. Colorado Boulevard, Glendale 91204, and let me know what you think.

Sometime back I wrote a column on the Motion Picture and Television Fund, an organization set up in the early thirties to help ill or unfortunate people who had made their livings in the movie business. I told about how they had gone to bat for my family and me when I was a young boy and we had troubles.I told also about how they literally saved my mother's life seven years ago by putting her in the Motion Picture Country Hospital, an offshoot of MP&TF, when no physical therapist or commercial convalescent home could do a thing for her severely shattered left knee.

Now, in early 1974, I've seen them strike again and help a very famous screenwriter of the forties. The writer has been plagued with bad luck of every kind for well over a decade. When her sister and constant companion became terribly ill, the writer was thrown so deeply into the depths of debt that she truly had no place to turn. Her pride was too much in evidence and she refused to ask anyone for help—and, too, most of her friends had been helping, on and off, over a long period of time. Someone suggested the Motion Picture and Television Fund. She forced herself to contact them and they came through with the same style they always have since I came in contact with them in the mid-thirties.

MP&TF operates entirely on donations given by employees in any and all fields of the motion picture and television business. Every time a person gets a new job in or with any of the major studios or independent companies there is a box on the form they fill out to be checked "Yes" or "No" as to whether or not they want to give a percentage of their salaries to MP&TF. Most people give—either one- half per cent of one per cent of their salaries. Of course big stars, executives, producers and directors frequently make substantial donations also. I've given since 1935 when I first entered the movie industry. I'll continue to give until I go to Hollywood heaven (or hell, whichever it is.)

So, for any of you in the business who may read this and don't give, take a minute and look into the organization. Or better still, go out to Woodland Hills and see what a marvelous setup it is. It belongs to you and will always be standing by should you really need help and have no place to get it.

NEW TIME!

'THE ELEVATOR'

The prime requisite for a 90-minute suspense television movie is a gripping story. Writers Bruce Shelly and David Ketchum have come up with this type of story for "The Elevator," an ABC Suspense Movie produced by Universal and airing Saturday (Feb. 9) at 8:30PM.

A robbery has just taken place high up in a skyscraper. One of the thieves kills for the money and then is accidentally separated from the other thief, an ex-Vietnam POW with claustrophobia due to inhumane imprisonment. The latter now holds a briefcase with a fortune and suddenly the elevator that he's riding comes to a halt and the doors won't open. Trapped along with the thief are 8 other people—all living through their own private Hells. Now they are all trapped in a crisis that brings out the best as well as the worst in them.

Gradually they come to realize that there is a killer loose who will not stop at murdering all of them in order to get away with the money. They also come to realize that their elevator is in genuine danger of falling 42 stories at any moment.

Myrna Loy, who plays a lonely woman who almost enjoys her elevator predicament, is no stranger to audiences anywhere in the world. Teresa Wright plays a woman who is about to lose her husband to a young lady with very few scruples. Ms. Wright won an Academy Award for her performance in "Mrs. Miniver." James Farentino, who plays the thief with claustrophobia, comes to "The Elevator" fresh from a triumphant role on Broadway in a revival of "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Roddy McDowall plays the skyscraper rental agent who does some dramatic soul-searching when it looks as though his life is about to end. Carol Lynley started acting as a teenager after a successful career as a model. In "The Elevator," she plays a member of a trio of thieves involved in a robbery that ends in disaster. Craig Stevens, who plays a philandering husband about to leave his loving wife, established himself in television history when he played the title role in "Peter Gunn." Don Stroud, who plays a thief and a murderer, got his start doing stunt work for Troy Donahue. "The Elevator" also features Jean Allison and Barry Livingston.

Myrna Loy and Teresa Wright were photographed together this week on location for "The Elevator," Universal Television's ABC Suspense Movie. Twenty-seven years ago, Ms. Loy and Ms. Wright co-starred as mother and daughter in Samuel Goldwyn's Academy Award winning film, "The Best Years of Our Lives." Although the ladies run into one another socially, this is the first time they have worked together in twenty-seven years.

THE BIG JUMP

"Smile, Jenny, You're Dead," a David Janssen suspense film and series pilot coming up on ABC at 8:30PM on Sunday, is the movie of the Big Jump. The one for which a daring young stunt man, as you may have seen on a news telecast or in the papers, jumped from the top of a 10-story building onto a jet air bag on the ground 126 feet below.

Dar Robinson, 26, figures he hit a speed of about 80 miles an hour. For this feat, recognized by the Hollywood Stunt Men's Association as the record for a land fall (topping Terry Leonard's from the eighth story of a hotel into a pile of empty cardboard boxes on the roof of the second floor in 1968 by 48 feet), Warner Bros. Television paid $3500.

After deductions of $1182.60 for the Internal Revenue Department, $366.10 for California State income tax, $204.75 for Social Security, and $35 for State disability insurance, the single man went home with exactly $1711.55. The important thing being, of course, that he went home.

But Robinson resents being called a daredevil. "Everything is engineered beforehand, and I know just how to fall. I'm a pro. I don't take risks."

A few months before that job he drove a motorcycle off an aircraft carrier in San Francisco Bay, doubling Clint Eastwood in "Magnum Force."

Doubling Steve McQueen in "Papillon," he dived from a 100-foot cliff into 10 feet of ocean in Hawaii, and wrestled a crocodile in Jamaica. "The thing about wrestlng a crocodile," he said, "is you've got to remember he doesn't understand when the director yells 'Cut!' "

For this sort of work he averages between $30,000 and $40,000 a year. But then he's relatively new at it. "There are a couple of other stuntmen who make between $70,000 and $80,000."

Warners' had him insured for $20,000, the general coverage for all actors in a movie except stars, and he has the regular actor's policy with the Screen Actors' Guild.

"Lloyd's writes another policy for stunt men but the premium is pretty high. They don't understand that we've had only two fatalities in the last 20 years. Like I say, we're pros."

In "Smile, Jenny, You're Dead," designed to introduce a series called "Harry O," Janssen is cast as a retired police detective, with Andrea Marcovicci in the title role of a cover girl whom a psychotic photographer is fixing to hurl from the top of the building when Janssen arrives to the rescue. Then the psycho, played by Zalman King, jumps off himself.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ANTHONY QUINN

Don't you think a child should grow up and then decide for himself what religion he believes in?—F. R., Danville, Ill.

● No, I don't. I believe you must know the form of a thing before you decide anything about it. Children should learn a religion so that they'll have a foundation from which to spring, from which to change if they so decide. Although I'm not Catholic, my children are being brought up Catholic. Later on, if they want to change religions the way I did—fine.

FOR IRVING WALLACE, author

How long does it take you to research a book such as "The Word"?—John Newlin, Santa Rosa, Calif.

● It took me ten years—two years full-time, eight years part-time—which included nine trips to Europe, 58 interviews with Bible experts, and endless poking around the back streets of Europe. I had to become an expert myself in Bible publishing, archaeology, Jesus, carbon dating—and still remember I was writing a suspense thriller. It was hard work but great fun and a memorable experience.

FOR BART STARR, former football star

Would you ever come back to football as a coach?—Lee Pollard, Bethel, N.C.

● I'm not particularly planning to get into coaching, but the right opportunity might change my mind.

FOR CAROL BURNETT

I read that you got straight A's in school. Did your grades come easy?—Barbara Cunningham, Pocatello, Idaho

● I was a B student. Grades came easy in subjects I liked. The others came hard.

FOR SUSAN SAINT JAMES, star of "McMillan & Wife"

Is it true that you sew most of your clothes?—Mauri Forsberg, Yuma, Ariz.

● I used to, but I don't have time now, what with the series and my baby. I wear blue jeans a lot.

FOR GOV. GEORGE WALLACE

Do you have any hope of ever walking again?—Mrs. Rita Hurst, Lancaster, Pa.

● From what neurosurgeons have told me, I'm afraid I can't expect to walk again.

FOR JUDY COLLINS, folk singer

I've heard you're going to quit folk singing and one-night concert tours like your friend, Joni Mitchell. Is this true?—J. B., Buffalo, N.Y.

● I will not quit singing, but I will quit touring for a while. I want to spend more time putting together my records and writing new songs. I also want to devote more time to my friends.

FOR ARTHUR O'CONNELL, actor

I remember you years ago in "Citizen Kane" with Orson Welles. What was he like to work with?—S. Vogler, San Antonio, Texas

● We all realized he was a genius. And he was very patient and gentle—not at all the opinionated man he's been made out to be. Many times we'd do a scene and he'd get back and see it through the camera and say, "I was all wrong!" and we'd start over. He was very open-minded.

FOR TELLY SAVALAS, star of "Kojak"

Is it true that you shave your head daily?—David Gomia, Middletown, Ohio

● I shave it every day and have done so ever since I played Pontius Pilate in "The Greatest Story Ever Told." If I didn't shave it now, nobody would recognize me.

FOR PETER RODINO, JR. (D-N.J.),
House Judiciary Committee Chairman

Why does your committee need $1 million to figure out whether or not President Nixon should be impeached?—D. A. L., Louisville, Ky.

● Any impeachment inquiry—but particularly one concerning the President of the United States—involves many uncharted and untested issues. It's necessary to assemble a staff of the highest quality and rectitude, including persons with extensive judicial experience, to assist in carrying out a proper and complete investigation. And this costs money.

The Top Five Women Golfers:

Style, Grace—And Now Big Money, Too

By Helen Dorsey

"I want to be treated like a woman."—Kathy Whitworth

Veteran golfer Patty Berg, a stocky, grizzled, gray-haired lady who turned pro in 1940, remembers the old days well: "We had only three tournaments, five professional women players, and the total prize money was about $500. In the Women's Western Open in 1941, we played all week for $100."

Today, lady golfers win small fortunes in tournaments sponsored by large corporations and receive abundant television exposure and publicity.

For a close look at today's five top LPGA money winners, FAMILY WEEKLY interviewed the girls as they awaited the upcoming $100,000 Sears Women's Classic, to be held February 4-10 at Port St. Lucie, Fla.

So move over, Arnie and Jack—let's hear what the girls have to say.

KATHY WHITWORTH
(1973 EARNINGS: $82,864)

Kathrynne Whitworth, 1973 top money winner, is sometimes called the Jack Nicklaus of the women's tour. She is ramrod-straight and lanky, 35 years old, and walks with an easy lope. She has the face of a pioneer lady and speaks directly, with a Texas drawl. Kathy, the perfect example of the longtime pro, exercises great discipline in her game and has a low tolerance of anything that may interfere with it.

"The most important thing is your attitude about the game and what your purpose is out there. To be a good player, you must be able to concentrate well. You don't always hit the ball perfectly, so you have to be able to learn to adjust. You can't let outside things interfere with what you're doing."

Kathy enjoys the company of men. Her tastes are definite. "I like mature men, men older than I am. I like sports-oriented men, but I think it's more important that a man be a strong individual because I'm so independent. However," Kathy added, "I don't like men who are overpowering to the point that they are obnoxious. I have a strong personality, and to complement me and respect my views I need a strong man. I'm not trying to wear the pants. And I'm certainly not a Women's Libber. But I want to be treated like a woman. At the same time, I'm not helpless, because I can do things for myself. Therefore, I think mutual respect is important. I've found several fellows like that, but they are very rare indeed."

Success has given Kathy the opportunity to buy two homes—one in Denton, Texas, the other on Padre Island, off Texas, where she enjoys her hobby of digging for old Spanish coins washed ashore from shipwrecked galleons.

JUDY RANKIN
(1973 EARNINGS: $72,989)

Judy Rankin, the second biggest winner, is the only married girl in the top five. Petite (5-3) and blonde, the 105-pounder has been called a "Nordic spark plug" because of her powerhouse swing and deadly chip shot. The 27-year-old, who also lives in Texas, started playing golf at age five.

Wide World

"I used to cry a lot over my golf."
—Judy Rankin

Judy is very emphatic about her reasons for pursuing the the tour. "Money. Of course I enjoy the game and I really am addicted to the competition. But I certainly wouldn't do it to the extent I do or work as hard at it or put my family out if it were not for the money."

Judy's husband Walter, or "Yippie" as she calls him, and their five-year-old-son Tuey are a great support to Judy, accompanying her on many of the tours. "I'm amazed how well the married girls are able to play because of all they have to do before they ever get on the course," says Yippie. "Judy has to see that Tuey and I are both fed and worry about getting baby-sitters."

Yippie – a former football player, now an insurance executive—understands the game of golf fairly well, but not the mental concentration it requires. "You have to keep your composure. At first, I used to want to tell her, 'Stomp 'em in the ground!' It took me a couple of years to get over that."

Judy and Yippie do a good deal of Monday-morning quarterbacking over her mistakes after she's had time to cool off. "Sometimes I welcome what he has to say," says Judy, "but sometimes I can't seem to get my head together and we have a conflict simply because I'm not open to any discussion!"

Judy is a perfectionist. "I used to cry a lot over my golf. It's always been a very serious part of my life. It was a hardship on my entire family, even down to my aunts and grandparents. But my father's idea was that if I could do something well, it would enable me to have a better life."

Still, she looks to partial retirement—or at least the luxury someday of saying, "I don't feel like playing this week."

SANDRA PALMER
(1973 EARNINGS: $55,439)

Sandra Palmer, third top winner, is compact in build and an excellent all-round athlete. Another Texan, Sandy ranks with the best shotmakers in the game.

A pretty girl (she was a beauty queen and cheerleader in college), she is very direct, almost

"If you're just interested in watching pretty girls, you ought to go to a beauty contest or a burlesque show."
—Sandra Palmer

terse, until she sizes you up. She shares an apartment with roommates in Dallas.

Sandy tries hard to pace herself. "Traveling takes its toll. And I tend to practice too much, which is pretty exhausting by the end of the year. But I really do enjoy the fame and I can't think of anything else I'd rather Mega-Vitamin Reducing Plan Is Guaranteed To Work: . . . even if you are a big eater . . . even if you are not physically active . . . and even if you've got a slow basal metabolism rate!

Tremendously More Potent than All the Famous "Popular Diets"

Far More Effective than All the Advertised "Inch Reducers"

More than 85,000 men and women have used Mega-Vitamin Reducing Plans. And scores of delighted users from every state in the U.S. and Canada have enjoyed fantastic success with this outstanding weight loss plan.

NO WAITING! TRIPLE TABLET PLAN WORKS QUICKLY!

You lose weight faster and more permanently because you tailor the Mega-Vitamin Plan to fit your body thus maximizing your weight loss within the briefest possible time.

YOUR COMPLETE MEGA-VITAMIN PLAN LEAVES NOTHING TO CHANCE!

Now, because you make the Mega-Vitamin Plan adjust to you (rather than you adjusting to it) you can avoid overstimulating yourself with wasteful supplements and unnecessary foods or nutrients. And, as importantly, you will not understimulate your weight loss. After all, you may be among the many who require a greater body jolt to get your weight loss rolling.

THE MEGA-VITAMIN FORMULA HELPS THE CELLS OF YOUR BODY TO WORK EFFICIENTLY IN THE DIGESTION AND METABOLISM OF YOUR FOOD!

These newly developed Mega-Vitamins were created especially for this reducing plan. And although the formula of a dozen important ingredients contains more than the daily minimum requirements . . . a normal, healthy adult may enjoy them without any side effects when taken as directed because your Mega-Vitamins are not ANOREXIANTS.

POWERFULLY POTENT FORMULA WORKS EVEN WHILE YOU SLEEP!

In addition, your Mega-Vitamins contain laboratory tested ingredients that will help appease your appetite and counteract hunger. Your Mega-Vitamin formula is combined with one of the strongest diet aids available without a prescription.

SELECT THE SPEED OF YOUR WEIGHT LOSS!

Before starting, you will actually determine the speed of your weight loss. You can speed it up or slow it down . . . whichever you prefer. Because no two people are alike — your actual weight loss will depend on your body metabolism, daily living pattern, etc.

EAT HEARTY! EAT WELL! NO DRASTIC CHANGES!

The Mega-Vitamin Plan encourages you to enjoy many of the same foods you now eat. Mouthwatering meats, scrumptious salads, delicious vegetables, hearty potatoes — even breads and luscious desserts are definitely acceptable.

LEADING MEDICAL AUTHORITIES PROVIDE CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE!

Yes, ask your physician about this Mega-Vitamin Plan. Doctors know that a successful weight reducing plan offering a PERMANENT WEIGHT LOSS must provide for a well-balanced program of protein, fats and carbohydrates, And, you must maintain an adequate amount of vitamins and minerals. Your Mega-Vitamin tablets help you achieve your goal by supplementing the diet regimen which, of course, plays the major weight loss role by restricting your calorie intake.

The Top Five Women Golfers

do. I'm smart enough to know that you can't do it forever, so I try to work hard at it while I'm doing it."

Touring, she says, makes marriage pretty well out of the question. "It would take an exceptional man, someone who would not be too demanding. Because if you're going to play a competitive sport, it has to be an all-round job. And if you're married, that's another full-time job, too. Besides, men don't want you to be away from home. If I could find someone wealthy enough who could go with me, it might work out nicely. I like athletic guys, guys who like being outdoors, with some intelligence. I like people who have some compassion for what I'm trying to do."

Sandy feels some of the other women golfers work too hard to project "the feminine image on tour. Of course, people enjoy coming out and watching attractive women. I mean, who wouldn't? But sometimes that's overdone and detracts from the game. Most people come out to watch good golf shots. If you're just interested in watching pretty girls, you ought to go to a beauty contest or a burlesque show."

Sandy does, however, enjoy dressing up off the course, enjoys going out and meeting people. "Sometimes people get the wrong impression because they think you're in town to have a good time. That can be overbearing and strained. But most of the girls know how to handle themselves very well."

BETTY BURFEINDT
(1973 EARNINGS: $51,030)

Betty Burfeindt, fourth big-money winner, is Irish and red-headed, with a temper to match. A creature of sunny and stormy moods, the 27-year-old New Yorker (she lives now in Palm Springs) gives herself pep talks on the course to help her improve her game. "Some of the words I can't repeat," she says, smiling slyly. "In a sense, I kick myself, as if to say, 'Get yourself in gear and get going!'"

"Some of the words I can't repeat. In a sense, I kick myself."
—Betty Burfeindt

Betty is a determined competitor. She entered the ranks of professional golfers after winning a mink coat in the 1970 Sears Tournament. Her greatest test of courage came in 1972, when she nearly died from a thyroid condition. She is also constantly fighting attacks of fatigue due to a metabolic condition.

Betty claims having a temper helps her game. "If your temper takes over, that's no good, but I think if you get mad enough at yourself, you can do what you want to do. I just don't think you can go along staying only on one level."

Betty's interests beyond golf include going to the movies, dancing, and decorating doors using decoupage (the practice of gluing pictures to wood and then covering them with layers of varnish). Like many of the girls on tour, Betty feels a need to be alone. "I socialize with the girls, but I don't hang around any one particular group. I definitely have to get off by myself sometimes."

CAROL MANN
(1973 EARNINGS: $47,734)

The Veruschka of the links, Carol Mann stands 6-3. She just misses being pretty, but she makes up for it by her kooky personality. She lives alone in a Baltimore suburb, loves music and finds therapy by strutting around her apartment listening to rock music. She thrives on driving her Mercedes "as fast as I can," and would someday just adore to "put a knapsack on my back and roam the world."

Ten years ago, when the 32-year-old blonde turned pro, she longed for "fame, fortune and travel." Now she finds golf "the best way I can express myself. I look on it as an art—a creative action. It's wonderful to be able to play golf skillfully and beautifully and to have the self-discipline while you're producing these beautiful shots."

Carol is introspective, and she admits this hinders her game (she has had to stop reading so many psychoanalytical books). "I've been coming out of an emotional funk. I was full of doubts and fears about everything. My confidence just got shattered. It affected my game to the point I was not able to put mind over matter. Now I feel that I'm able to do that, and my game has improved."

Carol, predictably, is self-conscious about her height. "I used to walk into a room, and when someone would remark about my height, I'd want to fall into a hole."

Until recently, one of Carol's chief diversions was playing the flute. But she lost "the damn thing In a car. I've thought about taking up the piccolo. The thought of me playing a piccolo is so wonderfully incongruous!"

Stop kidding yourself!

Doesn't it strike you as strange that somebody as down-to-earth as yourself would think that if you close your eyes to serious questions, they will go away?

Yet there are plenty of people who spend their lives kidding themselves about the things that really matter. What things? Well, religion for one. For many, religion is like electricity. They know what it is until you ask them. And even when they can define religion, they don't see it as the most basic relationship of their lives.

If religion up until now has meant little or nothing to you, isn't it time you stopped kidding yourself? "It's all make-believe," you say. But what if it isn't? Write for our free pamphlet: "Religion Means God and Me." No one will call.

* Selections marked with a star are not available in reel tapes

†Available on records and cartridges only

NOTE: All applications are subject to approval and Columbia House reserves the right to reject any application.

Just look at the wide range of recorded entertainment you have to choose from—not only the best and latest from Columbia's huge catalog...but also new releases and old favorites from A&M, Bell, Dunhill, Epic, MCA, Mercury, MGM, Parrot, United Artists and many, many other labels! And with this exclusive offer from the Columbia Record & Tape Club you may have any 11 of these stereo tapes or records for only $1.97 plus the Travel Clock Radio described above as an extra bonus.

To order your 11 records or tapes just mail the application, together with your check or money order for $1.97 as payment. That's all you pay for your first 11 selections—there are no additional membership dues or fees for joining. (Be sure to indicate whether you want cartridges, cassettes, reel-to-reel tapes or records.) In exchange...

You agree to buy 11 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the coming two years. That's right—you'll have two full years in which to buy eleven selections ...so you are not obligated to buy a record or tape every month, or even every other month! And you may cancel your membership at any time after you've purchased your eleven selections.

Your own charge account will be opened upon enrollment. The selection you order as a member will be mailed and billed at the regular Club prices: cartridges and cassettes, $6.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $4.98 or $5.98—plus processing and postage. (Occasional special selections may be somewhat higher.)

You may accept or reject selections as follows: every four weeks (13 times a year) you will receive a new copy of the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest ...plus hundreds of alternate selections from every field of music. In addition, about six times a year we will offer some special selections (usually at a discount off regular Club prices). A response card will always be enclosed with each magazine.

...if you do not want any selection offered, just mail the response card provided by the date specified

...if you want only the Selection of the Month for your musical interest, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically

...if you want any of the other selections offered, just order them on the response card and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make a decision. If for any reason you do not have 10 days in which to decide, you may return the regular selection at our expense and receive full credit for it.

You'll be eligible for our bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement—a plan which enables you to save at least 33% on all your future purchases.

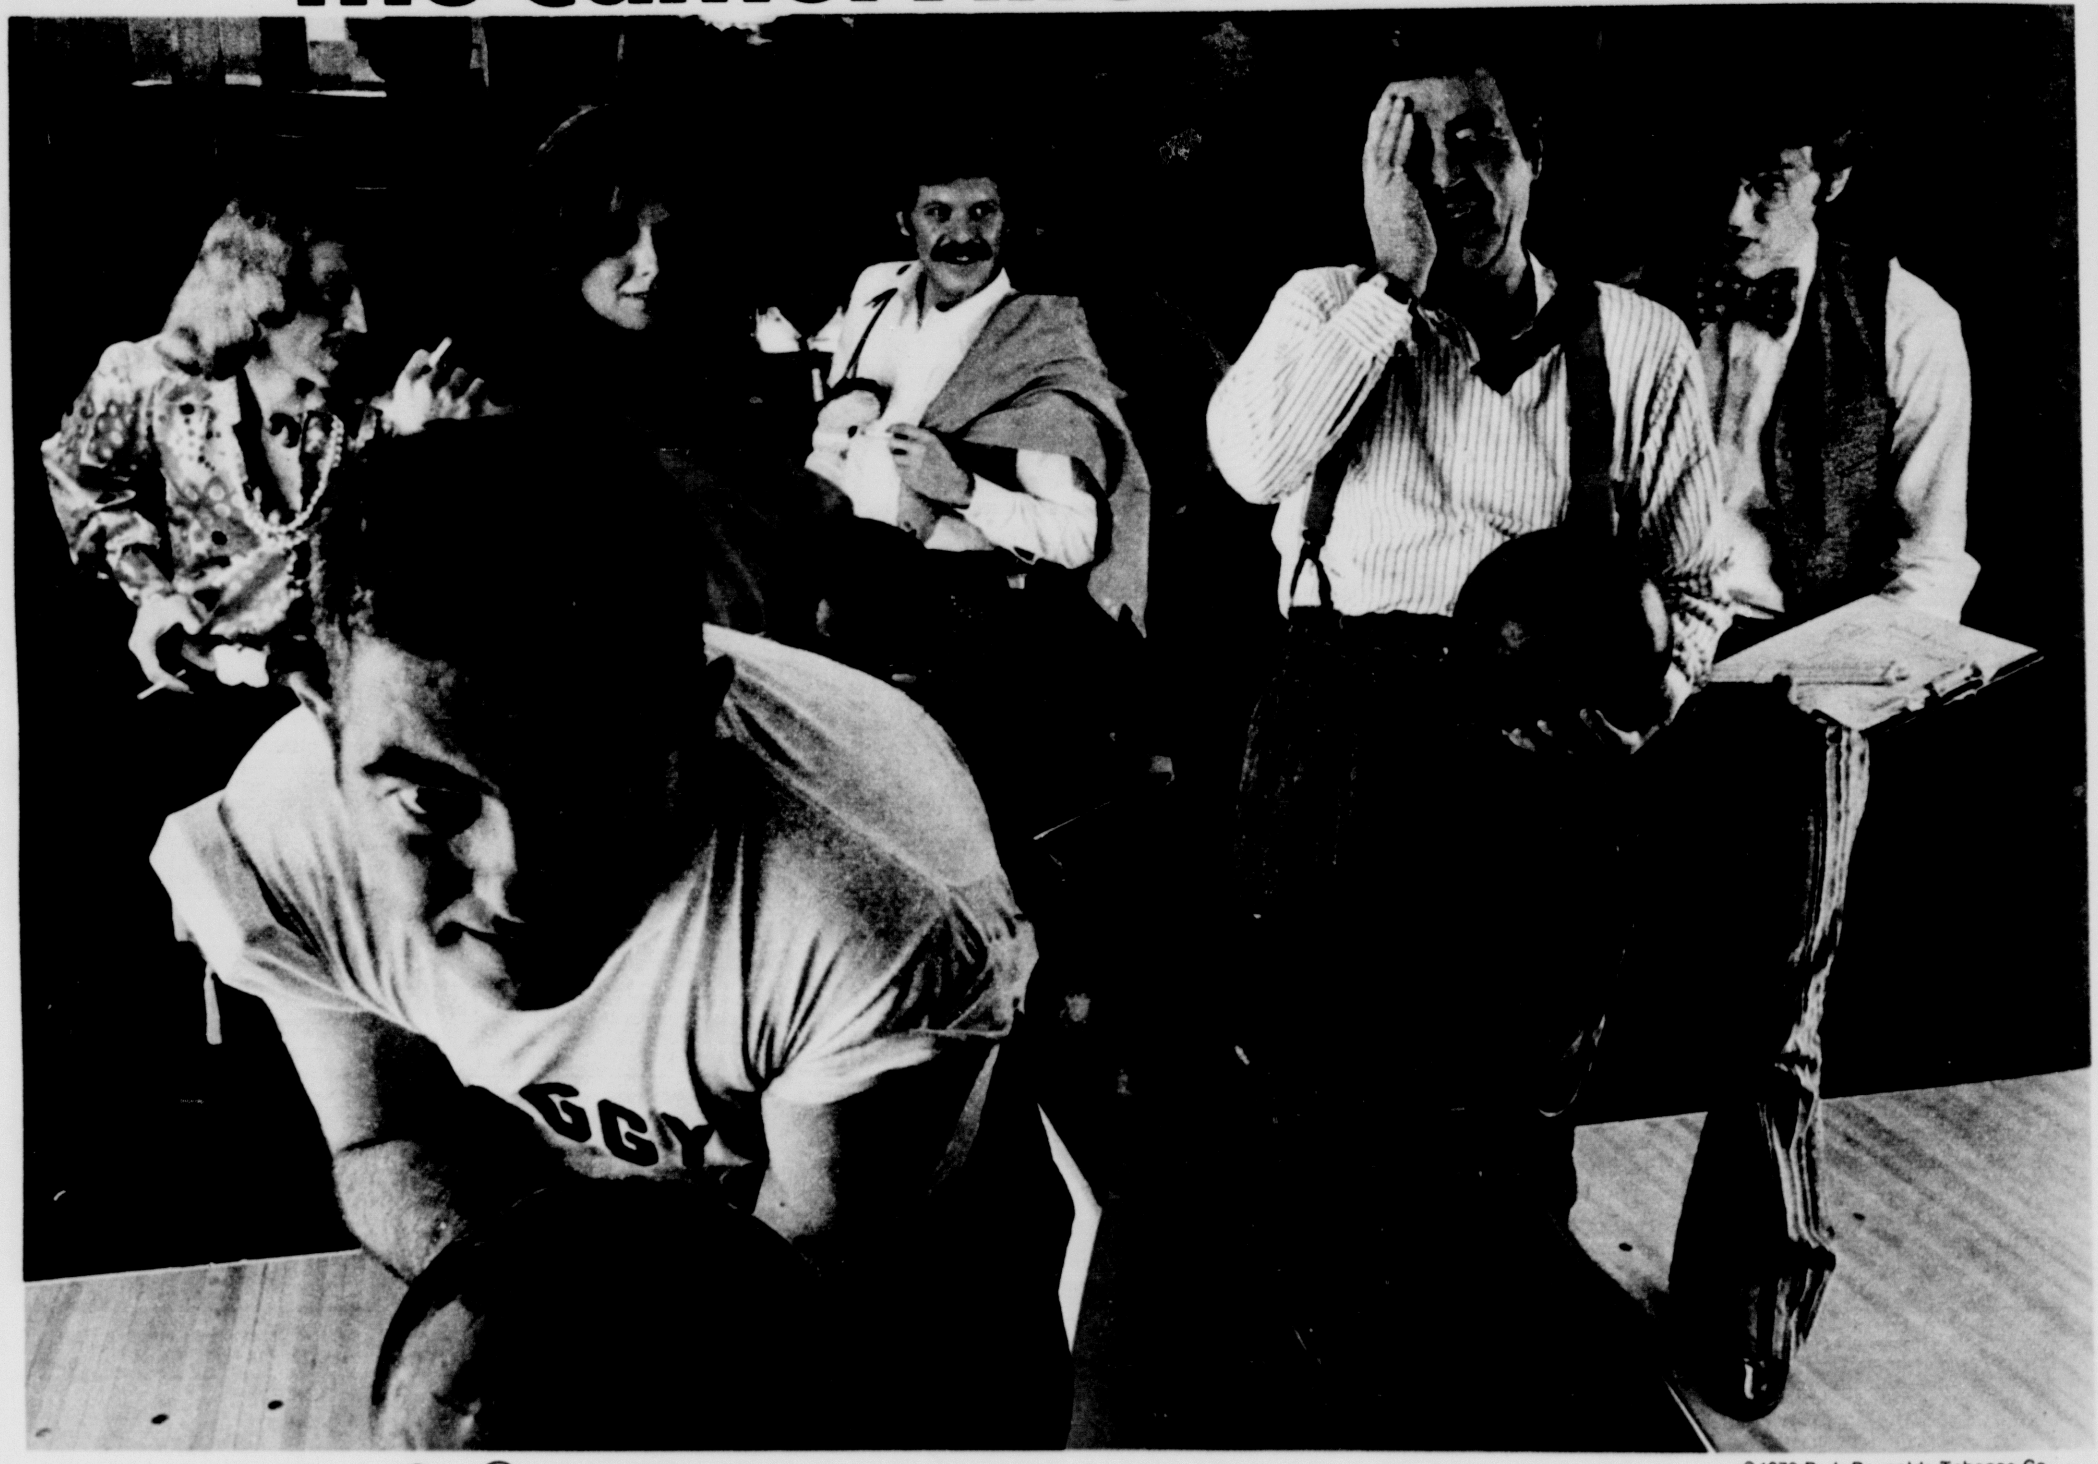
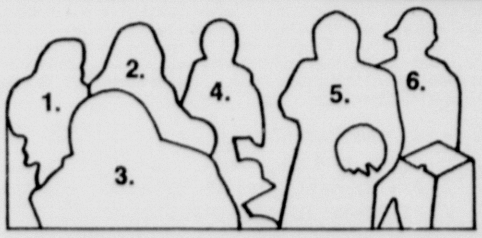
Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?



© 1973 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.



In this picture, everybody has a gimmick . . . almost everybody. Try picking the one who doesn't go along. 1. No way. He's Gerry Atric, over-the-hill hippie. Irons his hair twice daily. Cigarettes taste just as flat. Gimmick: Watching bowling pins "do their own thing, man." 2. Naomi Glowsoul. Gimmick: Uses so much body english that police have raided the place four times. 3. Nope. It's Angie "The Arm" Kugelman. Throws so hard three automatic pinsetting machines have quit. Smokes cigarettes so heavily filtered, he's like a man giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to a rock. 4. Right. He just likes bowling, not gimmicks. Likes his cigarette honest and no-nonsense, too. Camel Filters. Easy and good tasting. 5. Zooty Smith. Gimmick: Has worn same good luck clothes since he broke 125 in 1942. Smokes war surplus cigarettes and saves the tinfoil. 6. Whiz Kid Pringle. Developed math formula to bowl a perfect strike. Unfortunately releases ball on backswing.

Models have perfect faces, and there isn't a thing you can learn from them, right? Wrong! Like all of us, they're not at their best in the morning—until they "put on" their faces. Let top model Sunny Griffin show you what she had to learn the hard way!

You Can Correct Your Facial Flaws (Top Models Do!)

By Rosalyn Abrevaya, Women's Editor

"Before." Cover girl Sunny Griffin looks like this until she "corrects" her features with makeup.

You may not care that you weren't born with an aquiline nose, sculpted chin and prominent cheekbones – the ultimate model. But if you've ever had a hankering to improve your looks, what a malevolent delight to discover that top fashion models have feature imperfections! Sunny Griffin (left), a super-model known for her perfect girl-next-door face, says that often people don't even realize she's a model unless she's had 15 minutes with her makeup bag of tricks. "On my first job, I arrived an hour early without any makeup and sat down quietly in a corner waiting for someone to tell me what to do. Nothing happened. Then I heard the photographer frantically calling my agency to complain that 'the model' hadn't arrived yet. I was too embarrassed to tell him it was me! I never appeared without some corrective makeup again."

Sunny describes her problems as "chronic dark circles around my eyes, flat cheekbones, a bump on the bridge of a too-long nose, prominent chin, sparse eyelashes and an uneven skin tone sprinkled with freckles." Here's how, working with Wayne

"After." Sunny's vibrant good looks emerge, the result of beauty strategy that minimizes dark circles, flat cheekbones and an uneven skin tone sprinkled with freckles. Turn the page to see how it happens.

A "Map" of Sunny's Makeup Magic

Franken from Coty, Sunny makes up her perfect photo-face. She uses several shades of a rich protein foundation and cream blusher.

1) To hide dark circles around her eyes, she applies a very pale flesh tone (but not white—it looks too owlish).

2) To even skin tone, cover freckles and the occasional blemish, a shade of foundation that perfectly matches her complexion is applied. (Sunny always tests her makeup near a window to see how it looks in clear daylight.)

4) To sculpt a perfect jawline, the dark foundation is applied in broad strokes under the chin.

5) To fix that too-long bumpy nose, she uses dark foundation down both sides and under the tip.

6) To dramatize eyes, Sunny uses brown eyebrow pencil blended along top and bottom lashes and shaped in an arch across the hollow of the eye. (She recommends the pencil for eye liner because it has a softer line and is easier to control.)

7) To make the most of skimpy lashes, Sunny applies coats of mascara alternated with pats of powder, which acts as a fixative.

8) For an appealing mouth, a light daub of the darker makeup shade is applied just under the center of the lower lip. (Check your makeup again after you've dressed, advises Sunny. The rouge that may have seemed too bright – after applying mascara, eye shadow and lipstick–may need heightening.)

"An important part of my beauty routine," Sunny tells us, "has nothing to do with makeup at all." First, she always thoroughly cleanses and moisturizes her face morning and night. Second, she's a fanatic about health and exercise. Eating a balanced diet is one of her chief tenets. Here's her prescription: "My working-day breakfast, which I never skip, is high in protein. I make an eggnog of skim milk and egg, and add fresh fruit, when available, or vanilla flavoring. With this, I have one slice of whole wheat toast with honey, no butter, and drink decaffeinated coffee. Lunch? I carry it with me. I tote raw carrots and celery, sometimes with a bit of spicy dip, a piece of cheese and an apple. This way I get protein and crunch. Dinner is usually fish. (My only problem there is that my husband hates it!) Snacks? I never keep sweets in the house–they're too irresistible. But I do indulge in a candy bar occasionally so I won't feel deprived." Sunny has a complete physical every year and exercise is a way of life with her. She skis, plays tennis and works out in a gym. "I never ride when I can walk," she adds, "and I try to walk at a blood-circulating pace."

3 Tricks Professional Models Use

1. The best trick for making lips "sparkle": super-frosted lipstick or, over your favorite lip color, a finishing touch of petroleum jelly.
2. If you forget all makeup rules, remember this one: A corrective dark daub diminishes flaws or helps them recede (as in creating attractive cheekbone hollows), and a light makeup application enhances (as in pastel eye shadow to bring out small eyes). The only exception: the lip area–dark lipstick will draw attention to a wide mouth. Reverse the rule here.
3. Three tiny dots of blue mascara or moistened blue brow pencil placed at the lower outer edge of the eye will bring out the whites of your eyes.

The ABC's of Hand Care

Good nails, on well-kept hands, are an essential touch of beauty. But they're not easy to come by! Many nails are needy and show it in splits, breaks and other troublesome signs of weakness. How to get them in shape?

First, your diet. If you have vitamin, calcium or protein deficiencies, they'll show up in unhealthy looking nails. Check with your doctor; then you might supplement your diet with a daily vitamin or a packet of gelatin.

Do try to spend 20 minutes once a week grooming your nails, taking the opportunity to treat hands and arms to a brisk cream massage. Between manicures, use a terry-cloth towel to gently push cuticles back each time you wash your hands. Use hand lotion and nail-cuticle cream to nourish the cuticle down where the nail takes root. If your nails are too soft, you'll find nail hardeners on the market, some fortified with protein.

Other helps: buffing or massaging the fingers toward the tip to improve circulation. Remember that the cold winter weather has a definite effect on your nails. They become more brittle in winter and therefore need extra-special care.

Start your own "nail security system." Always carry a small emery board in your purse for on-the-spot repairs. Don't use your nails as tools! Use the end of a pencil to dial the phone. Grasp objects especially hairpins, with the cushions of your fingers. Pry open the tops of containers with kitchen gadgets. Cover up your hands with rubber gloves when you do your heavy household cleaning jobs such as hand-washing clothes, painting or cleaning silver. Turn light switches off and on and push elevator buttons with your knuckles rather than your nails.

The fact is that, by practicing a little "nail consciousness" every day, you can manage to get away with spending a minimum of time and effort on basic care—and still have beautiful hands to show for it.

At 38, I got rid of 10 pounds and my gray hair, and went to work for a decorator.

Over the past few years I'd gotten a little fatter and a little grayer. Year by year. Maybe because my husband loved me too much. But deep down I knew. And here I was nearing 40.

Before when I'd had these feelings I'd work it off cleaning a closet or something. This time I knew I had to renew myself. It was painful but I went looking for a job.

I decided one thing I didn't need was gray hair. Every time I looked in the mirror it was depressing. That gloomy gray-brown color just wasn't me!...

I didn't want to use a peroxide dye though. I wouldn't touch my hair till I found out about Loving Care® lotion. It's not a permanent tint or dye. It's a gentle color wash.

It's different from most all other haircolor brands because it doesn't have peroxide! And it doesn't change your own natural color. Just the gray goes away.

Now I'm doing things. I like myself. And who knows what's ahead! I feel as a person I've only just begun and forty is going to be fabulous!

How to Give Yourself a Perfect Manicure

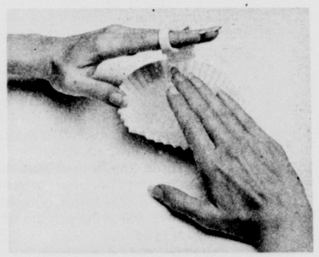
There probably isn't a woman alive who wouldn't enjoy the luxury of a professional manicure once a week, but few have the time, the money or a convenient salon. Here's how to succeed on your own, illustrated by the experts at Cutex.

Begin by removing every last trace of polish with polish remover, using cotton in a gentle outward stroke. Then rinse fingertips.

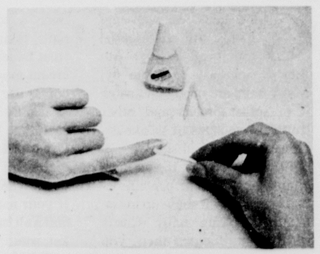
With an emery board, filing in one direction toward the center, shape your nails, aiming for a medium length (about ¼ inch beyond fingertips) and a broad oval shape—best for resisting breaks and bruises.

For the most professional-looking manicure, angle the emery board at 45 degrees.

Then proceed as follows:



After shaping nails, bathe your hands in a warm, sudsy solution, gently scrubbing nails clean with a good hand brush.



Loosen cuticles by nudging them back with a manicure stick lightly wrapped in cotton and dipped in an oily cuticle remover. Then rinse with warm water.

Three strokes—that's all it should take to apply a coat of polish perfectly. Always polish your handiest hand first, leaving the less dextrous one bare while it's working. Stroke number one goes down the middle of your nail; strokes two and three down each side. Always start at the base and work to the tip. Ward off disheartening smears by beginning the polishing process at the thumbnail and then working your way back from the pinky to the index finger. Two coats of polish usually do the trick. Allow one minute for the first coat to dry before applying the second. Finish with a final protective coat of "colorless" polish for extra shine and staying power.

The final, perfect manicure! For a neat finish, run a manicure stick tipped with cotton and dampened with polish remover along the outside of the cuticle and fingertip to clear away any smudges of polish.

How's Your Nail IQ?

Did you know that—

1. Use of a metal file can weaken and split nails (an emery board is recommended).
2. Nails should not be shaped too deeply at the corners. Pointed nails will break faster than oval-shaped.
3. Tobacco stains can be removed by rubbing the areas with a wedge of lemon or cotton soaked in hydrogen peroxide.
4. Digging your nails into a cake of soap before tackling a gardening chore will keep them cleaner, protect against breaking.
5. A complete new nail grows every three to five months—faster in summer than winter, faster on the right hand (if you're right-handed) and middle finger, and even faster during pregnancy.

Cucumber and Beauty

by ANA MAHER

Every woman, at some time in her life, faces the spectre of an aging skin. Most women never solve the problem, and finally become resigned. A fortunate few find the answer and are rewarded with a complexion that remains fresh and youthful all their lives.

Ten years ago, I had this skin problem. Nothing very serious, but when I took my mirror over to a bright light, I could detect evidence of dryness and tell-tale signs of advancing years. And I didn't like it. I knew that these were danger signals that warned of an aging skin.

I was also very bewildered. I had always taken the best care of my skin. And no matter what I did, my complexion showed no improvement. Finally I became resigned. After all, everybody gets older and most of us show our age.

Then one day I had a visit from an elderly widowed neighbor. This charming lady was about seventy, but she had the most beautiful, moist, youthful skin. I remarked about it and mentioned my own skin problem.

She told me she used a marvelous cream which had been formulated by her late husband, a physician, and that she made it herself. "Try it," she said, and then she left and returned with a jar of this cream.

So I tried using my neighbor's cream.

In only three weeks, I began to see a marked improvement. My skin was fresher, clearer, smoother. After two months, my former dry, dull skin was revitalized. My skin now had a youthful, almost translucent quality. I was thrilled with my neighbor's formula.

For six years, this kind lady kept me supplied with this cream. And I want to tell you that my skin was more vital and younger looking than it had been when I first started to use it, six years before.

Then my neighbor died suddenly—and with her went that wonderful cream and its secret ingredients. I was saddened by the loss of a good friend—and dejected by the loss of a miracle cream. Her family told me that her personal papers revealed no formulas of any kind. I was desperate. But I did have three jars left from the last batch she had made.

So I took the cream to one of the best known analytical cosmetic chemists. The cost of the analysis was enormous, but I got what I wanted. I had the wonder cream formula.

It had a base of pure cucumber juice, two super-moisturizers, three natural lubricants, and a special component to keep the cucumber juice fresh. My chemist told me that the formula consisted of only safe, pure ingredients—no hormones, estrogens or steroids.

I made a batch of cream for myself, following the chemist's instructions. Then my friends and relatives began using it. And in every case, the results were absolutely astounding.

Soon friends began insisting that the cream should be made known and available to all women, since the problem of aging skin is universal.

So my cream was put on the market four years ago, with the financial help of an uncle. It is called Cucumbre Frost.

The same wonderful results experienced by me, my friends and relatives were repeated time and time again by women all over the country. I have in my file hundreds of letters from grateful women telling of the remarkable results obtained with Cucumbre Frost.

Treatment is not a complicated ritual. I don't have time for that and the chances are you don't, either. You apply Cucumbre Frost at bedtime. Leave it on all night. It feeds, protects and nourishes your skin while you sleep.

I know what Cucumbre Frost can do for you. Therefore, I offer you this UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE. Try it. See for yourself in your own mirror how, after a few treatments, Cucumbre Frost helps revitalize dull, dry, aging skin. How, when used regularly, Cucumbre Frost helps facial skin to regain lost smoothness, moistness and freshness. Many women wrote me of astonishing results after only two weeks. Some take longer. But I say this to you: If, for any reason, you are not delighted with Cucumbre Frost—return the unused portion to me for a complete refund. No questions asked.

You have the opportunity to have a vital, youthful, lovely skin—at no risk. Cucumbre Frost can be purchased only by ordering it directly from me. Simply fill out the coupon and mail today.

Medicine Chest: At-a-Glance Bulletins from the Changing World of Medical Science...

By Erwin DiCyan, Ph.D.

CAN SENILITY BE CURED? Yes . . . maybe. . . . In the past, senility has been treated with drugs. But now there's evidence that some senility, in early stages, can be helped by adequate nutrition. Given the proper vitamins, minerals, trace minerals (minerals needed in minute quantity), and food that is thoughtfully prepared, some so-called senile symptoms are often much reduced. One secret: Older people need an adequate caloric intake, but carbohydrates should be reduced and proteins increased. This is according to Dr. T. G. Taylor of the University of Southampton in England. Another thing to watch for – dental problems. Older people's dentistry must be maintained to assure a varied diet.

DO "ANTACIDS" REALLY WORK? Consumer interests often claim that medicines advertised on TV are ineffective and that some are even dangerous. Not so. The majority probably serve a good purpose. For example, a recent article in the "Journal of the American Medical Association" by Drs. Daniel Hollander and John Harlan reports that antacids (such as those on TV commercials) are effective in helping to heal and relieve stomach ulcers. Of course, many doctors have prescribed antacids that way for years. Still, it's good to keep in mind: "Consumerism" is one thing, cynicism is another.

SON OF VITAMINS C AND E? Vitamin B_6 may be the next rage after vitamins E and C. Watch for it. Another name for B_6 is pyridoxine. B_6 has a number of functions, including protection of the nervous system against convulsions. A few years ago, cases were reported in which, in the processing of a baby food, B_6 was lost. The babies fed with that food developed convulsions. In a recently published book ("Vitamin B_6– The Doctor's Report," by Drs. John Ellis and James Presley, Harper & Row, N.Y.), B_6 is reported to be useful for impaired circulation, rheumatism and nerve affections of the hands. But more study is needed.

A NEW FLU. The influenza virus has a new look this year. Last year's flu shot alone will probably not protect you. The new flu is the old Hong Kong flu with a face-lift–the same, but different enough to make a new protective shot advisable. The new flu vaccine is given a few weeks after the customary flu shot. With the energy shortage this winter, heating may be low. Assuming that this makes one more susceptible to the flu (a point on which there is controversy among doctors), it is doubly advisable to protect older people and those with respiratory problems or chronic heart disease. Warning: Since these vaccines are cultured in eggs, those allergic to eggs should avoid them.

DENTISTRY MOVING UP? Look for dentistry to move in the direction of general medicine. A relatively new concept called stomatology looks at the mouth as a kind of mirror of the body. Certain signs in the mouth, such as changes in color, or the presence of spots, can indicate a serious medical condition – leukemia, cancer, jaundice. Even measles shows its signs in the mouth before a general rash occurs (spots inside the cheeks, called Koplik's spots). What it all means: increased status for dentists (and perhaps higher bills?).

CYCLAMATES MAY RETURN. Remember three years ago when the sweetening agent, cyclamates, were ordered off the market in one weekend? Many scientists disagreed with that step. They did not believe cyclamates harmful. Since then, a dozen different studies in many parts of the world have indicated cyclamates got a bum rap. The manufacturer who sponsored those studies, Abbott Laboratories of North Chicago, Ill., has made a formidable 15-volume petition to the FDA to restore cyclamates to the market. A decision should be forthcoming soon.

DOCTORS AFRAID OF DRUGS? Doctors fear drug addiction so much that they are reluctant to prescribe adequate doses of narcotics even for people who need them. This is the finding of a survey by Drs. Richard M. Marks and Edward J. Sacher of Albert Einstein College of Medicine. The survey found "a pattern of undertreatment of pain . . . leading to widespread and significant patient distress." This sometimes takes on strange and illogical forms, such as the fear of some doctors to give generous pain relief to terminal-cancer patients because it might addict them. Or take LSD. Experiments show that LSD comforts patients dying of cancer and enables them to face death with little or no distress. Still, doctors refuse to use it. LSD has bad connotations. This is the kind of thing critics point to when they complain Americans are not being allowed to "die with dignity."

TWO NEW CANCER TESTS. (1) You'll be hearing more of CEA (which stands for carcinoembryonic antigen) as a test for cancer. Developed by Drs. Phil Gold and S. O. Freedman of Montreal, the test is particularly promising for finding cancer of the gastrointestinal tract—the digestive system. It's not as useful for other cancers. The test is done by taking a blood sample from patients and putting it in contact with serum from rabbits who have been injected with serum from known cancer patients. The amount of CEA, if found, is calculated. This determines likelihood of cancer. (2) Up till now, breast cancer has usually been confirmed by a biopsy taken under general anesthesia. A small portion of the breast is surgically removed and examined. When the material is found to be malignant, the breast is often removed while the patient is still under anesthesia—with the patient having the shock of waking up minus a breast. Now there is a simpler method. The biopsy can be made on material that is drawn out of the breast by a needle. This does not require general anesthesia and the results can be had in an hour.

One of the "little old ladies" who uses Silk & Silver.

Eighth in a series:

She's Betty King Barker, industrial designer who can list among her credits 4 careers, 3 grandchildren, 2 sons, and 1 husband. She also manages to find time for tennis, golf and looking after her good looks. To keep her silvery hair bright and beautiful, she uses Silk & Silver, Clairol's long lasting color lotion in Silvery Pearl* #14.

"So easy," says Mrs. Barker, "I just shampoo it in every few weeks—it colors away the yellow, adds lots of body and wonderfully rich deep color." And it has no peroxide.

Mr. Barker approves. "Gray hair looks so young on Betty."

George Peppard, TV's "Banacek":

"My Temper Is Like the Onslaught Of the Ice Age"

George Peppard arrived for breakfast looking like George Peppard is expected to look: his nearly white hair neatly cropped (he started graying at 30), wearing a white tennis outfit and a healthy tan that made his eyes look an even lighter blue. His attitude was one of studied serenity and patience. His voice: low and perfectly modulated. In short, he seemed totally in control of himself. Yet somehow it was like sitting next to a flawless bottle—with the cork ready to blow.

FAMILY WEEKLY: You have the reputation of being very self-confident and very self-sufficient. Do you consider yourself a loner?

PEPPARD: I probably am. But to say I'm a loner is like talking about the weather—what can you do about it? It exists. Period. And I don't consciously think of myself as that. It's only an exterior observation of myself.

FW: Do you feel this is a good attitude?

PEPPARD: Not especially. It certainly is a handicap in relating with other people.

FW: Does being an actor have anything to do with your feeling aloof?

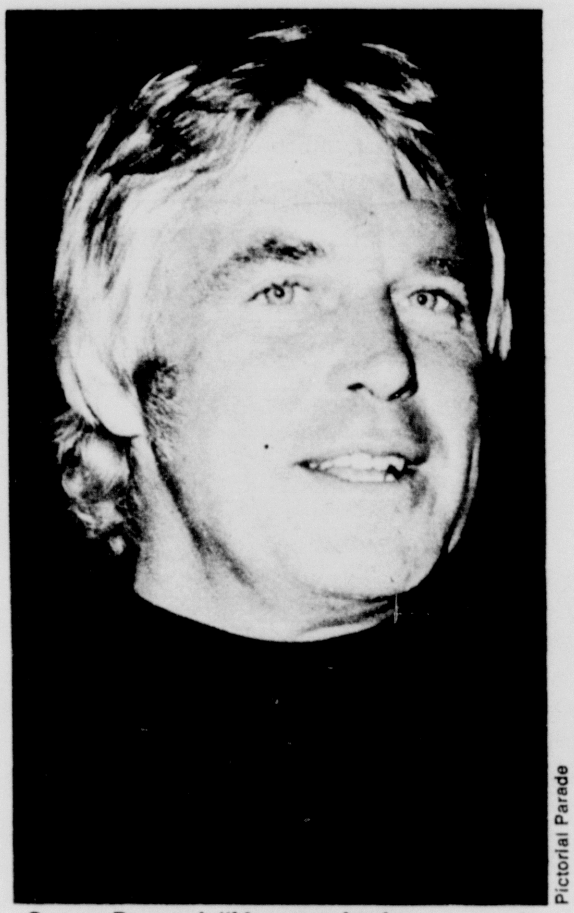
PEPPARD: Being in this business—and famous—automatically isolates you. The work itself creates this because you spend 12 hours a day secluded on location or on a sound stage, and you're never in contact with anyone. Also, the hours prohibit socializing, so you don't meet new people. There's simply no opportunity.

FW: You were an only child. Do you think that caused you to be a loner?

PEPPARD: Probably, to some extent. But not wholly. It was also because of the way my parents were. They had a greater sense of privacy than most people. They kept things in the family. There were certain things they didn't talk about to others. I'm also a private person.

FW: How does it show?

PEPPARD: For instance, I don't allow any pictures to be taken in my home. Ever. And no pictures of the children—you know, the typical "at home with the kiddies" thing. [Editor's note: Peppard has two children—Bradford, 18, and Julie, 14—by his first wife, Helen Davies. He has another son—Christian, six—by his second wife, Elizabeth Ashley, from whom he is also divorced.] Naturally, the children are familiar with publicity, and I think nothing of taking them to tennis tournaments where flashbulbs pop off all the time. But that's different. I keep my business separate from my private life.



Pictorial Parade

George Peppard: "I keep my business separate from my private life."

"Please understand, and let me make this clear: I have no complaints! In talking frankly and honestly, there is the danger that I sound grudging. I am not. I picked the profession, they pay me well, and by my own choice I want to stay in it!"

FW: You seem to have extraordinary self-control. Don't you ever get angry?

PEPPARD: I suppose I bottle it up to some extent. I don't often get angry. I don't want to, because when I do, I get very angry.

FW: How does it show?

PEPPARD: It's been described as "the sudden onslaught of the Ice Age."

FW: Then how do you let off steam?

PEPPARD: Tennis helps. I really enjoy it. And I feel good afterward, even though I'm tired.

FW: Do you have any other ways of getting rid of your anger?

PEPPARD: I can sublimate my anger by listening to music. I love classical music. My mother was a music teacher at UCLA. Besides, I don't get angry as much as I used to. I'm 44 now, and I've matured. I used to be neurotic about things that didn't really matter.

FW: Did you ever undergo analysis?

PEPPARD: Yes, several years ago.

FW: What made you do that?

PEPPARD: How shall I put it? I'll have to be more verbal than I want to be, I think, to try to explain. When you're unhappy, and there's no realistic reason for it, or when you find your desires are being frustrated, and you're the reason for it—then you realize you need help.

FW: So you believe in analysts.

PEPPARD: I don't believe in all analysts. You have to have a good one—one you can communicate with. I tried six analysts before I got one I could communicate with. In fact, I'd tried to undergo analysis twice before. I failed. A lot of so-called "analysts" just hand you all of their problems and inadvertently compound yours. That's what happened to me.

FW: If you work all day, then go directly home, isn't that tiring—and frustrating? And didn't frustrations cause you to become neurotic in the first place?

PEPPARD: Yes, yes, you're right. Frustrations do build up. For example, in relating to a woman: If you live with a woman, she alleviates some frustrations for you. Or rather, she can, if it's a good relationship. If not she only increases them and becomes a party to them.

FW: Would you want your children to become actors?

PEPPARD: I would not strongly oppose anything they wanted to do. But the two older youngsters are not that interested in acting, having witnessed the effects and consequences of the profession.

FW: If you feel this way about show business, why do you remain in it?

PEPPARD (quickly): Please understand, and let me make this clear: I have no complaints! In talking frankly and honestly, there is the danger that I sound grudging. I am not! I picked the profession, they pay me well, and by my own choice I want to stay in it! In fact, I have my own company, Long Rifle Production Company, and I am looking forward to directing before long.

FW: Let me change the subject a minute. What do you think of Women's Lib?

PEPPARD: It has some good points. I think women should have equal political, wage and job opportunities. I think we have to recognize women as "people."

FW: But what about women in your life? Wouldn't you like to get married again?

PEPPARD: Yes. . . .

FW: You don't sound convinced.

PEPPARD: Being married to an actor who works as hard and as long as I do is a difficult job. And that's what it has to be—a full-time job!

How your Horoscope can bring you wealth, love, success and happiness.

by Norman P. Kennedy

Did you know your horoscope could mean the difference between happiness or sorrow; between success or failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this room there are money, attractive persons of the opposite sex, books that tell you the secret of happiness and many other valuable articles. But, also in this room are bottomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous beasts chained in various places around the room. You must walk through this room, but you may take out of it anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to 1) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the room with your eyes open and with written instructions on which places and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a case such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would choose to go through life, the same situation, blindfolded! Even when there is a means to go through life with a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided is Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of us at the time of birth – when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

What does a natal horoscope analysis by a qualified astrologer contain? A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. Because, in a controlled experiment in 1960, astrologers beat psychologists in predicting case histories.

In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family, relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. In a major analysis, a one year forecast is also included.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people. Famous scientists Galileo, Carl Jung, Johannes Kepler, Roger Bacon, Tycho Bache and Albert Einstein all believed in astrology.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time.

Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the allies win World War II? The allies employed astrologers. The axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

Hitler turned back to astrology – too late. He read his horoscope in the last moments of the war as Berlin burned around him.

More on avoiding disaster, came these stories from a recent article in the Miami Herald newspaper. The article tells the story of Mary Kelly, a Miami computer programmer, who heeded the advice of her horoscope which warned her of a wrong medical diagnosis. She avoided an unnecessary operation that would have left her a cripple.

The Miami Herald also tells the story of astrologer Clifford McMullen, who is George McGovern's personal astrologer. He warned McGovern that if he ran for president, that he would win the Democratic nomination, but he would lose badly to President Nixon in the November election.

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon, J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From an article in the Miami Herald came this story:

"Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75 year old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide."

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Jackie Kennedy predicted their current successful marriages, Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier and Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis.

Princess Grace and Prince Rainier have recently had their horoscopes done together by American astrologer, Keith Clayton. As with these famous people, your horoscope can help you find and keep a lasting and meaningful love relationship.

Now and through the ages a good natal horoscope analysis has meant success for many people. In other cases many men have missed their opportunity; some with tragic consequences, such as Adolf Hitler.

Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process – FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

HOW TO GET YOUR NATAL HOROSCOPE FOR ONLY THE COST OF MAKING COPIES.

by John F. Ford

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have duplicate copies of your horoscope for only $3.00 – the cost to make your copies plus postage and handling costs. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process – FREE, because of the fact that we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of nine pages and over 3,000 words. Your natal horoscope will contain your psychological analysis plus a discussion of the following: your lovelife; financial outlook; marriage, family and children relationships; career and occupations; hopes, wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. A horoscope of this type would cost up to $300 if done by an astrologer.

I will cast your horoscope with the help of our 360 - 65 I.B.M. computer, which contains over 24 million bits of information. Your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in daily newspapers. Your natal horoscope will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone.

THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH. I need this information for my astrological research. I am looking for certain planet configurations. If you are chosen as a research subject, I will mail to you a research questionnaire. If you fill out and return this questionnaire, you will be entitled to extra bonuses.

There is no need to worry about find-ind out about an unavoidable coming disaster thru your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

To get your horoscope thru this special opportunity, simply fill out the research computer form and mail to the address given on the form. Include the $3.00 copy cost for each horoscope or charge your credit card. There is a limit of two per family. If you don't know your exact time of birth, fill in 12:00 PM.

If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, president, The American Astrological Association. Telephone me at (216) 478-2171. Thank you!

COMPUTER DATA ENTRY FORM - PLEASE PRINT

I submit my birth data for research. I am now eligible to promptly receive my 3,000 word natal horoscope for only a $3.00 cost to make my duplicate copy. One or two names from my household may be submitted. (Limit of 2 - no exceptions)

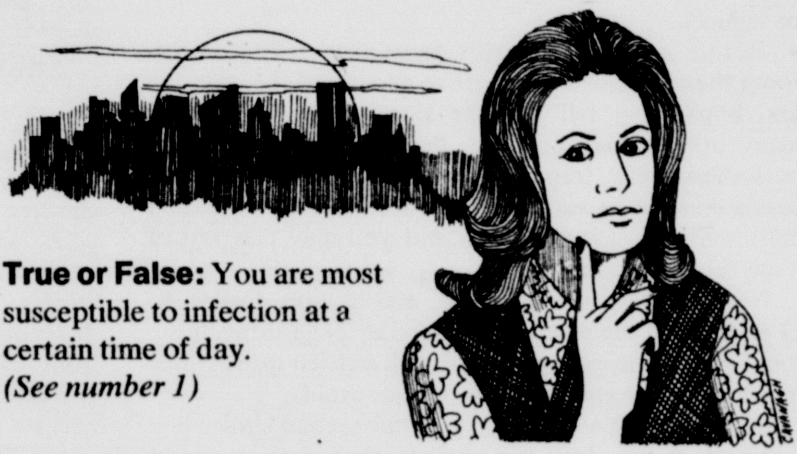
People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

The Weird Ways We React to the Time of Day



True or False: You are most susceptible to infection at a certain time of day. (See number 1)

Things are different at one time of the day than another. Just how different may surprise you. This True-or-False quiz goes into it.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. You are most susceptible to infection at a certain time of day.

2. There are two times in the day when most people's "mental clock" works almost as well as the one on the wall.

3. There's a best time of the day to take medicine.

4. If something of importance has temporarily slipped your mind – a name, where you've put something, or whatever–there's a best time of day to try to remember it.

5. There's even a best time of the day to get rid of household pests–such as flies and roaches.

ANSWERS

1. True–according to the recent findings of a team of specialists at the University of Southern California School of Medicine, which showed that susceptibility to infection–particularly colds and respiratory ailments–is appreciably greater in the late afternoon than at any other time of day. The study showed that a substance secreted by the body–secretory immunoglobulin-A (IgA)–exerts a major protective function against contagion and disease. The body produces this substance in the most generous amounts between midnight and 8 a.m., with production at the lowest ebb from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.

2. True–according to research findings cited in a National Institute of Mental Health study. Investigators had asked hundreds of people to tell them what time it was without looking at a clock. When the results were evaluated, it was found that people's time sense "was most accurate between 8 and 10 a.m. and again around 4 p.m. During midday, people typically misjudged the time, thinking that it was earlier; while at the end of the day they assumed that the hour was later."

3. True. Research sponsored by the U.S. Public Heath Service reports that medications taken at one time of day can have far more beneficial results–with fewer side effects–than if taken at another time. Laboratory tests showed that drugs administered at one hour of the day produced undesirable effects in 78 percent of the cases. When dosage was administered at another hour, undesirable effects occurred only eight percent of the time. The best time of day to take a given medication depends both on the type of medicine and the person's individual response to the drug.

4. True. The best time is during a rest period, when you're stretched out on a lounge or easy chair. Studies show that your memory processes function most effectively when you're as relaxed as possible–mentally as well as physically.

5. True. Don't laugh, we're not kidding. There is a best time of day to rid your house of such pests. It's four o'clock in the afternoon. In studies conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, scientists discovered that insecticides are much more effective on flies and roaches in the late afternoon than they are at any other time during the 24-hour period. How did the scientists find this out? They studied the insects' daily biological rhythms, sprayed them with insecticides under controlled conditions at various hours of the day and night, then collected mortality statistics. The time when the pests were found to be most susceptible to the insecticides was in the late afternoon.

WHY RIP UP YOUR LAWN? PLUG IN ZOYSIA GRASS

By Mike Senkiw

It's true the things people are saying about Amazoy Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass (Reg. T. M.).

It grows so thick and luxurious that walking on it is unforgettable . . . like walking on a thick, pile carpet.

Your Zoysia lawn drives out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It stays green and beautiful in blistering heat, when other grass burns out. It cuts mowing by ⅔ . . . it's perfect, for summer homes and "problem" areas.

There's no need to rip out your old grass. Plug in Amazoy Zoysia Grass and let it spread into beautiful turf that never needs replacement. It will neither heat kill nor winter kill . . . merely goes off its green color after heavy frosts and regains fresh new beauty every spring — a true perennial! Every plug fully guaranteed to grow in any soil in your area.

Those Horrid Age Spots

"I was so embarrassed, I had tea with my gloves on."

"Then I found Esoterica. The medicated cream that works below the skin's surface, in the pigment-forming cells, to help lighten and fade age spots and other darkened skin discolorations on hands and face.

In a matter of weeks, my skin looked younger and clearer."

Esoterica®
HELPS FADE EMBARRASSING AGE SPOTS.

advertisement

Now, a blunt promise by an eminent dermatologist:

Every cell of your face has a "clock" in it! Here's how to wind those clocks backwards!

Revealed by an eminent dermatologist (see his word-by-word statement below): How, with the proper scientific instruction, you can literally stop the biological "clocks" in your skin . . . actually look ten to twenty years younger than your real age . . . erase wrinkles, blemishes and coarseness . . . and do it all using nothing more than such simple ingredients as water, soap, and (especially) salt!

This is, quite frankly, a vital message about what is perhaps the most revolutionary home-medical-guide ever published on facial care . . . facial beauty . . . renewed facial youth. Its results are so spectacular, its documentation is so overwhelming, and its methods are so vital to your future life that we must repeat, in full, two more quotes from its opening pages:

"As a matter of fact, we have only recently acquired the ability to really do something about the more serious changes in appearance that accompany aging . . .

"In the past, the average person stood very little chance of being able to look younger. Without wealth or the right genes, there was very little hope. The advent of modern skin care has changed all this. Now it is no longer necessary to pamper yourself or be born with good skin. The idle rich no longer have any advantage . . . the genes you inherit are no longer a limiting factor, because we can now compensate for even delicate, age-prone skin . . . Thanks to modern research, we now know what causes many of the unattractive problems that appear with age. With this kind of knowledge, we have been able to develop methods that are effective in combatting or solving these problems.

"The practical application of these methods can produce spectacular results. A person can easily look ten to twenty years younger than his or her actual age, and this can be achieved with a minimum of effort. My own interest in this subject was first stimulated by an eminent dermatologist who was one of my first teachers. He was not only an early advocate of these new methods, but he practiced them himself. The results were truly impressive. At almost eighty years of age, he appeared to be in his early fifties."

This, Then, Is The Startling New Promise That Lies Right At Your Fingertips! And Here Are The Discoveries That Are Going To Give It To You!

For example—

Age is no longer a barrier to a flawless complexion, because the outer layer of your skin never stops growing! And, if you learn the right way to utilize that growth, you may actually reverse the dreaded aging process, and grow younger-looking, not older.

The ultimate moisturizer! How it can eliminate moisture loss instantly, and actually repair the ravages caused by years of facial dryness.

The three insidious structural changes that create "old" skin, and how to stop each at its source.

For example, master this simple technique of protecting the all-important "inner layer" of skin from damage, and you will never need the services of a plastic surgeon.

How to keep the sun from turning your face into a wrinkled prune.

How to protect your skin against air pollution. (Otherwise, if you live in a big city, be prepared to have people guess you're ten years older than you really are.)

The Number One Rule for protecting your face against all the hazards of the environment. Follow it faithfully (see page 36), and when your friends look as old as Methuselah, you'll hardly have changed at all.

Indisputable Proof That It Would Take A Century For Your Face To Look Old, If You Didn't Abuse It Like This . . .

How to "quick-clean" your face, so thoroughly, and so fast, that you take years off it, rather than put them on.

Invisible sources of skin inflammations and allergies, that may be ruining your complexion right now. In other words, how to practice modern acne therapy, right in your own home.

Why you may never have to spend a cent on commercial face-care products again. For two reasons: Because most of them are actually harmful to your skin (see list on page 67). And because none of them could ever do as much for that skin as the almost-costless preparations given to you on page 71.

For example, the best daytime base in the world (and you should wear it every minute of every day, to keep the youth-force sealed in your skin) costs only 84¢ for a six-month supply. And the best night cream you can buy costs slightly more—about 91¢ for a six-month supply.

And the best face mask in the world costs 9¢ a treatment.

And the best skin freshener probably costs a penny a day.

And not one of them contains a single ingredient that will unknowingly age your face, or dry out your face, or irritate your face. All they do is pull the filth out of that face, at the same time they seal in the youth.

But What About The Old Skin That's Marring Your Face Right Now? What Do You Do About It? THIS—

Here, on page 72, is (in our opinion at least) the really startling breakthrough in facial care in this generation. It is called, "Skin Thinning". It takes about two minutes of your time a week, and it costs about 3¢ a treatment. It's basic ingredient is salt. Plain ordinary table salt. But used in such a way that it almost instantly cuts down wrinkles. Opens clogged pores. Helps prevent age spots and whiteheads. May actually have your husband cooing with delight the very first day you use it.

And there's still more—much more—like this:

The "Young-Face Style of Life". Or how to erase ten years from the look of your skin, simply by adjusting the way you work, play and sleep. (See page 112.)

How your skin can warn you of the insidious development of diseases of the heart, circulatory system, lungs, blood, thyroid, pancreas, sex glands, liver, kidneys and much more, all by simply knowing how to read the danger signals it sends out. (See page 105.)

Two easy solutions to hand and nail problems. (See page 140.)

How to save your hair. Why you must not overbrush it. The one overlooked cause of 99 per cent of all severe hair damage. A simple immediate test that tells you, for sure, the rate of hair loss. Why the wrong use of vitamins may be causing that loss. Medical methods (your husband will bless you when you show them to him) of really compensating for that ugly loss.

And Much Much More. At Last All You Need To Never Look Your Age Again! AND WE PROVE IT TO YOU WITHOUT YOUR RISKING A PENNY!

Remember! Good skin care is one of today's best bargains . . . nothing else gives you such a high return for such a small investment! But, YOU MUST BEGIN NOW! The effects of a long lifetime of neglect and abuse can NEVER BE COMPLETELY REVERSED! You owe it to yourself—and to that special man in your life—to return the No-Risk Coupon—TODAY!

PLUS THESE THREE THRILLING BONUS SECTIONS!

Break through all that misinformation and hocus-pocus surrounding the use of such ridiculously high-priced cosmetic additives as: royal jelly, placenta, hormones, cucumber, proteins, seaweed and all those countless other "miracle ingredients" that are simply causing you to squander your hard-earned dollars!

Correct structural changes that cause visible skin problems, prevent cellular build-up, dry, scaly patches, blackheads and blocked pores—forever—all without resorting to the services of a professional!

Learn the hidden dangers of sunlamps, crash-dieting, hot combs and curlers, bleach creams, silicone injections!

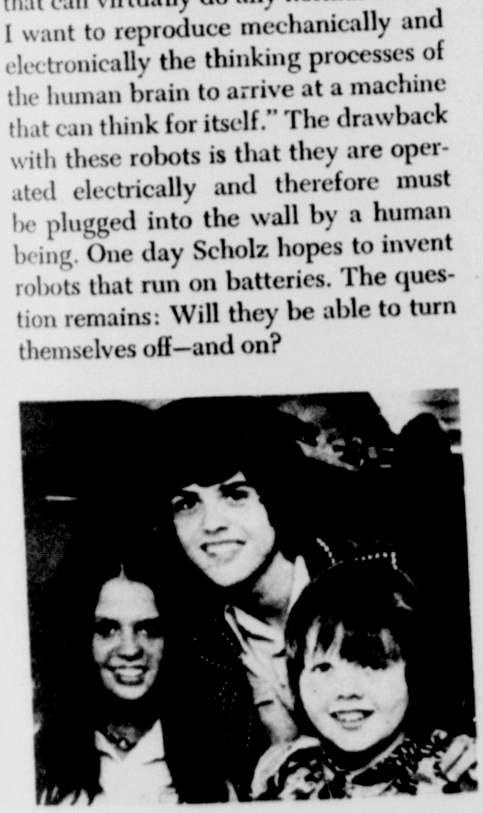
MR. AND MS. ROBOT
It's so hard finding help...

The answer to a liberated woman's dreams is a robot—especially one that pours tea. The two robots shown here were invented by Viennese engineer Claus Scholz. They can answer telephones, open doors, vacuum floors, shake hands, introduce themselves and pour liquids from one container to another without spilling a drop. "But this is only the start," says Scholz. "What I eventually want to build is a machine that can virtually do any normal chore. I want to reproduce mechanically and electronically the thinking processes of the human brain to arrive at a machine that can think for itself." The drawback with these robots is that they are operated electrically and therefore must be plugged into the wall by a human being. One day Scholz hopes to invent robots that run on batteries. The question remains: Will they be able to turn themselves off—and on?



DONNY OSMOND
With sister Marie, 14, and brother Jimmy, 10

It's the teenybopper idol's biggest problem: what to do when your voice begins to change. Donny Osmond, 15, is facing that problem now. Lloyd's of London may insure Betty Grable's legs or Van Cliburn's hands, but it won't insure a boy's voice—even when it's worth $1 million. Can a baritone find happiness in a tenor's world? Will girls still swoon? Will money keep rolling in? Who knows? But Donny's keeping a stiff upper tonsil. "I prefer my new voice to the old one," he said recently, as he and his family took off for six weeks' well-paid work in Las Vegas. "It's—I don't know—not as squeaky."

The college freshman wrote on his exam paper: "Rather than bluff, I'd like to confess that I didn't read the assignment." The professor returned his paper with a big red "F," but over it was a halo.

Recently we had company for dinner. While we were eating, our three-year-old daughter looked at them and said, "I love my mama. She can do everything. She's really smart." Her daddy said, "Well, what about me, Janis?" A puzzled look came over her face, then she replied, "Have you got a nickel?"

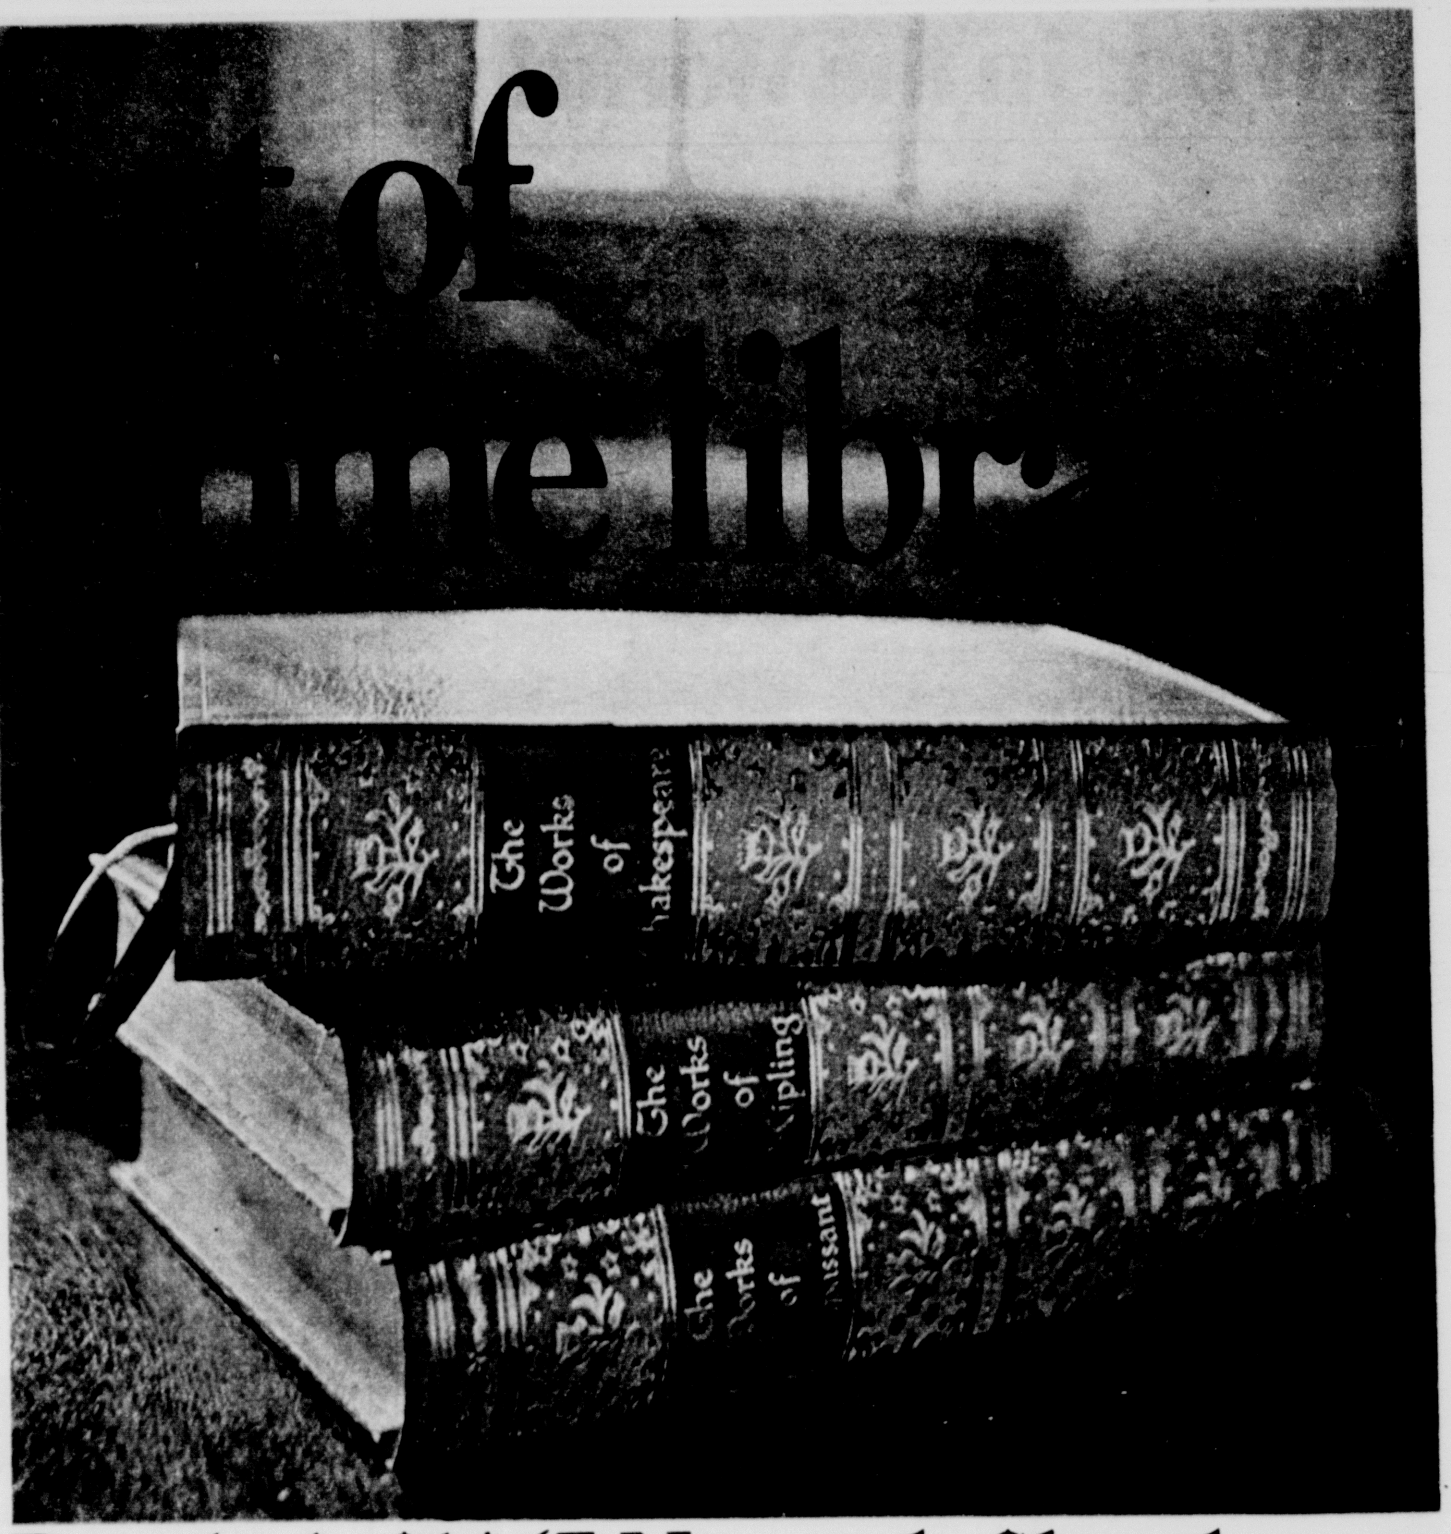
The st of a fine



Let us send you, for the token price of only $1 each, three books that have served as cornerstones in many a fine home library.

The complete works of Shakespeare

This beautiful 1300-page volume contains every word Shakespeare ever wrote. All 37 of his plays. All of his comedies, tragedies and historical dramas including Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet, Macbeth, etc. Also all of his poems and sonnets.

The works of Kipling

Actually eight books in one. A complete novel and 139 stories, ballads and verses loved the world over . . . including Fuzzy-Wuzzy, Mandalay, Gunga Din, The Phantom Rickshaw and others.

The works of De Maupassant

128 matchless tales by the greatest master of the short story the world has ever known. Every story complete and unexpurgated. Includes The Diamond Necklace, A Piece of String, The Will.

Each volume is clothed in a handsomely-tooled binding of antique ecru that has both the elegant look and feel of leather, a binding that should last a lifetime.

You will enjoy reading these books, just as millions before you have. Your friends will admire them, perhaps even envy you for owning them. And your children will gain a real advantage with books like these always close at hand.

Why do we offer you three books of this calibre for only $1 each?

We simply want to introduce you to our new Golden Giants Series. We think you will be impressed with the books we send you. And we hope you will want to own others in the Series, as they become available. They will include:

Hugo. 36 complete works including Hunchback of Notre Dame, A Woman of the Streets, The Souls, etc.
